TO PURIFY BAD WATER.

A large spoonful of pulverized alum, stirred into a hogshead of bad water, will so purify it that in a few hours the dirt will all sink to the bottom, and it will be as fresh and clean as spring water. Four gallons may be purified by a teaspoonful. The alum should be thoroughly pulverized.

Farmer's Calendar.

"How short the rapid months appear,
Since round this board we met,
To welcome in the infant year
Whose star hath now forever set!
Alas! as I around me look,
I think on more than I behold,
Then glassy curls in gladness shook
Which now are dead and damp and cold."

Fellow Citizens, once more I greet you with the customary salutation of the season, a happy new year, and warm with gratitude for the many attentions and favors which I have received from your liberal hand, and with hearty wishes for your prosperity and happiness, I transmit to you another message of wisdom and experience. What I have to ask of you is, that ye consider it well—that ye treasure up the sage precepts in your memories—but most of all that ye allow them to produce a salutary influence upon your lives. The very seasons as they go round afford abundant materials for instruction and improvement. The varying and successive pages of the great volume of nature which are daily unfolded before us present us the choicest lessons of wisdom, and should be studied with unwearied assiduity and care. Even when cold and icy winter rages and all the fields are mantled in white—when the trees are bared to the ruthless winds and the streams are all fettered in ice—when the fields are mute, save the sweep of the blast or the roar of the storm, and when the cold impress of death is enstamped upon all things still the tokens of the divine wisdom and goodness are every where displayed and amidst the desolations of beauty and strength the careful observer may trace the operations of that wonder working Providence which clothes the spring in its beauty and promise, and the autumn with its rich abundance.

Are you in debt to the collector, the industrious tradesman or laborer?—instead of gauzes and ribbons, take money enough to answer their demands. Are your windows broken?—repair them rather than buy crakers or wine glasses.

Onward, Time, still speed thy way;
Roll the Seasons swift away—
Bid the years to come and go—
Bid the tide of life to flow.

Farmer's Calendar.

" Silent is the insect hum,
Now the wintry time has come
Short and gloomy are the days;
Oft the storm roars round our dwelling;
How the snow fills up the ways!
List the winds, of sorrow telling;
Telling of the shivering of the poor,
O what hardships they endure."

The Romans represented time by an image with six wings, because it flew so very swiftly—and with feet made of wool, because its steps were so very softly, and with a head entirely bald, excepting a single lock of hair at the fore head. From this circumstance originated the phrase—"take time by the foretop"—for it had no locks behind. It had a scythe which cut down every thing in its rapid and perpetual course. Let us endeavour to realize the justness of these similitudes and let us remember that the art of using time properly is the art of becoming wise and happy. He who wastes time will be sure to want time.

Farmers and others are too apt at this season to consider their time as of no real value to them, because the weather will not permit them to pursue their usual avocations out a door, and hence it is frequently sauntered away in idleness. But man was not made to be idle, and he who is idle counteracts the design of his existence and sooner, or later will be convinced of it. Man is an intellectual as well as a sensitive being. He has not only a body to feed nourish and clothe, but he has a mind, which also has a claim upon his attention, and this is undoubtedly the most favourable season for mental culture. See to it then that ye be able to render a good account of your time and privileges.

Shell your corn, thresh your rye and wheat, and put it out of the way of the rats and mice. There is some merit in starving these obnoxious animals.—If all that these pilferers destroy, could be saved for benevolent purposes, the real objects of charity would be well supplied.

Bid the snows descend and spread
Carpets white o'er hill and mead;
Bid the Borean blast arise—
Toss the snows in wintry skies.

♀ Venus will be the evening star till the 17th day of May, thence morning star to the end of the year.

Farmer's Calendar.

Sturdy March returns again,
With winds and clouds and snow and rain;
But wintry cold, and snows will yield
And southern gales lay bare the field,
And soon again the lovely spring
Will to our clime return and bring
To every field, to every grove,
The joys of prime, the boons of love.

A strict attention to those things which can be attended to at this comparatively leisure season will prevent much perplexity and consequent neglect when a more hurrying season shall arrive. This is emphatically the season for getting in readiness for the great business of the year and as this is a season for selecting cattle, sheep, pigs and seeds for planting and sowing, let your choice invariably be guided by the following maxim—Choose those animals and vegetables to propagate from which have those qualities in the greatest perfection which you desire their offspring to possess.

The very reverse of this maxim is that which is commonly practiced. Farmers are too prone to sell the best because it brings a little higher price and reserve the poorest for propagation. No more effectual method of deterioration could be devised. Look now to your water courses—clear out obstructions, and change their direction if necessary, so as to distribute to the best advantage over your meadows. By a little attention to this particular you may often times derive great advantage from the wash of highways, barnyards and other receptacles of manure.

Let not those who have the means neglect the making of maple sugar if that article is cheap. The sugar made by farmers is usually so much clear gain, because it is made when little else would have been done to advantage, and besides all that it creates an independence which should not be a trifling consideration with our American farmers.

Let not the music of the spinning wheel cease for want of flax.

Bid the sun return and bring,
On his beams, the germ of spring;
Bid the snowy carpets yield—
To the sky lay bare the field.

Farmer's Calendar.

"Sweet is thy coming, Spring! and as I pass
Thy hedge-rows where from the half naked sprig
Peeps the sweet bud and 'midst the springing grass
The tufted primrose opens to the day;
My spirits light and pure, confess thy power
Of balmiest influence; there is not a tree
That whispers to the warm noon breeze
Or flower, but yields me joy.'

Among the first things which demand the farmer's attention in the spring are his fences. These should early be examined and be carefully and substantially repaired. It is an old adage that 'a stitch in time saves nine,' and I may add, it sometimes does ninety and nine. In fine in this very item of fencing, a little seasonable attention to making or mending, may save more loss and trouble than even Zerah Colburn, with all his wonderful powers would be able to calculate. Train them up in the way they should go, and they will not depart from it, is a maxim, which is no less applicable to your domestic animals, than to your children. Let your animals once be accustomed to break through or leap over their enclosures and it will be next to impossible to build a fence so strong or so high as to stop them; but make their enclosure such as effectually to restrain them at first and afterwards a very high fence will be sufficient.

Oats and other spring grain should be sown as soon as the ground is sufficiently dry to admit of the necessary preparation, and no time should be lost in getting out your manure and preparing your grounds for planting. Your gardens should likewise be attended to. Onions and parsnips and also beets and carrots for early use should be sown the latter part of this month. Negligence compels many a man to eat his beef and pork without sauce.

While the ground is soft, and the grass tender, do not let your cattle tread up the roots, or impede its growth by too early grazing. Give your pasture several weeks credit in the spring—it will repay you interest and principal in the summer.

O'er the earth spread milder skies;
Bid the flow'ry beauties rise;
Call a new creation from Regions of the wint'ry tomb.

Farmer's Calendar.

Those vernal showers that from on high
Descend, make earth more fresh and green;
Those clouds that darken all the air
Disperse and leave it more serene.
Thus those soft tears that for a while
Down sorrow's faded cheek may roll,
Shall sparkle thro' a radiant smile,
And speak the sunshine of the soul.'

Farmers at this time, if they are farmer's indeed, are really engaged in their business, but there is one point in which most of our farmers exceedingly err, and that is in attempting to till so large a quantity of land. It is a fact which cannot be controverted that four acres, closely fenced, well manured and kept clean & stirring, will produce more than ten acres in the common mode of fencing & tending. Moreover these four acres of ground will be enriched by the manure not absorbed by the crop of corn, so as to produce more grass, or grain the ensuing year, than the ten acres that were planted without, or with little manure. Add to this, the personal labor, loss of time, wear of implements, waste of seed and loss of flesh in horses and cattle, where ten acres are cultivated for the produce of four, and the balance in favour of tilling only a small portion of what it is usual to till, will appear surprisingly great. Farmers, just make an experiment of this kind—I have no doubt that you will be surprised at the result and will be able to turn it to your advantage.

Just reflect upon the amount of provision, which a good garden will afford towards sustenance, and see if it is prudent to neglect that at the present season. There are numerous little shreds and patches of time, which the farmer may supply in his garden to advantage and which would otherwise be entirely wasted. This is the season of confidence. This is the time when the husbandman manifests his trust in the promise that seed time and harvest shall not fail, and let it also be remembered that we are also assured that as we sow so shall we also reap.

Burst again the bonds of death,
Give to nature life and breath;
Bid a new creation rise—
To creep the earth—to mount the skies.

Farmer's Calendar.

See now the sun's returning light,
Away the transient clouds hath driven,
The rainbow with its colours bright
Spreads o'er the blue expanse of heaven;
The storm is hushed, the winds are still,
A balmy fragrance fills the air;
Nor sound is heard save some clear rill
Meandering through the vallies fair.

The book of nature is at all times laid open for the perusal of mortal man and every page of it is stored with the richest instructions, but like most other books some parts of it are written in a style more perspicuous and in characters more legible than others, but all parts are sufficiently plain to afford us a knowledge of the existence and character of its adorable author. Let the gloomy atheist go forth in the sun bright days of June and standing beneath the clear blue canopy of heaven surrounded with the wonderful works not made with hands, and his proud philosophy will be rebuked. Every leaf hath a tongue which utters arguments to confound him—the groves murmur wisdom surpassing the wisdom of finite man, and upon the very rocks there is a hand writing which triumphantly confutes the proudest arguments of scepticism.

While the energies of nature are thus alive and active around him, let man manifest his gratitude by his own activity and diligence in business. His garden, his cornfields, and a multiplicity of other objects now claim his attention. But it is only by doing one thing at a time and letting no waste of time intervene that he can have time to do all. He who strives to accomplish several things at once accomplishes nothing as he had ought. Regularity! regularity is the clue which will conduct you smoothly and safely through the labyrinth of business and prevent the disagreeable perplexity of always living in a hurry.

Let your fruit trees be attended to, and the nests of cattepillars be destroyed as soon as discovered. Soak your seed corn in a solution of salt petre.

Bid the hill, the dale, the grove,
Sound again the notes of love;
Bid the face of nature smile,
And the cares of life beguile.

Farmer's Calendar.

'Now the noon,
Wearied with sultry toil declines and falls
Into the mellow eve:—the west puts on
Her gorgeous beauties—palaces and halls
And towers all carved of the unstable cloud
Welcome the calmy waning monarch—he Sinks gently midst that glorious canopy
Down on his couch of rest.'

Now comes the day which reminds us of the period which tried men's souls, the birth day of a great and growing nation. Let us reflect upon the numberless advantages which flow to us in consequence of the transactions of this day, and contrast our own condition with that of the various nations scattered over the face of this wide earth. The survey will be a cordial to our souls. It will enable us to appreciate the blessings and privileges which we enjoy and strengthen in us the determination to transmit them unimpaired to our latest posterity. And let us reflect the means of doing this are the suppression of every species of vice & immorality; the diffusion of the light of intelligence among the people and the keeping alive of that sacred fire of patriotism, which warmed the breasts and cheered the hearts of the heroes of the Revolution. As the farmers generally in Vermont depend principally upon their flocks and herds, the season of haymaking is with them the most hurrying season in the year and they are not generally unmindful of the old maxim which requires them to make hay while the sun shines; but there is one point in which most of them err, and that is in supposing that they cannot do their haying without the use of ardent spirits. Now this is a down right mistake. I know several that are convinced that it is, and I know that others would be convinced if they would consent to become so unfashionable as to try it. Custom, that tyrant of fools and maker of fools of those who were otherwise sane.

He must be a rich man who can afford to work with poor tools.

In due time the summer bring,
To mature the hopes of spring—
To perfect, by warmer sun,
What the vernal prime begun.

Farmer's Calendar.

"Lord of the seasons, we adore
Thy boundless skill, thy mighty power;
For we in every season see
What ought to lead our thoughts to thee,
In Spring when earth is clothed in green,
And Summer is thy goodness seen,
The Harvest Months repay the toil,
Which lab'rers spend upon the soil.

The farmer who a few weeks since committed seed to the earth in hope, now begins to reap the reward of his confidence and toil, the fields are already white unto the harvest and see to it, that what has cost you so much sweat of the brow is not wasted by neglect or the want of being suitably cured. Remember that the rains and the storm may be near and that a few days delay, when the weather is fair, may rob you of the reward of the labor of weeks. Remember too the reverse of this, that haste makes waste—that what is done in a hurry is not usually done as it should be done. Many farmers lose as much every year by cutting their hay and grain in a hurrry and putting it away without being well cured as would cost to hire their harvesting done in the manner it should be.

When each individual has so much business of his own it would seem that he should let other folks alone It is a fact, which every one sooner or later will acknowledge that every man has in his own life follies enough—in his own mind trouble enough—in the performance of his duties deficiencies enough—in his own fortunes evil enough—without being curious and intermeddling in the affairs of others. Consider the shortness of life and do up all your own business, and then if you have any time to spare you may be in a measure justified in becoming a busy body in other men's matters. But till your own great work is done and well done the best advice which I can give you is to mind your own business and to let other people's business alone.

Independence may be supported with the best success by cultivating our farms with industry.

Bid the harvest home draw nigh,
With a kind indulgent sky—
Bid the produce of the soil
Richly pay the cultor's toil.

To thee we owe our annual bread,
Thou hast afresh our table spread;
With thy rich harvest gifts impart
A richer still, a thankful heart.
And while, O Lord we eat our bread
With which our bodies here are fed,
May we those better blessings find,
Which heal and feed th' immortal mind.

Fellow citizens, whether you are aware of it or not, I can say unto you in verity that three desperadoes are at this very moment, traversing the land you live in, and making the most shocking havoc of the property and lives of old and young. They have already murdered more of the inhabitants than were slain in all the battles and perished in prison ships during the war of the revolution; and, at the same time, they have wasted more substance than would support the national government and pay off the national debt.—Their strength is invincible. Their method of attack is to strike people on the head, then instantly to trip up their heels, pick their pockets, and continue the blows on the head until they have quite beat out their brains. Though they infest public houses chiefly, they are also found lurking in the closets of private houses, in the workshops of mechanics, and in the fields of farmers. In some instances whole families have fallen victims to these murderers! nay, whole towns have been ravaged and ruined by them. One poor man hereabouts, that had formerly been an industrious striving mechanic, has very lately been murdered by them in a manner too shocking to relate, and there are now several persons in this vicinity who are daily attacked by them, robbed of their money, smitten on the brain-pan, knocked down, & in all respects so violently handled that an alarming stupor has succeeded and they are already brought to deaths door. In a word the country is in imminent danger from these outlandish miscreants, who mock at reason, and trample upon the precious rights of men. The names of these ruffians are "Rum, Gin and Brandy." Beware!

Bid prescient man behold,
Treasures richer far than gold—
Barns and garners overflowing—
Precious gifts well worth bestowing.

Farmer's Calendar.

"Thou that created all! Thou fountain
Of our sun's light—who dwellest far
From man, beyond the farthest star,
Yet ever present; who dost heed
Our spirits in their utmost need.
We bless thee, Father, that we are"
And kept by thy all watchful care.

"I'll tell you how 'tis Bill," said my uncle Jo, "I like to see a fellow that's bunkem for doing business. I don't like these fear-of-men chaps, who will lose all their earnings rather than dun a clever fellow right sharp. I say Bill if I know any thing, I know one thing—its of no kind of use to trust a man forever because he is a clever fellow. Some fools say we may as well be out of the world as out of fashion. But I say the fellow who follows the fashion of trusting out ten times his capital and waiting forever for his pay, as the fashion is, will be likely to get out of the world into the stone-jug. I am heartily sick of hearing so much about hard times—difficult times—no money—and from those too, who if they had any pluck, (as your aunt Suzy calls courage) could make those who owe for rum and tobacco and ribbons pay up. It is all-rageous strange the people can't see so plain a cause of hard times. Now Bill you have just begun business and if you would not have occasion to complain of hard times, take a word of advice from your old Uncle, Open your shop early Bill—make short meals—no lounging calls—do your own business so far as you possibly can—sell all you can for cash, or ready pay, and if you trust be sure and settle with all your customers every year and let them know that prompt payment is expected. If any are dissatisfied with this course they are customers not worth retaining." I heartily thanked my uncle Jo for his good counsels—have carefully noted them down in my private memorandum and have resolved that I will hereafter observe them as the rules of my conduct.

If you would not scowl over a mug of sour or musky cider, grind and press your apples in fair weather.

But most of all bid man adore
The giver of his plenteous store;
Bid him in humble accents raise
Cheerful songs of grateful praise.

Farmer's Calendar.

"We bless thee for this bounteous earth;
For its increase—for corn and wine;
For forest oaks, for mountain rills,
For cattle on a thousand hills:
We bless thee, for all good is thine."
Tis thine alone to crown our toil
To fertilize the cultured soil.

It has been remarked by a celebrated writer on agriculture that there is not a single step in the life of a farmer, which does not prove the advantage of his keeping regular accounts, and yet there are few, very few, who pay any attention to this branch of political economy. A few rude scratches made with chalk over the fire place or behind the door are often the only record of important transactions, and some there are who do not even so much as this, but rely wholly upon their own memories, or upon the books of those with whom they deal. Now these things ought not so to be. In a land where all can not only read but write too, the man is certainly inexcusable and had ought to suffer who neglects to keep a regular account of debts and credit, and not only keeps an account but settles up all his account at least once a year. Autumn having now yielded up her rich profusion for the sustenance and for the comfort of the different races on the earth, let men not fail to reflect upon the source of all these varied blessings, and let him lift up a greatful heart to the Giver of all good things and offer unto him an acceptable tribute of thanksgiving and praise. The solemn requiem of autumnal winds and the pensive stillness of the succeeding calm, are well calculated to bring home serious reflections to the thoughtful mind and to direct our thoughts upwards to that Being who causes the seasons to revolve, and whose alone is the prerogative to preserve and to destroy.

There is a double saving in tight barns: the hay is secured from being weather beaten a second time, and cattle kept dry and warm will winter with much less fodder than when exposed to the severity of the weather.

Yea, bid man look to Him who crown'd
The culture of the teeming ground,
In times to come for friendly aid
Midst life's alternate light and shade.

Farmer's Calendar.

" Welcome December's cheerful night,
When the taper lights appear—
When the piled hearth blazes bright
And those we love are circled there!
Then while the snow-wind shrieks around,
And tempests at our windows beat,
Let joy and harmony be found,
And books and conversation sweet.

As that all wise Being who presides over the universe, whose energy gives motion to the spheres, whose wisdom directs the seasons in their annual round and whose goodness provides the means of happiness to every portion of animated nature—as he will not feed or clothe us without our contrivance or labor,—neither will he make us happy without our own study and endeavors. Exertion is the price set upon every valuable acquisition and enjoyment. Without this we cannot expect to prosper in this life, nor can we expect without it to secure our eternal interests in a future world.

But the closing of the year admonishes me that I too must close my remarks and in doing it let me with sententious brevity exhort you to control your wayward passions and suppress the pride of your heart—to be neither elated by prosperity nor dejected by adversity. but under all circumstances to pursue a regular and virtuous course—to venerate your Creator and be constant to walk in that sphere in which he has placed you. And while you are improving your temporal circumstances and condition, refining your manners and cultivating your intellectual powers, do not neglect the affections of the heart. The proper cultivation of these will make you happy amidst the toils and vicissitudes of life, and lead to a happy termination of the present scene of existence, and will prepare us for that illustrious society, where angels associate and where God presides—Farewell.

See that schools are supplied with good masters and warm and convenient houses, that scholars need not pass the tedious hours in freezing and scorching.

That when our year of life shall close,
Our bodies may in peace repose,
Till they ascend to bliss on high,
No more to toil—no more to die.

JUDICIARY OF THE UNITED STATES.

The judicial power in the United States is vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as Congress from time to time may establish. The present judicial establishment of the United States consists of a supreme Court, of 23 district Courts, and seven Circuit Courts, which are thus organized; the six associate Justices, who hold a court in the city of Washington annually; besides which, each of these Justices attends in a certain Circuit, comprising two or more districts, appropriated to each, and together with the Judge of the District, compose a circuit court which is holden in each district in the circuit. The district courts are held respectively, by the district Judge alone. Appeals are allowed from the district to the Circuit Courts and from the Circuit to the Supreme Court; and, in some cases, where the inconvenience of attending the court by a justice of the Supreme Court is very great, the District Courts are invested with Circuit powers.

REPRESENTATIVE NUMBERS.

The manner of computing numbers on which representation in Congress is based, is different in the slaveholding States from what it is in the others In the former, the number of white persons, and three fifths of the slave population, make the numbers on which the right of sending representatives is founded. Thus suppose a State to have 640,000 white persons, and 425,000 slaves; three fifths of the latter are to be added to the former, making 895,000; and on this number such State sends representatives. The following are the representative numbers according to the last census. Every 47,700 inhabitants sends one representative.

MILITIA OF VERMONT.

The Militia of the state consists of all the able bodied males, with a few exceptions made by law, between the ages of 18 and 45 years. Each soldier is required to keep himself constantly provided with such arms and equipments, as are necessary for actual service and, by so doing, his poll is exempted from taxation The whole militia is, at present, divided into four divisions, 10 brigades and 35 regiments, with from eight to 12 companies in each. Belonging to most of the regiments is also one company of cavalry, one of artillery and one of light infantry, and in many cases more than one of each. The Governor is captain general and commander in chief, and with the advice of the council is to arrange the whole militia into divisions, brigades, &c. and may from time to time make such alterations as he shall see fit. Each division is commanded by a major general, with a division inspector.

a division quarter master, and two aids; each brigade by a brigadier general, with a brigade inspector, brigade quarter master, and one aid; each regiment by a colonel, lieutenant colonel and major, with the customary staff; and each company by a captain, lieutenant and ensign, with the customary non-commissioned officers. The major generals and brigadier generals are appointed by the legislature. The field officers are chosen by the commissioned officers of their respective regiments and the several companies elect their own officers. The whole militia of the state amounts to about 25,000.

TERRITORIES.

Florida. William P. Duval, Governor, appointed April 1831, term expires April 1834.

Michigan. George B. Porter, Governor, appointed February 1832, term expires February 1835.

Arkansas. John Pope, Governor, appoined February 1832, term expires February 1835.

Remarks.—The Governors of Territories are appointed by the President of the United States, with the consent of the Senate, for the term of three years.

In all the states except New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, the Governor is voted for by the people; and if no one has a majority of all the votes, in the states in which such a majority is required the legislature elects to the office of Governor one of the candidates voted for by the people. In the state of Louisiana, the people give their votes, and the legislature elects one of the two candidates who have the greatest number of votes.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

Scalding Hogs. A gentleman of experience and observation recommends a mode practised by him of scalding hogs, which is, instead of putting cold water or ashes into the hot water, as is the general practice, he washes the hog in cold water previous to scalding it. It matters not how hot the water may be with which the hog is scalded, if cold water is first used in the way prescribed, the hair can be taken off with ease and neatness. No danger need be apprehended of the hair becoming set, as is often the case when this mode is not resorted to, owing to a peculiar temperature of the water.

"From Nova Zembla's snow-wrapt fields,
Where blooming Spring reluctant yields
A faint yet cheering smile;
Lo! winter comes, with frigid train,
To spread his darksome cold domain
O'er fair Columbia's soil.

Fellow Citizens—The coursers of time have again performed their circuit and your humble servant is again called upon to begin his round of admonitions and exhortations. As warmth is at this season the great desideratum, I would first invite your attention to that subject. It is truly a matter of importance to preserve a proper temperature—that our rooms should be suitably warmed by good fires—that our bodies should be suitably clad with warm garments—but of how much greater importance it is that our hearts should be warm with the glow of benevolence towards those around us who are suffering from cold, or hunger, or nakedness; and also with the most grateful emotions of love and gratitude towards that blessed Being from whom (with the ability and means to bestow favors upon others,) we derive all our enjoyments here, and all our hopes of happiness in a future world. Surely we cannot refuse to relieve the miseries of suffering humanity around us, when the ability to do it is so kindly given us by our Heavenly Father.

Farmers, look well to your barns. See that your horses, cattle and sheep are not suffering for the lack of food and water, and that your hay and provender is not wasted through the carelessness of boys. Fair words butter no parsnips.

CUTTING CORN STALKS.

The editor of the Village Recorder, published at Westchester, Pa. says the practice of Judge Buel, to cut his corn up by the roots and to set it in little stacks to ripen, thus saving the leaves from the frost for fodder, and letting the corn continue for a while to draw nutriment from the stalk, is universally practiced in Chester County. The editor says, "late in September, or early in October, corn is cut near the earth, set up in shocks round a hill that is left un-

Time still pursues his onward way,
And rolls the seasons round
From day to night, from night to day,
No loitering is found.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Now soon as evening shades prevail,"
Slow circulates the tragic tale
Of some night wandering swain,
Who guided by the treach'rous light,
Fell headlong from a giddy height,
And never rose again.

Peace and quiet, love and mutual good will form the summum bonum of domestic life. These are the chief ingredients in the married man's cup of bliss. And Major Wesley gravely suggests, that getting up a good supply of fuel for the summer, while the sledding continues, has a remarkable tendency to keep the women in good humor and thus to promote the serenity and happiness of the domestic fireside. I throw out these suggestions of the Major, that all who love their own comfort may be induced to try the experiment. A brawling woman—which Solomon says it is better to dwell in the corner of the house top than in a wide house with such a woman—and Solomon knew for he was acquainted with women. But it ill becomes us to speak of brawling women while we have so many drinking, bragging, cross scoundrels among the men. Let the men first become what they should be, and I will be surety for the ladies—yea, that within three weeks thereafter, four fifths of our modern Xantippies shall be transformed into angels of gentleness and peace.

The evenings are yet long, but they should not be dragged out in dozing and idleness; but should be spent in reading and useful conversation. The long winter evenings seem to be designed in the mercy of Providence to afford those who cultivate the soil an opportunity for mental cultivation.

cut, to help support the rest—the tops tied with rye straw. In this situation it remains until seeding is over. It is then husked—the huskers having a pin of hard wood two and a half inches long, about the size of a goose quill, sharp at one end, which is fastened under the two middle fingers of the right hand with a string. This aids him to tear open

But while the months to months succeed,
And time is flitting by;
Oh how shall man from grief be free'd?
To what for succour fly?

"But now the clouds do haunt the day,
And misty clouds around us play,
And murmur through the trees;
And storms that agitate the floods,
And rains that crystalize the woods,
Are borne upon the breeze.

The winter begins now to relax his vigour; and we begin to have the premonitory signs of spring. But as the cold relaxes, in the same proportion should the farmer's watchfulness and diligence increase. By attending to every business in its season, every thing can easily be accomplished, and be accomplished as it should be done. But once get behind hand and it is extremely difficult to catch up—so difficult that not one in ten succeeds in doing it. Notwithstanding my repeated admonitions, I fear the practice of our farmers of manufacturing maple sugar for home consumption is growing into disuse. But this practice of buying such things as the farmer can produce, merely because the article is cheap, is surely a very bad one. Almost every farmer who has trees can manufacture one, two or more hundred pounds of sugar; easier than they can earn the money at this season in any other way to purchase it. Ten to one that one half the time devoted to this business would otherwise be spent in idleness, or worse than idleness. The old adage of the sage Franklin is no less true now than formerly, that a penny saved is two pence earned.

the husk and considerably facilitates the work. Not remembering to have seen such an implement in use elsewhere, I suppose it not common, though very simple, it is useful. After the corn is taken in, the stalks are tied in bundles with straw—drawn near the barn yard and put in ricks, thus: The rick is made long, the butts pointing out each way, the tops overlapping more than one third and raised so that the wet will fall off each side from the centre. It should be of moderate height, from seven to ten feet. Beginning at one end, the farmer takes off, from top to bottom, enough for his cattle. All the rest remains undisturbed, and secure from rain as when first put up.

On the morning of a sunny day,
I wander'd o'er the hill;
Though nature all around was gay,
My heart was heavy still.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"But gentle Spring with many a smile
Comes now to deck Columbia's soil,
The spot with freedom crowned;
No more fell Winter's howling storm
Augusta's circling plains deform,
And strip the country round.

Although extremely reluctant to leave your clime, Old Winter is now obliged to retire and seek a refuge at the southern pole. Old Boreas being driven from the field, Zephyrus and the southern gales unlock the frozen streams and dissolve the fleecy snows, which pour down a deluge upon the plains and enrich the teeming earth. The dormant powers of vegetation are revived and all around are awaking into life and activity. The forests becoming clad in their cheerful green—the meadows with their variegated carpet, and life and activity and joy are diffused on every hand.

Let man too arise to renewed activity and enterprise. Shame for the only being in this world, who boasts prescience, to spend his time in listless inactivity, or to act improvident of the future. Remember that this is no season for idleness; and furthermore, that as you sow, so you shall also reap. The business of sowing carefully and properly accomplished an abundant harvest is half secured.

Quarrel not with others about opinion, but show the correctness of your own sentiments by a well ordered life and conversation. As a man thinketh, so is he; that is, the man who thinks right usually does right. And the man who thinks and does and feels right, is, what he should be.

In this manner the whole is fed out, from one end of the rick to the other. What the cattle do not eat is trodden into the manure heap, absorbs juices that would otherwise evaporate or run off, and then the corn stalks, when well rotted, are returned to the field, increasing its fertility. How much better is this mode than topping and leaving the stalks to stand all winter, drying and withering

Can God, I thought, the just and great,
These meaner creatures bless;
And yet deny to man's estate,
The boon of happiness?

"Spreading o'er nature's vast domain,
Their kisses, snatched from Flora's train,
While the assenting trees
And slender grass, and list'ning lake,
For dulcet treasures they partake,
Confess the passing breeze.

If your land be good, be sure to bestow upon it good tillage and you will secure an abundant harvest. But if your land be not of the first quality, it is so much the more important that you till it well; for without good tillage you get nothing and thus lose the labor you do bestow. Pay particular attention to your garden. Gardening is the most profitable way of occupying the soil as it affords the greatest amount of produce from the smallest quantity of land. No farmer who consults his interest or his pleasure will be without a good garden. Why, it is equal to having your beef and pork barrel well filled, and it goes a great way, I can assure you, to prevent their becoming empty. If the season be favorable, let your indian corn be planted about the 15th, without regard either to the moon or stars. The sun is the great regulator of the seasons, and the effects of his influence should be the sure guide in committing the seeds to the soil.

A fine coat does not make a gentleman, nor a gilded cover a good book; many people notwithstanding judge the man by the quality of his cloth and the book by its binding, but the wise do not form their opinions upon outside appearances, but upon inward qualities.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES.

Vessels intended to contain liquids of a higher temperature than the surrounding medium, and keep that liquid as long as possible at the highest temperature, should be constructed of materials which are the worst radiators of heat. Thus, tea-urns and tea-pots are best adapted for their purpose when constructed of polished metal, and worst when constructed of black porcelain. A black porcelain tea-pot

Delightful Spring, let me appear
Oft votive at thy shrine;
For soon wilt thou to summer's hand,
Grave matron with the amber wand
The rosy hours resign.

Industry and virtue are the best legacies which parents can bequeathe to their offspring; the only sure defence against misfortune. In these days of fine accomplishments, the accomplishments of the drawing room are much more attended to than those of the kitchen and the farm yard. How many there are, who in their over anxiety to render their daughters accomplished in the first sense of the word, render them useless members of society. How many there are who cultivate the pride instead of the humility of their children—who render them morose, disdainful and disagreeable, instead of training them up in such a way as to make them useful, & enable them to shed a halo of happiness as far as their influence may extend. Let those who superintend the education of the young be careful rightly to fulfil the trust reposed in them. On them depend the good of community and the happiness of individuals. Let them beware how they trifle with either.

Your gardens and your cornfields now demand your principal attention. Eradicate the noxious weeds from among your vegetables, and the noxious vices from your hearts. The analogy of the natural and moral world is worthy of observation.

is the worst conceivable material for that vessel, inasmuch as both its material and color are good radiators of heat, and the liquid contained in it cools with the greatest possible rapidity. On the other hand, a bright metal tea-pot is best adapted for the purpose, because it is the worst radiator of heat, and therefore cools as slowly as possible. A polished silver brass or tea urn is better adapted to retain the heat of the water than one of a dull brown color, such as is most commonly used. A tin kettle re-

A little money is a very good thing in the outset of life, if a man have wisdom to make a right and judicious use of it. But the head and the pocket must balance well; the scales must be equipoised; for if one or the other kick the beam, a loss will, in most cases ensue. If you have too little wit, the world will overreach you; if too much, you will outwit yourself. In either case, ten chances to one, your purse, or rather the contents of it, will slip through your fingers. Among the dangers to which hereditary wealth subjects us are pride, indolence, extravagance, and the smaller the portion of our inheritance the more danger is there. But what is most extraordinary is, that these very evils are often nursed up in the same cradle with the child, cherished with his growth and instilled into all his habits as he passes through the routine of his education, by parental care and misjudging affection.

Haying and harvesting are now the order of the day, and it is business that cannot well be put off by adjournment.

tains the heat of water boiled in it more effectually, if it be kept clean and polished, than if it be allowed to collect the soot and smoke, to which it is exposed from the action of the fire. When coated with this, its surface becomes rough and black, and is a powerful radiator of heat. A set of polished fire-irons may remain for a long time in front of a hot fire, without receiving from it any increase of temperature beyond that of a chamber, because the heat radiated by the fire is all reflected by the polished surface of the irons, and none of it is absorbed; but if a set of rough unpolished irons were similarly placed, they would become speedily so hot, that they could not be used without inconvenience. The polish of fire-irons is, therefore, not merely a matter of ornament, but of use and convenience. The

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Now oft is seen, at early dawn,
The milk-maid on the dewy lawn,
With merry heart so gay;
Who, as she climbs the adjacent stile,
She hums a ditty to beguile
The tedious time away.

The farmer now reaps the reward of his well directed industry. But this reward cannot be secured without the continuance of the most laborious exertion. He must now brave the intensity of the scorching sun, nor shrink at the sultry calm and a stagnant atmosphere. But while you are burning without, be cautious how you consume yourselves by kindling up a fire within by pouring down ardent spirits. He would be deemed not only a fool, but a mad man, who, amid the conflagration of a city, should attempt to preserve his own house by setting fire to the interior of it. What shall we then say of those, who drink liquid fire to protect them against the solar? While the energies of the body are now exhausted by heat and labor, great caution is necessary to preserve the body in health. Drinking freely of cold water when in profuse perspiration has not unfrequently laid the foundation of an incurable consumption, and has sometimes produced immediate death.

Secure your garden seeds as they become ripe. It is much cheaper to save them than to buy; and besides, you are much more sure of getting good ones.

rough, unpolished poker, sometimes used in a kitchen, becomes speedily so hot that it cannot be held without pain. A close stove, intended to warm an apartment, should not have a polished surface, for in that case, it is one of the worst radiators of heat, and nothing could be contrived less fit for the purpose to which it is applied. On the other hand, a rough unpolished surface of cast iron, is favorable to radiation, and a fire in such a stove will always produce a most powerful effect.—Cabinet Cyclopædia—Dr. Lardner on Heat.

And thus her answer gave:

"More could my muse's feeble powers
Impart, what makes the gilded hours,
Where blissful summer reigns;
But conscious that enough's been tried
By Thompson, Scotia's classic pride,
Who sung the rural strains.

The great Franklin declared that time was money, and he proved his declaration not only to be true, but more than true; for he showed conclusively that time would purchase money, but that money would not buy time. Another sage said that time was his estate, and surely if well used it is our most valuable possession. But like all good things it is liable to abuse, and all depends upon the manner in which it is used, and especially at this season when the productions of the soil are to be secured. The wasting of a little time—a few days neglect, may render abortive the labor of weeks. It is surely enough to make ones heart sick to pass by the fields of some who call themselves farmers, and witness their negligence and waste. As a scolding slut (and these two characters are usually united in the same person,) is the most abhorrent object among the female sex, so an unprincipled, careless sloven is the most disgusting and despicable among our own. Some people lose by laziness and neglect, more than three times the expense of securing all their crops. I could mention a man in my own neighborhood—but I forbear—his story shall not this year be told.—He shall be spared, with the hope that these friendly hints will produce a reform.

HOW TO CHEAT THE MOON.

Some farmers are very careful to sow their Spring crops and gardens at a proper time of the moon, and thus frequently anticipate, or pass over the best season of the year. By attending to the following directions, they escape all the inconvenience arising from the influence of the moon:—

Select some fair day, as near the usual time of sowing as possible—rise very early in the morning, and sow your

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Now Autumn comes with russet pride,
With laughing Bacchus at her side
The god of social glee;
Whose hand the brim-full goblet rears,
That dissipates all mental cares,
In mirth and jollity.

Look at the groves, and behold how changed! The mellow and lovely green is now changed to the sickly brown, yellow and red, and the leaves are falling in rapid succession sear and withered to the ground. What an emblem of human decay and mortality! Like the leaves "the generations of men drop from the stage of life and are blended with the dust from whence they sprung. Let this instructive lesson remind us that we too are fading and transitory—that like the pale flower and the tender plant we must fade, and droop and die. All flesh is grass, and the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass soon withereth and the flower soon fadeth." Yes, our time is short. Let us then not waste it on trifles, but improve every portion of it to the best advantage. We have not only our temporal affairs to engage our attention, but our eternal interests. We have not only to eradicate noxious weeds from the earth but noxious passions from the heart. We have not only to cultivate our fields, but also our moral sensibilities, and faculties, and we have much to do to fit us for the society of the pure in heart. Let us be kindly affectioned one towards another, and especially towards our indigent neighbor. Despise him not because he is poor. We, ourselves may be brought to this low estate. Riches may be the lot of the good or the base. They are not as they are usually considered, the true criterion of merit; and, whoever he is that scoffs at poverty and misfortune, deserves not the name of human.

sced boldly. Cover all up carefully, before night, making the land appear smooth and even. When the moon comes on next evening, she will be unable to determine whether the field has been sown or not, and will, therefore bestow on it neither bad or good.

I sought of Feeling, if her skill
Could soothe the wounded breast;
And found her mourning, faint, and still
For other's woes distress'd.

And sweetest blessings to impart,
To man's ungrateful hand.

This is the last month of Autumn, and the prudent is on the look out for winter and is making all his arrangements accordingly. His farming utensils are all safely laid up under shelter—his vegetables are deposited in his cellar and his cellar is well secured from frost. Nor is this all—instead of stuffing his shattered windows with old rags and old hats, he throws away the latter and sells the former for paper rags, and replaces all the broken panes with whole ones. This is economy with the comfort of a comfortable room in winter weather. If there is time before winter sets in, employ it in putting things in order for your spring's work. Stones may be dug, fencing stuffs prepared, etc. Ah! and you may look back with the look of charity upon your indigent neighbor. God, by blessing the labour of your hands, has given you the power of blessing others, and while you are enjoying the blessings given, fail not to secure to yourself the greater blessing of bestowing, for verily it is more blessed to give than to receive.

It is important that the land be thoroughly dried, so that it can be made to appear natural.

Whenever wheat turns to chess, it is done by the influence of the moon. By attending to the above directions, sowing clean seed, this evil may also be avoided.—Genesee Farmer.

A virtuous education, and habits of industry, make a better inheritance for children than a great estate. We are very solicitous to acquire property, but too often care but little what sort of heirs we leave it to.

Some will acquire property by selling brick dust, others ill become poor by selling gold dust.

I questioned Virtue---Virtue sighed,
No boon could she dispense;
Nor Virtue was her name, she cried,
But humble Penitence.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"But now doth winter's sullen storm
Those lovely images deform,
And sadden every grove—
With iron grasp shake every bough
And lay their verdant honors low,
Nor let the streamlet move."

The year is now drawing swiftly to a close. The sun has retreated to the regions of the south, and abandoned our clime to the reception of winter. The day is curtailed to a span, and the night, cold and dreary, has reached her utmost dominion. The long, long evenings now afford the tillers of the soil their most favorable opportunity for mental cultivation. But, alas, this precious season is too often trifled away in vain and frivulous amusements. If devoted to serious and instructive conversation, or to the reading of suitable books, the consequences which might result would be incalculable in their value. Heads of families and others have now a favorable opportunity to aid those under their care in the acquisition of knowledge and to prepare them for the practice of virtue—to warn them against the least deviation from the path of rectitude and truth—to caution them against the extravagancies of the day—to inspire them with the love of country—a veneration for its institutions and a devotion to its service—to initiate them into habits of industry, frugality and simplicity, and to qualify them to act their part with honor to themselves, their connexions and their country, and to fit them so to live that they shall quit this world with the consciousness of having performed their duty here, and with the assurance of unending happiness hereafter.

ARTIFICIAL WANTS are more numerous, and lead to more expense than natural wants; for this cause, the rich are often in greater want of money than those who have but a bare competence.

In the morning think what thou hast to do, and at night ask thyself what thou hast done.

I questioned Death—the grisly shade
Relaxed his brow severe;
And 'I am happiness,' he said,
'If Virtue guide thee here.'

POULTRY.

Fowls of every sort may be profitably fed on boiled potatoes and meal mixed. Hens which do not lay in winter should have access to pounded bones, oyster shells, or some other matter which contains lime, in some of its compounds, because something of the kind is necessary to form the shells of eggs, which are composed of the phosphate of lime.

Cobbett observes that pullets are the best laying hens in winter. At any rate, let them not be more than two years old. They should be kept in a warm place, and not let out even in the day time in wet weather; for one good sound wetting will keep them back a fortnight. The dry cold, even the severest cold, if dry, is less injurious than even a little wet in winter time. If the feathers get wet in our climate in winter, or in short days, they do not get dry for a long time; and this is what kills many of our fowls.

It has been said that poultry, as well as pigs, are much benefitted by placing charcoal broken into small pieces, in situations to which they have access. This substance, it is said, will add to their appetites and helps digestion; and as it is cheap and cannot possibly be injurious, it may be advisable to use it as a constituent of their food. White cabbages chopped up are very good for all sorts of poultry.

THE MOON AND THE WEATHER.

We are among those who believe that the atmosphere, if not under the immediate influence of our beautiful and ever-changing satellite, has changes which correspond to certain positions of that planet. And, since it has been demonstrated that the moon acts upon the ocean in such a manner as to cause its rise and fall at regular and certain periods, why should it be thought so very old-womanish to suppose that a similar power may act upon the aerial fluid? At any rate, we are glad to find that so learned and scientific a man as the late Adam Clarke was not ashamed to indulge similar notions, as the following extract from his writings will testify:

From my earliest childhood, I was bred up on a little farm, which I was taught to care for and cultivate ever since I was able to spring the rattle, use the whip, manage the sickle, or handle the spade; and as I found that much of our success depended on a proper knowledge and management of the weather, I was led to study it ever since I was eight years of age. I believe meteorology is a natural science, and one of the first that is studied; and that every child in the country makes, untaught, some progress in it: at least, so it was with me. I had actually learned, by silent observation, to form good conjectures concerning the coming weather, and, on this head, to teach wisdom among those who were perfect, especially among such as had not been obliged, like me, to watch earnestly, that what was so necessary to the family support should not be spoiled by the weather before it was housed. Many a time, even in tender youth, have I watched the heavens with anxiety, examined the different appearances of the morning and evening sun, the phases of the moon, the scintillation of the stars, the course and color of the clouds, the flight of the crow and the swallow, the gambols of the colt, the fluttering of the ducks, and the loud screams of the seamew—not forgetting the hue and croaking of the frog. From the little knowledge I had derived from close observation, I often ventured to direct our agricultural operations in reference to the coming days, and was seldom much mistaken in my reckoning.

About twenty years ago, a Table, purporting to be the work of the late Dr. Herschel, was variously published, professing to form prognostics of the weather, by the times of change, full and quarters of the moon. I have carefully consulted this table for several years, and was amazed at its general accuracy:—for though long, as you have seen, engaged in the study of the weather, I never thought that any rules could be devised liable to so few exceptions. I have made little alteration in the arrangements, illustrated it with further observations, and have sent it that you may insert it, as it has hitherto been confined generally to a few almanacs.

A TABLE

For foretelling the Weather through all the Lunations of each Year forever.

This table and the accompanying remarks are the result of many years actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth; and will, by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the enterance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

TABLE FOR THE WEATHER.

If the New Moon—the First Quarter—the Full Moon—or the last Quarter happens

TIME OF CHANGE.	IN SUMMER.	IN WINTER.
Between midnight and two in the morning,	Fair,	Hard Frost unless the wind be south or west.
—— two and four morning,	Cold, with frequent showers	Snow and stormy.
—— four and six morning,	Rain,	Rain.
—— six and eight "	Wind and Rain,	Stormy.
—— eight and ten "	Changeable,	Cold Rain if wind be west.
		Snow if east.
—— ten and twelve "	Frequent Showers,	Cold and high wind.
At twelve o'clock at noon and two, P. M.	Very Rainy,	Snow or Rain.
Between two and four P. M.	Changeable,	Fair and mild.
—— four and six "	Fair,	Fair.
—— six and eight,	Fair if wind northwest,	Fair and Frosty if wind north or northeast.
	Rainy if south or S. W.	Rain or snow if S. or S. W.
—— eight and ten "	Ditto,	Ditto.
—— ten and midnight,	Fair,	Fair and frosty.

Observations. 1. The nearest the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full and Last Quarter, are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the seven days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to Mid day or Noon, the phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in afternoon. These observations refer principally to the Summer, though they effect Spring and Autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change,—First Quarter,—Full,—and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed. With this precaution he will scarcely ever be deceived in depending on the table.

Remarks—The Governors of Territories are appointed by the President of the United States, with the consent of the Senate, for the term of three years.

In all the states except New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, the Governor is voted for by the people; and if no one has a majority of all the votes, in the states in which such a majority is required, the legislature elects to the office of Governor one of the candidates voted for by the people. In the state of Louisiana, the people give their votes, and the legislature elects one of the two candidates who have the greatest number of votes.

REPRESENTATIVE NUMBERS.

The manner of computing numbers on which representation in Congress is based, is different in the slave holding States from what it is in the others. In the former, the number of white persons, and three fifths of the slave population, make the numbers on which the right of sending representatives is founded. Thus suppose a State to have 640,000 white persons, and 425,000 slaves; three fifths of the latter are to be added to the former, making 895,000; and on this number such State sends representatives. The following are the representative numbers according to the last census. Every 47,700 inhabitants sends one representative.

JUDICIARY OF THE UNITED STATES.

The judicial power in the United States is vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as Congress from time to time may establish. The present judicial establishment of the United States consists of a supreme Court, of 28 district Courts, and seven Circuit Courts, which are thus organized; the six associate Justices, who hold a court in the city of Washington annually; besides which, each, of these Justices attends in a certain Circuit, comprising two or more districts, appropriated to each, and together with the Judge of the District, compose a circuit court which is holden in each district in the circuit. The district courts are held respectively, by the district Judge alone. Appeals are allowed from the district to the Circuit Courts and from the Circuit to the Supreme Court; and, in some cases, where the inconvenience of attending the court by a justice of the Supreme Court is very great, the District Courts are invested with Circuit powers.

Sec. 1. It is hereby enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Vermont, That no plaintiff in any civil action, before a justice of the peace, shall recover any travelling fee, except for his actual travel when he personally appears in court. Nor shall any plaintiff, in any civil cause whatever, before a justice of peace, recover a greater sum than one dollar and fifty cents, for costs, on any judgment where the debt or damages recovered, does not exceed the sum of one dollar and fifty cents; except costs which may accrue from continuances at the special instance and request of the defendant, or in case the defendant shall appeal to the county court. And for every sum in debt or damages, recovered above the sum of one dollar and fifty cents, the plaintiff shall recover no more cost than debt or damages, except costs which may accrue from continuances at the request of the defendant as aforessid, or in case of appeal as aforesaid.

Sec. 2. It is hereby further enacted, That when any cause shall be appealed by the plaintiff or plaintiffs from the decision of a justice of the peace, then, and in that case, the several county courts in this state shall follow the same rule in taxing bills of cost, as is before prescribed in this act for taxing the same before justices of the peace.

Sec. 6. It is hereby further enacted, That no cost shall be taxed in favor of any plaintiff or plaintiffs, for travel or attendance in causes where the defendant may tender a confession of judgment, agreeably to the sixth section of the act, in addition to the several acts defining the powers of justices of the peace, within this state, passed Nov. 15, 1821.

MILITIA OF VERMONT.

The Militia of the state consists of all the able bodied males, with a few exceptions made by law, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years. Each soldier is required to keep himself constantly provided with such arms and equipments as are necessary for actual service, and by so doing his poll is exempted from taxation. The whole militia is, at present, divided into four divisions, 10 brigades and 35 regiments, with from eight to twelve companies in each. Belonging to most of the Regiments is also one company of cavalry, one of artillery and one of light infantry, and in many cases more than one of each. The Governer is Captain General and Commander in Chief, and with the advice of the Council is to arrange the whole militia into divisions, brigades, &c. and may from time to time make such alterations as he shall see fit. Each division is commanded by a Major General, with a Division Inspector, a Division Quartermaster, and two Aids ; each Brigade by a Brigadier General, with a Brigade Inspector, Brigade Quartermaster, and one Aid ; each Regiment by a Colonel, Lieutenant Colonel and Major, with the customary staff; and each company by a Captain, Lieutenant and Ensign, with the customary non-commissioned officers.—The Major Generals and Brigadier Generals are appointed by the legislatnre. The field officers are chosen by the commissioned officers of their respective Regiments, and the several companies elect their own officers. The whole militia of the state amounts to about 25,000.

Solar and Lunar Eclipses in 1835.

I. The first is an annular eclipse of the Sun, on the 27th of May, invisible at Montpelier, ☌ at 8h, 41m. morning.

II. The second is a partial eclipse of the Moon, on the 10th of June, invisible at Montpelier, ☽ at 5h. 55m. evening.

III. The third is a total eclipse of the Sun, on the 20th day of November, invisible at Montpelier, ☉ at 5h. 39m. in the morning.

Transit of Mercury.

There will be a transit of the planet Mercury over the Sun's disk, on the 7th day of November, visible at Montpelier. Mercury will enter upon the eastern side of the Sun's disk, at about 37 minutes after noon mean time, and will move across towards the west, and will pass off from the Sun at 49 minutes past 5 in the evening. As the sun sets during the transit, the latter part of it will not be seen.

Keep seperate pastures for horses and cows. One of our subscribers in the state of Pennsylvania, whose communications we always receive with pleasure, has furnished the following remarks.—Genessee Farmer.

"We became satisfied many years ago that sheep and milch cows ought not to run together in the same pasture; and we have kept them seperate ever since, evidently to the increase of our milk and butter. The last season I kept my horses and cows in seperate pastures, to the very visible benefit of both. They had a change of pasture as usual, but were not suffered to run on the same grass. All appeared to be in better condition than common, and the grass was of finer growth when compared with other similar fields in the neighborhood. I am satisfied that farmers suffer much loss by not attending to these small matters."

Remedy for Sore Throat. Mix a pennyworth of pounded camphor with a wine glass full of brandy, pour a small quantity on a lump of sugar, and allow it to dissolve in the mouth every hour. The third or fourth generally enables the patient to swallow with ease.—Newburyport Herald.

A good quantity of old cheese is the best thing to eat when oppressed with any kind of food.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The annual round again is run,
Again Time's coursers have begun
The circuit of the year;
The wintry wind is passing by—
The snows upon its pinions fly—
The weather cold and drear.

Fellow Citizens,—Although I have given you line upon line and precept upon precept, I am really afraid that all my labor has been bestowed in vain. I have been trying to teach you how to make the times better, but instead of that, they would appear from the continual wailings to be constantly growing worse.—The cry of hard times is constantly growing louder and more frequent. Money, instead of being plenty in every man's pocket, has almost disappeared out of the country. The complaint of hard times is in every man's mouth and apparently comes from the heart, and doubtless it does, since upon this subject nearly all can speak from experience. But why are the times so hard? Ah! we want another father Abraham, to set in order before us golden sayings of poor Richard. We need another Franklin to bring us back to the simple manners of our ancestors, and to show us in his own way that although the cause of complaint is real, it is nevertheless for a great part in ourselves and not in the times. We have become extravagant in almost every thing—extravagant in our mode of living—evtravagant in dress—extravagant in amusements—extravagant in expenses—extravagant in idleness. If we wish to see better times, this epithet extravagant must be discarded—must be banished.

Hay-making. Make as much of your hay as is practicable in the early part of the season, as there is at that time a greater probability of your being favored with fair weather. The Farmer's Guide asserts that "it has been found by actual observation, for a number of years, that on an average more rain falls in summer after the 15th or 20th of July than before." "Grass" says Mr Goodsell in his Farmer, "after it is

And thirty-five as quickly
Will run the circuit o'er.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now fleecy clouds obscure the day,
The frequent snows block up the way,
And winter holds his reign;
But soon his triumph will be o'er,
And gentle Spring return once more
To bless our land again.

Time—what is time? Poor Richard says it is the stuff life is made of. It is the opportunity for doing good or evil. But, friend, in what way do you employ it? In doing good, or evil? Neither; for at this season I do nothing at all but eat, drink and sleep. But is not that doing evil? Eating, drinking, and sleeping are to be sure necessary, but they are not, or rather should not be, the business of life. Many people seem to think that because they can do nothing upon their farms at this season, they have nothing that they can do. Such people I should call materialists, for certainly they must have forgotten that there is any thing immaterial in their composition—they must have forgotten, or rather have never learned, that they possess any such things as souls. But to be short with this short month, I would say to such, while the material soil is bound in frost and covered with snow, then is the time to cultivate the intellectual soil, or in other words to store the mind with useful knowledge. Read good books—meditate upon what you read—and let your reading and meditation have a salutary influence upon your hearts and lives.

mown in wet weather is not materially injured, altho' it does not dry for some days, provided it is often turned over to prevent its turning white. The loss of nutritive matter does not correspond to its change of color. Timothy (herds grass) cut late, or after the seed has come to its full size, does not look as green as when cut in flower, and yet contains more nutritive matter, and is preferred by most kinds of stock.

In housing new made clover hay, especially if it be not thoroughly dry, intermix it with layers of straw.

Old Time is ne'er delaying—
Nor will a moment stay;
His wheels are ever moving,
And bearing us away.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now Boreas rages in despair
And agitates the troubled air,
But soon his power will cease;
Soon will the gentle southern gale,
O'er winter and his frosts prevail,
And frost-bound earth release.

The snows begin to feel the softening influence of the returning sun; but

"Winter, still lingering on the verge of Spring,
Retires reluctant, and from time to time
Looks back, while at his keen and chilling breath,
Fair nature sickens."

Let the farmer begin in time to keep pace with the season. If he let time once get the start of him, his case is hopeless. He may tug and pull, but he never overtakes it. He is always in the rear—always dragging—and frequently receiving a thump from his heels. Although but little can be done this month to the soil, very much may be done by way of preparation—in getting ready. Ploughs, harrows, carts and the numerous other items of the farmer's apparatus, should all be in good repair before the time of using comes along. And he would do well to remember that it costs money to purchase the sweet of the cane. But what is extracted from the maple is clear gain.—The making of maple sugar is hard work, but it is sweet business, and the more so because it comes at a time when little else would be done. The prudent man is known by his prudence as surely as the tree is known by its fruit.

Unwise men. The angry man—who sets his own house on fire, in order that he may burn up that of his neighbor.

Th envious man—who cannot enjoy life because others do.

The robber—who for the consideration of a few dollars, gives the world a right to hang him.

The hypochondriac—whose highest happiness consists in rendering himself miserable.

The winds are deeply sighing,—
The clouds obscure the day;
The snows again are flying,—
Again block up the way.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The spring-bird has again appeared,
With joy his notes again are heard,—
His early notes of love;
The eye now fondly looks to see
The springing of the door-yard tree—
The budding of the grove.

Many of late have been endeavoring to get their living by speculation—or in other words by spunging from the honest and industrious; but the numerous failures within a year or two past show, that in cheating others, many of them cheat themselves too. They make good the saying of poor Richard, "Many, says he, without labor would live by their wits only, but they break for want of stock. On the other hand, industry and economy give comfort, plenty, and respect. He that seeks after pleasure is seldom pleased; but fly pleasures and they will follow you."

The season now begins to demand your activity. It is important that your spring grain should be sowed in good season, but it is much more important that your ground should be in a good condition and the seed well got in. See that your cattle are not permitted to range upon your soft meadows. The food they pick up is no compensation for the injury they do by treading up the soft ground. Let your garden be put in order and let your onions, lettuce, beets, carrots, &c. for early use, be planted this month. A good garden does more towards supporting a family than many seem to imagine: and there is both the pleasure it gives the eye and the palate into the bargain.

The jealous man—who poisons his own banquet and then eats of it.

The miser—who starves himself to death, in order that his heir may feast.

The slanderer—who tells tales for the sake of giving his enemy an opportunity to prove him a liar.

The glutton and the dram-drinker—who spend their substance and their time in making brutes of themselves.

But Winter is receding,
The snows dissolve amain;
And Sol, the seasons leading,
Is hastening back again.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

With joy are seen the sleeping dead,
Arising from their lowly bed,
With renovated powers;
With joy are seen the leaves expand,
And Flora's welcomed to our land—
Her sweet and rosy hours.

Life has been often represented as a game, which depends mostly upon good play, and partly upon good fortune. Now if a man play well—if he is positive that he could not have played better—though fortune be against him and he is beaten, his defeat causes no mortification; he reposes upon the satisfaction of having done as well as possible. On the contrary if a man knows he has played badly, and might have played better, though fortune give him the victory he does not derive much pleasure from the success. Thus we see that our happiness is placed in our own hands. The game demands industry and circumspection. If we use these, fortune cannot deprive us of our enjoyment. Whether successful or otherwise, we shall be happy in the reflection that we have done our duty.

All nature is now beginning to teem with life and joy and activity, and every motive is now urging man to partake of the general impulse. Arouse then to diligence. Let the sun no longer conceal from thee the place of his rising. I fear that we have many in our own land who are as ignorant as the poor Parisians were, and that another Franklin is needed to prove to them that the sun gives light as soon as he rises.

Preserving Bacon. There is much said about preserving bacon. I have noticed in all the communications on the subject, that it is recommended to have the bacon well dried; and I think this is the principal thing required. If bacon is not well dried, there is nothing that it can be packed in, that will keep it sound. When bacon is hung up for drying, board or plank should be laid on the joints over it, in order to keep dirt or dust from falling on it, also to keep the smoke from escaping too soon. A smoke should be

All nature now is waking—

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

On every side all nature's seen,
Arrayed in splendid robes of green,
Delightful to the sight.
To dissipate our gloom and care,
The feathered warblers fill the air,
At morn, at noon, at night.

As the summer advances the business of the farmer becomes more pressing and laborious. But the same circumstances, which increase the severity of the labour, animate the labourer under his toil and enable him to endure with alacrity what under other circumstances could hardly be endured. At this season there is not only the unrivalled beauty of the face of nature, the music and melody of creation, but there is the animating prospect that what was sown in hope will ere long be raised to perfection and bring in itself a rich reward for all the sweat and toil which is now bestowed. Let not these fond hopes be blighted thro' your own neglect. Your gardens, your fields, all require your watchful attention. It is said that "the eye of the master may do more work than both his hands." We will not stop to settle which can do most work. One thing is certain; neither can work to advantage alone. If you would have things done seasonably and effectually, let the eye point out what is to be done and let not the hands refuse to have a part in performing it. But while I would advise the farmer to go forward, take the lead in his business, and to say come boys, and not go boys, yet I would have him sure that they did come. I would by no means encourage him to do the work himself, that his boys might have the more time for play and idleness. Industry is the first and most important lesson he can teach his children; and industrious habits the most valuable legacy he can leave them.

kept under it till it is thoroughly dry, and be continued in wet weather in the summer. Whoever will follow this plan will save their bacon.

The birds again are skipping,
And singing in the bowers;
The graces now are tripping,
And strewing sweetest flowers.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The bloom has left the orchard now,
And swelling fruits on every bough
Repay the cultor's care;
The birds, which late in thickets sung,
Suspend their song to rear their young,
And train them for the air.

The celebrated Marshal said that "attendance and attention would make any man a farmer," and he said it both from experience and observation, and it is obvious that without both these, no man can become a good farmer, and a poor farmer deserves not the name of farmer. This month may well be called the laborious month for the farmer. But hay-making and harvesting, which are his principal employments, are, with all their toil and sweat, an agreeable business. They call for the exercise of much muscular power, but do not, I beseech you, think of increasing the muscular power of your bodies by artificial stimulants.—Ardent spirits may increase their tenseness, but they will soon relax far below their natural state and will perhaps never again recover their wonted elasticity. Good wholesome food and pure cold water, used with caution at this hot season, are the best preparatives for enduring the heat and the toil of this season—Drive your haying while the weather is fair, but do not be in so much of a hurry as to pack your hay into the mow half cured. Hay carried into the barn so green or wet as to heat in the mow, loses a large share of its nutriment, and is at the same time rendered unwholesome. On this subject, a little pains makes great gains; while on the other hand a little neglect will produce the opposite effects.

Brimstone for cattle. It is probably not known to many of our farmers that brimstone is valuable for cattle in keeping them free from ticks. These vermin are not only filthy in their appearance but an injury to the cattle. A piece of brimstone as large as a grain of corn, well pulverized, given in a little salt, will cause them to drop off.

All nature now is teeming
With joy and life and love;
The sun from high is beaming
On every hill and grove.

EARMER'S CALENDAR.

The hill top's crowned with golden grain,
A rich profusion fills each plain
And all the regions round ;
What late was young and in its prime,
To manhood brought by sun and time,
In full perfection 's found.

I have already said that the prevailing evil of these times is extravagance. I know that the old are all the time preaching from the same text, modern degeneracy, whether the occasion requires it or not, but deride the advice of our fathers as we will, the truth is notwithstanding so plain that even the young may see it if they will, and the truth is that the present expensive habits are the principal cause of the continued cry of hard times. This extravagance is not only the source of much domestic unhappiness, but is also the bane of public prosperity. And all this extravagance is produced by an itching to be thought of consequence. Our great ones must copy the foolish and extravagant fashions of the Europeans ; and our little ones must increase their consequence by mimicking the great. Whether their means are sufficient to enable them to do it without embarrassing themselves and their families, forms no part of their calculations. A fine coat makes a gentleman, ergo, I must have a fine coat whether I can pay for it or not. No money now—but pay in grain next winter ; it will cost only twenty-five per cent. more than if I paid down—and then I have such a long pay day. Who would dress in homespun when broadcloth can be so easily got? And then you know that a man who dresses in homespun is looked upon as mean and vulgar, while the man in a fine coat is thought to be a gentleman, even when he has neither brains in his head nor money in his pocket. So reason the world—and so practice.

Many men, who lack brains in a lamentable degree, are nevertheless twice made—once in Nature's old fashion, and once—by their tailor.

He who has faithful labor'd
Beneath the burning sun,
In payment for his toiling,
Sees harvest well begun.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Then raise to God a grateful song;
To Him all praise and thanks belong,
He rules the varied year;
He gives the orb of day his fire,
He bids the winter's cold retire,
The lovely Spring appear.

One of the most odious species of bipeds with which our country is at present infested, is that denominated go betweens. They derive their name purely from their occupation, which is to carry to one neighbor every injurious observation which happens to drop from the mouth of another. Such a being is the slanderer's herald, and he is altogether more odious than the slanderer himself. By his vile officiousness he makes that poison effectual which were otherwise inert. Slander would lose its power to injure were it not for the malice of go betweens, who under the mask of double friendship act the part of double traitors.

See that every thing is done in season. Many people by being inattentive to this maxim are great losers. They let the grain remain in the field after it is ripe, till much of it is destroyed by vermin or falls back into the earth, and that which is finally saved is injured in quantity. A stitch in time may save nine, in more kinds of business than one.

This is a fine season of the year for journeying, but it is equally fine for labor. Get your work done up, and then, if you have a little leisure and a little money left, (after paying your debts,) why then there cannot surely be any harm in visiting your friends. But business before friends is in general a very good maxim. And to pay honest debts before incurring unnecessary expenses, is equally good.

Fallen Fruits. It will be consonant with the best rules of rural economy for every farmer, gardner and orchadist to gather all his fallen and decaying fruit, as well as such as being set too thick should be picked in part, in order to make room for the remainder.—These you will boil with a little meal, oats, refuse grain

The crops and fruits are ripening,
The husbandman to cheer;
Then raise your hearts and praises
To Him who crowns the year.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

He rules the elemental strife—
He bids all nature teem with life—
Bids summer suns arise—
Matures the products of the soil—
Repays the cultor for his toil,
And every want supplies.

The energies of nature in the vegetable world are beginning visibly to abate. The flowers have nearly all vanished from the fields and meadows; the green carpet which lately mantled the earth and covered all the forests, is fading by the frosts of the evening and the chilling blasts from the north. The forest now, how variegated! Where late all was green and cheerful now is seen the pallid yellow and the sickly red. Crisped by the frost and displaced by the bleak winds, the leaves are already beginning to spread a rustling carpet upon the ground. What an emblem this of the frail existence of man. We rise in the spring of life, full of energy and vigor, and pass those halcyon days in gaiety and pleasure. The summer of manhood succeeds, and then our attention is engaged in the laborious occupations and duties of life. Soon the autumn, the decline of life, follows, with its solemnity and decay, and then the winter of death comes on and closes the scene. Let us take a lesson from the seasons, and let it have an influence upon our hearts and lives. Let us realize that although life at longest is but a varied year, yet we are not only liable to be cut down in the winter or autumn of this year, but also in the summer, yea in the very spring. Live then in the performance of every duty and all else is immaterial.

or other farinacious substance. The fruit will be the more valuable as diet for hogs for having been boiled, and the worms (curculiones) which it generally contains when fallen or decayed, are thus sure to be destroyed.

Gather seeds from the best specimens of the plants.

The winds again are sighing,
The waning of the year—
And vegetation dying,
Proclaims the winter near.

Whate'er in sea—whate'er in air—
Whate'er on earth his bounties share,
Or life or being knows,
All that is good—all that is wise—
All excellence beneath the skies,
His liberal hand bestows.

Farmers as well as poets ought to be classed in the genus irritable. There is no season so fine, no crop so abundant, but that the farmer can find some room for a grumble. A substantial yeoman was lately congratulated upon the excellence of the late harvest and upon the abundant reason which he and his brethren had to be grateful: "I don't know that," says he; "what be we to do for bad hay for our cows and small corn for our hogs?" Smile not, gentle reader, at this farmer's simplicity, but look at the cause of your own complaining, and you will find it in many cases as groundless and inconsistent as the above. A mote in thy neighbor's eye is bigger than a beam in thine own eye. Look rather to the blessings bestowed than to the favours withheld. Thy life has been preserved and thou art receiving innumerable favors, to which thou hast no better claim than thousands, who have, during the past year, died and been cut off from all the enjoyments of the present world. Then lift your hearts in gratitude to Him, from whose bountiful hand you derive all your comforts and supplies, and through whose forbearance it is, that your lives are still spared. If gratitude is due from man to man, how much more from man to his Maker!

Winter is on his approach. Beware he does not come upon you by surprise, lest ye find yourselves caught in an evil net.

Who that has ever felt the refreshing effects of the morning air can wonder at the lassitude and disease that follow the continual breathing of the pestiferous atmosphere of crowded or ill ventilated apartments? It is only necessary to observe the countenances of those who inhabit close rooms and houses, to be sensible of the bad effects of shutting out the external air.

The harvest now is gathered,
The fruits laid up in store;
The leaves are seared and withered,
And winter comes once more.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

O then to Him, who reigns on high,
Above the circuit of the sky,
And guides the shining sphere,—
To Him let grateful songs arise—
Of Him invoke indulgent skies—
His blessings on each year.

How is it with those who have been putting off and putting off the business of the day and saying that it can as well be done to-morrow? These have entirely overlooked Poor Richard's maxim, that "one to-day is worth two to-morrows;" and before the year closes they will acknowledge that time enough is time short enough. The most diligent will have accomplished less than they intended, before the year shall have filled her course, and the do for the present, the time enough yet folks, ah! how is it with them? Why, they have resolved and re-resolved, but have hardly begun what should now be ended. But it is useless now to brood in bitter lamentations over the past. Opportunities lost, duties neglected, can never be recalled. Exercise, then, that repentance for your past follies, which shall make you in season to enter upon every good work for the future. The year, which is now closing, has gone never to return, and you are entering upon another which has its appropriate business and duties. This too will glide away as swiftly as the past. Let me admonish you then to close this year, with a full determination, that if another be added to your lives, it shall be spent more to the glory of God—to the good of your fellow beings and to the advancement of your own virtue and holiness. Going forward in such a resolution, with a proper feeling of your dependence upon the blessing of God, will prepare you, according to His will, either for earth or heaven.

Pride breakfasted with plenty, dined with poverty, and supped with infamy.

Pride is as loud a beggar as want, and a great deal more saucy.

So like the changing season,
The life of man is run.
Obey the voice of reason—
The path of folly shun.

From the New York Farmer.

USE OF GROUND CORN AND COBS.

BY MR. OGDEN.

I have been for some time using corn and cobs ground together for my cattle, and with good effect. It is an impression among farmers that there are some injurious effects arising from its use. I will state how they may be avoided. In the first place, the corn should be perfectly ripe. In the second, a large quantity should not be ground at a time. It should be kept perfectly dry, for a little damp causes the cob to mould. In the third, when this food is used constantly, potatoes or carrots should be given two or three times a week. With these precautions, the cob and corn ground together, will be a wholesome and cheap food for cattle. I give my horses eight quarts per day, and notwithstanding they labor hard, they gain in flesh and perform well.

I grind my corn and cobs in the bone mill, which will turn out many bushels in the course of an hour.

THE MOON AND THE WEATHER.

We are among those who believe that the atmosphere, if not under the immediate influence of our beautiful and ever-changing satellite, has changes which correspond to certain positions of that planet. And, since it has been demonstrated that the moon acts upon the ocean in such a manner as to cause its rise and fall at regular and certain periods, why should it be thought so very old-womanish to suppose that a similar power may act upon the aerial fluid? At any rate we are glad to find that so learned and scientific a man as the late Adam Clarke was not ashamed to indulge similar notions, as the following extract from his writings will testify.

From my earliest childhood, I was bred up on a little farm, which I was taught to care for and cultivate ever since I was able to spring the rattle, use the whip, manage the sickle or handle the spade; and as I found that much of our success depended on a proper knowledge and management of the weather, I was led to study it ever since I was eight years of age. I believe meteorology is a natural science, and one of the first that is studied; and that every child in the country makes, untaught, some progress in it; at least, so it was with me. I had actually learned, by silent observation, to form good conjectures concerning the coming weather, and, on this head, to teach wisdom among those who were perfect, especially among such as had not been obliged, like me, to watch earnestly, that what was so necessary to the family support should not be spoiled by the weather before it was housed. Many a time, even in tender youth, have I watched the heavens with anxiety, examined the different appearances of the morning and evening sun, the phases of the moon, the scintillation of the stars, the course and color of the clouds, the flight of the crow and the swallow, the gambols of the colt, the fluttering of the ducks, and the loud screams of the seamew—not forgetting the hue and croaking of the frog. From the little knowledge I had derived from close observation, I often ventured to direct our agricultural operations in reference to the coming days, and was seldom much mistaken in my reckoning.

About twenty years ago, a Table, purporting to be the work of the late Dr. Herschel, was variously published, professing to form prognostics of the weather, by the times of change, full and quarters of the moon. I have carefully consulted this table for several years, and was amazed at its general accuracy:—for though long, as you have seen, engaged in the study of the weather, I never thought that any rules could be devised liable to so few exceptions. I have made little alteration in the arrangements, illustrated it with further observations, and have sent it that you may insert it, as it has hitherto been confined generally to a few almanacs.

A TABLE.

For foretelling the Wealher through all the Lunations of each Year forever.

This table and the accompanying remarks are the result of many years actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth; and will, by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the enterance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

TABLE FOR THE WEATHER.

Moon	Time of change,	In Summer,	In Winter.
If the new moon, the first quarter, the full moon, or the last quarter happens	Between midnight & two in the morning,	Fair,	hard frost unless the wind be south or west.
	— two and four morn.	Cold, with showers,	Snow and stormy.
	— four and six morning,	Rain,	Rain.
	— six and eight "	Wind and Rain,	Stormy.
	— eight and ten "	Changeable,	Cold rain if wind be west. Snow if east.
	— ten and twelve "	Frequent Showers,	Cold and high wind.
	Twelve o'clock, noon, and two P. M.	Very Rainy,	Snow or Rain,
	Between two & four P M	Changeable,	Fair and mild.
	— four and six, "	Fair,	Fair.
	— six and eight,	Fair if wind northwest / Rainy if south or S. W.	Fair and frosty if wind north or northeast. / Rain or snow if S or S W
	— eight and ten, "	Ditto,	Ditto.
	— ten and midnight,	Fair,	Fair and frosty.

Observations. 1. The nearest the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full and Last Quarter, are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the seven days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to Mid day or Noon, the phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change,—First Quarter,—Full,—and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed. With this precaution he will scarcely ever be deceived in depending on the table.

TERRITORIES.

FLORIDA. John H. Eaton, Governor, appointed 1834, term expires 1837.

MICHIGAN. —— Mason, acting Governor.

ARKANSAS. John Pope, Governor, appointed February 1832, term expires February 1835.

Remarks—The Governors of Territories are appointed by the President of the United States, with the consent of the Senate, for the term of three years.

In all the states except New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, the Governor is voted for by the people; and if no one has a majority of all the votes, in the states in which such a majority is required, the legislature elects to the office of Governor one of the candidates voted for by the people. In the state of Louisiana, the people give their votes, and the legislature elects one of the two candidates who have the greatest number of votes.

REPRESENTATIVE NUMBERS.

The manner of computing numbers on which representation in Congress is based, is different in the slave-holding States from what it is in the others. In the former, the number of white persons, and three fifths of the slave population, make the number on which the right of sending representatives is founded. Thus suppose a State to have 640,000 white persons, and 425,000 slaves; three fifths of the latter are to be added to the former, making 895,000; and on this number such State sends representatives. The following are the representative numbers according to the last census. Every 47,700 inhabitants sends one representative.

JUDICIARY OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Judicial power in the United States is vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as Congress from time to time may establish. The present judicial establishment of the United States consists of a Supreme Court, of 28 district Courts, and seven Circuit Courts, which are thus organized; the six associate Justices, who hold a court in the city of Washington annually; besides which, each, of these Justices attends in a certain Circuit, comprising two or more distnets, appropriated to each, and together with the Judge of the District, compose a circuit court which is holden in each district in the circuit. The district courts are held respectively, by the district Judge alone. Appeals are allowed from the district to the Circuit Courts and from the Circuit to the Supreme Court; and in some cases, where the inconvenience of attending the court by a justice of the Supreme Court is very great, the District Courts are invested with Circuit powers.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Established by Act of Congress, passed March 3, 1825.

For a single letter, composed of one piece of paper, for any distance not exceeding 30 miles, 6 cents; over 30 miles, and not exceeding 80, 10 cents; over 80, and not exceeding 150, 12 1-2 cents; over 150, and not exceeding 400 miles, 18 3-4 cents; over 400, 25 cents.

Double letters, or those composed of two pieces of paper, are charged with double those rates.

Triple letters, or those composed of three pieces of paper, are charged trible those rates.

Quadruple letters, or those composed of four pieces of paper, are charged quadruple those rates.

A packet the weight of one ounce, is charged the rate of four single letters, and in like proportion for one of greater weight. Ship letters, 6 cents.

NEWS PAPER POSTAGE.

For each newspaper carried not over 100 miles, 1 cent; over 100 miles, 1 1-2 cents; but if carried to any office in the state in which it is printed, whatever the distance be the rate is one cent.

Pamphlets and Magazines of the periodical kind, no, over 100 miles, 1 1-2 cents per sheet; if over 100 miles 2 1-2 cents per sheet; those not published periodically, are to be charged, for 100 miles or less 4 cents on each sheet, over 150 miles 6 cents. Every article sent in the mail, which is not either a newspaper, magazine, pamphlet, or legislative journal, is subject to letter postage, whether it be a printed or written communication, except a written or printed notice from a publisher of a newspaper, stating the subscription due, which must be attached to the margin of a newspaper, and postage charged for it as a newspaper.

PRIVILEGE OF FRANKING.

Letters and packets to and from the following officers of the government, are by law received and conveyed by post free of Postage.

The President and Vice-President of the United States; Secretaries of State, Treasury, War, and Navy; Attorney General; Postmaster General and Assistant Postmaster General; Comptrollers, Auditors, Register, and Solicitor of the Treasury; Treasurer; Commissioner of the General Land Office; Commissioners of the Navy Board; Commissary General; Inspectors General; Quartermaster General; Paymaster General; Superintendent of Patent Office; Speaker and Clerk of the House of Representatives; President and Secretary of the Senate; and any individual who shall have been, or may hereafter be, President of the United States; and each may receive newspapers by post, free of postage.

Each member of the Senate, and each member and delegate of the House of Representatives, may send and receive, free of postage, newspapars, letters, and packets, weighing not more than two ounces, [in case of excess of weight, excess only to be paid for,] and all documents printed by order of either House, from the period of sixty days before he takes his seat in Congress, till the next meeting of Congress.

Postmasters may send and receive, free of postage, letters and packets not exceeding half an ounce in weight; and they may receive one daily newspaper, each, or what is equivalent thereto.

Printers of newspapers may send one paper to each and every other printer of newspapers within the United States, free of postage, under such regulations as the Postmaster General may provide.

MILITIA OF VERMONT.

The Militia of the state consists of all the able bodied males, with a few exceptions made by law, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years. Each soldier is required to keep himself constantly provided with such arms and equipments as are necessary for actual service, and by so doing his poll is exempted from taxation. The whole militia is, at present, divided into four divisions, 10 brigades and 35 regiments, with from eight to twelve companies in each. Belonging to most of the Regiments is also one company of cavalry, one of artillery and one of light infantry, and in many cases more than one of each. The Governor is Captain General and Commander in Chief, and with the advice of the Council is to arrange the whole militia into divisions, brigades, &c. and may from time to time make such alterations as he shall see fit. Each division is commanded by a Major General. with a Division Inspector, a Division Quartermaster, and two Aids; each Brigade by a Brigadier General, with a Brigade Inspector, Brigade Quartermaster, and one Aid; each Regiment by a Colonel, Lieutenant Colonel and Major, with the customary staff; and each company by a Captain, Lieutenant and Ensign, with the customary non-commissioned officers. The Major Generals and Brigadier Generals are appointed by the Legislature. The field officers are chosen by the commissioned officers of their respective Regiments, and the several companies elect their own officers. The whole militia of the State amounts to about 25,000.

Each company of cavalry, artillery, light infantry, and infantry, are required to meet annually, on the first Tuesday in June, armed and equipped for company inspection. The several regiments are required to muster once in two years.

☞For the salaries of the several state officers, councillors and representatives, and the fees of justices, sheriffs, and other officers, see register of last year.

ATTORNIES, PHYSICIANS, &c. IN VERMONT.

There were assessed in the Grand List for 1834, 144 attornies, 245 physicians and surgeons, 883 mechanics and manufacturers, 302 merchants and traders. The number of attornies for Bennington County is not given. We apprehend the Grand List does not give any thing near the full number; in Washington County for instance, the List gives 8 attornies, while the true number is not less than 27.

BANGOR, Maine, has now 7,497 inhabitants, and is still rapidly increasing. Her citizens "calculate" that she will be the second city in New-England in ten years.

Solar and Lunar Eclipses.

There will be four eclipses this year, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. The first will be an eclipse of the Moon, May 1st and visible at Montpelier, as follows:

Beginning 2h. 13m.
Middle 3h. 15m. } Mean time, evening.
End 4h. 18m.

Digits eclipsed, 4 10-4 on the Moon's southern limb.

II. The second is of the Sun, May 15th and visible at Montpelier, as follows:

Beginning 7h. 19m.
Greatest obscuration 8h. 26m. } Mean time, morning.
End 9h. 54m.

Duration 2h. 33m. Digits eclipsed 7 10-2 on the Sun's southern limb. This eclipse will be central and annular at noon in lat. 45° 17′ N. and longitude 36° 20′ W. from Greenwich.

III. The third is an eclipse of the Moon, October 24th, invisible at Montpelier, ☽ at 13m. after 8 o'clock in the morning.

IV. The fourth is an eclipse of the Sun, November 8th invisible at Montpelier, ☌ 8h. 43m. evening.

VALUBLE HABIT.

One of our most valuable habits in life is that of contemplating every undertaking. The mental dissipation in which persons of talents often indulge, and to which they are perhaps more prone than others, is destructive beyond what can be imagined. A man who has lost the power of prosecuting a task the moment its novelty is gone, or it becomes encumbered with difficulty, has reduced his mind into a state of lamentable and wretched imbecility. His life will inevitably be one of shreds and patches. The consciousness of not having persevered to the end of any special undertaking, will hang over him like a spell and will paralyze all his energies, and he will at last believe, that, however feasible his plans, he is fated never to succeed. The habit of finishing ought to formed in early youth.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Time speeds—away—away!
Another hour—another day—
Another month—another year—
Drop from us like the leaflet sear;
Its flight produces aching hearts,
The rose-bloom from the cheek departs,
The tresses from the temples fade,
The eye grows dim and strange to all."

'Tis done.—The knell of another year has bee sounded. The requiem of its joys and its sorrows, now floating upon the winds. This then is a seaso which strongly urges us to pause and reflect. At th period are we invited alike to look back upon the pa and forward to the future—to contemplate what w have done and what remains for us to do. And tha we may ascertain whether our progress has been a vance or retrograde we shall find it of use frequentl to put to ourselves the following questions. Wha have I been doing during the past year? What hav I, or my friends, or the world been benefited, by th prolongation of my life during another year? Hav I added to my estate, or bettered my condition, b honest industry? Have I been the means of lessenin the miseries, or of increasing the happiness of thos around me? What advancement have I made in pre paring for a future state of existence? It is importan that we should be able to give a favorable answer t the above questions; for if we have not been doin good, we have undoubtedly done much injury—if w have learned nothing, we have forgotten much—if w are not better than we were at the beginning of th year, we are certainly worse. He that is wise is wis for himself—but the simple go on to their own de struction.

HINTS TO YOUNG FARMERS.

Consider your calling the most elevated, and th most important; but never be above it, nor be afrai of the frock and the apron.

Put off no business which ought and can be don to-day until to-morrow.

How quickly flies the rolling year!
How soon the hours are past!
Successively the months appear—
Appear—but do not last.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Time speeds away—away—away!
Like torrents on a stormy day.
He undermines the stately tower,
Uproots the tree, and snaps the flower,
And tears from our distracted breast
The friends that loved, the friends that blest,
And leaves us weeping on the shore,
To which they can return no more."

Cold and short are the days, and long and dreary are the nights; but since most of our enjoyments spring from contrast, this very cold and dreariness without tends but to increase the satisfaction within at our comfortable firesides. While by the bounties of Providence we are screened from the bleak winds and supplied with food and raiment, let us not only improve the season by profitable conversation, reading and reflection, but let us cherish that diffusive kind of benevolence, which being blessed in receiving, is doubly blessed in giving.

This is a short month, and how many there are who make it still shorter by sleep and dissipation! We should all remember that time is a talent committed to us, and for the use of which we must hereafter render a strict account to the Giver. Shall we then waste it in idleness? Shall we trifle it away in vain amusements? But, says one, shall not man be allowed any time to amuse himself? Yea, I would have every man amuse himself, but I would have him seek his amusement in his business. The path of duty is the only path which leads to true and lasting pleasure. But alas! how many people entirely forget this, and seek for enjoyment in useless and forbidden pursuits, and live as if their whole business was to kill time and shun the vulgar business of doing good.

As soon as the spring opens and the frost is out of the ground, put your fences in order.

Plant no more ground than you can well manage and cultivate to advantage.

Never hire a man to do a piece of work, which you can do yourself.

The vernal breeze—the summer's heat—
And mellow autumn's lavish sweet,
Must yield to winter—and again
Must winter yield his proud domain.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Time speeds away—away—away!
No eagle through the skies of day,
No wind along the hills can flee
So swiftly or so smooth as he,
Like fiery steed from stage to stage
He bears us on from age to age;
Then plunges in the fearful sea
Of fathomless eternity!"

Winter, which has so long reigned triumphant o'er the conquered year, begins to show indications that his reign is not eternal. The sceptre trembles in the old man's hand like a reed shaken in the wind, and he seems to be sensible that he must ere long surrender his authority and retreat before the triumphant advances of the king of day. Every person who has trees should be in readiness to set about the making of maple sugar. This business has been too much neglected of late. Because the imported sugars have been so cheap many farmers have thought it no object to manufacture sugar for themselves. But how I would ask are they to be better employed at this season? The value of all the sugar manufactured at home is saved in the country while the value of that which is imported goes out of the country, and therefore makes it so much poorer. Nor is this all. The use of imported sugars encourages slavery, for nearly all the imported sugar is made by slaves. Let anti-slavery men then show their opposition to the nefarious traffick in human flesh and blood by the encouragement of the domestic manufacture of maple sugar. This too is the season in which the prudent farmer will look forward to the approaching seasons and see what implements of husbandry his business will require, and will employ the present comparative leisure in putting them in readiness.

Every day has its appropriate duties; attend to them in succession.

Keep no more stock than you can keep in good order, and that of the best kind.

Tho' winter reigns—the north winds blow,
And toss about the falling snow;
Th' advancing sun will shortly bring
The balmy gales of rosy spring.

"I envy not the mighty king
Upon the splendid throne—
Nor crave his glittering diadem,
Nor wish his power my own;
For though his power and wealth be great,
And round him thousands bow
In reverence—in my low estate
More solid peace I know."

In the various revolutions of the seasons, spring has once more arrived upon our shores, and at his approach all nature is gladdened. From the cold and dreary chaos of winter, a new creation is bursting forth into life. Where late all was stillness and desolation, now is heard the voice of joy and gladness. The husbandman now commences in earnest the labours of the field, committing the grain and other seeds to the mellowed earth, in confidence that the fruits of autumn and the stores of winter will abundantly repay all his anxiety and toil.

If you wish it to be well with you here and hereafter, let the following precepts be engraved upon your mind and delay not to practice them in your lives. 'Practice modesty and you shall not be ashamed; gratitude, and you shall receive favors—charity, and you shall be loved—temperance, and you shall have health—prudence, and fortune shall attend you—justice, and you shall be honored by the world—sincerity, and your own heart shall not reproach you—diligence, and your wealth shall increase—benevolence, and your mind shall be exalted—sincere, and your life shall be useful—religion, and your death shall be happy.' Practice these things, kind reader, and your life shall glide on serenely, your mind shall be unmoved by the petty commotions, which agitate the visions and the voice, and in the end you shall quit the world in peace and rise to immortality and glory.

Instead of spending a rainy day at the dram shop, as many do to their ruin, repair whatever wants mending—post your books.

The new-born spring has now begun
To smoothe the aspect of the skies,
And cheerful now th' advancing sun
Bids joy in quick succession rise.

"I envy not the miser—he
May tell his treasures o'er,
May heaps on heaps around him see,
And toil and sigh for more;
I scorn his narrow sordid soul,
Rapacious and unjust;
Nor bow beneath the base control
Of empty gilded dust."

O the times! O the manners! No sooner does the snow leave the ground and the gentle zephyrs unlock the icebound glebe, than all the Misses—yea, and Masters too—think they must emulate the plants and insects at this season and rig themselves out in new and parti-colored dresses. New gowns—new bonnets—new handkerchiefs and new jackets are all the cry. The sayings of Poor Richard are wholly forgotten. But as he says it is always true that

This pride of dress is sure a very curse, and what a blessing it would be to the world if mankind generally would take heed to the other line of the couplet in which he says

Ere fancy you consult, consult your purse.

Without regard to parents' circumstances or income, our country Misses manifest much too strong a propensity to ape the fashionables of the city. Their lace, their lawn, their shawls and their leghorn, must not fall a whit below the finest. But this will not do for farmer's daughters. No, my fair friends, let your adorning be healthy countenances and virtuous lives, and instead of aping the extravagance of the votaries of fashion, teach them by your examples that you understand the true glory of an independent people, and that you are always ready to discharge your duty as the daughters of freemen.

Keep a place for your tools—and your tools in their places.

Should you be fond of the chase or the sport with the hook, indulge occasionally, but never to the injury of more important concerns.

The Lark, uprising, tunes his song,
And swells his little notes on high,
The lowing herds the theme prolong,
And praise the God who built the sky.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"My wants are few and well supplied
By my productive fields,
I court no luxuries beside,
Save what contentment yields.
More pure enjoyment labour gives,
Than wealth or fame can bring,
And he is happier who lives
A farmer than a king."

All around is now gayety and cheerfulness. The hill, the dale, the meadow and the wood all, all are teeming with life and activity, and the mingled accents of love and joy—the perfumes of myriads of flowers,—are now borne upon every breeze. How should our hearts glow with gratitude to Him, from whom we derive such a profusion of enjoyment! Instead of a monotonous uniformity, which would soon tire and disgust, the vicissitudes of the seasons present us with unceasing variety—with a constant succession of new beauties—new feelings and new enjoyments. And how delightful at this season of promise is the labour of the field. The landscape is beauty and the air is balm and melody.

He who keeps pace with his business outruns the sheriff,—yea—effectually too, if he has no bad habits to impede him. Bad habits—alas how much it costs the world to support these burthensome excresences. What vast sums are annually expended for the support of those nuisances—those engines of disease, of sin and of wretchedness—alcohol and tobacco. Ah! and what a saving might be made in health and money, by moderating or abandoning the present free use of tea and coffee.

Never trust your money in the hands of that man who will put his own to hazard.

When interest or a debt becomes due, pay it at the time, whether your creditor wants it or not. Never ask him to "wait till next week" but pay it. Never insult him by saying, "you do not want." Punctuality is a key to every man's chest.

Spring still boasts her blossom'd boughs
Waving in the vernal gale;
And her songsters warbled vows,
Echoing down each peaceful dale.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Sol now advancing hot and high,
Strains every fiery feature,
To make a furnace of the sky,
And of the earth a heater.
From marshes he is prone to suck
Up elements of thunder,
And some folks are with lightning struck,
And some are struck with wonder."

This season reminds us of that period which tried men's souls. Let the returning birth day of our nation awaken in our minds a train of useful reflection—such reflection as will enable us duly to appreciate the advantages which we possess over the other nations of the earth, and safely transmit them down to our latest posterity. Let the anniversary be celebrated, but instead of making it a day of revelry and drunkenness, let it be a day of sober reflection—a day to be employed in instructing the rising generation in the events of our history—in the principles of civil liberty—and in infusing into their breasts that elevated spirit of patriotism, which glowed in the American bosoms in '76.

Hay-making is one of the most hurrying seasons of the year and it is a season which requires not only diligence, but the utmost care and circumspection. To make hay while the sun shines, is a maxim which is in every body's mouth, but every body does not reduce it to practice. Many people are in such a fidget to get done haying before their neighbors that they do not half make their hay, but tumble it into the barn, or stack, green or wet, where it heats and smokes and moulds, and what is it good for when winter comes? It has lost one half, or two thirds, of its nutritive properties and, moreover, is rendered unwholsome and unpalatable by the fermentation. Hay by all means should be well cured; but if the unfavorableness of the weather should render it necessary to carry in hay wet, or green, intersperse it freely with salt. It may repay you the expense with interest.

Summer doth her flowers expand,
And her earliest fruits display;
Now she calls her jocund band
To spread around the fragrant hay.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"It may very truly be said
That his is a noble vocation,
Whose industry leads him to spread
About him a little creation.
He lives independent of all
Except the Omnipotent Donor,
Has always enough at his call,
And more is a plague to its owner."

He, who sowed in hope, now reaps in fruition. He is now receiving the reward which a bountiful Providence has seen fit to bestow upon his humble confidence and well directed industry. Thus is the promise of scripture made good, "that while the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease." Let your crops be secured as soon as they are ripe. The rains and storms are not far off, and a few days delay may cause a greater waste than twice the expense of securing them.

Particular attention should be paid, at this season, to the preservation of health. This is the season for cholera, dysentery and fevers. Be cleanly in your persons and dress—be temperate and regular in your meats and drinks—and avoid exposure to the evening air and to dampness. Beware of eating too freely of fruits of any kind and especially of those which are unripe. Be cautious too in the use of cold water at this hot season. Scarcely a year passes in which individuals do not fall a sacrifice to their imprudence in drinking cold water when in a state of profuse perspiration, and many others lay thereby the foundation of protracted disease and more lingering dissolution. With regard to the use of alcohol, what I say unto you, I say unto all—taste not—touch not—handle not—lest in the end you perish in the using.

Never buy any thing at auction because the article is going cheap, unless you have a use for it.

By driving your business before you, and not permitting your business to drive you, you will have opportunities to indulge in innocent diversions.

But, though fair the blossoms blow,
The brow of blooming May to deck,
And the moisten'd fruit may grow,
Summer's fervid thirst to check,

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"He works with his hands, it is true,
But happiness dwells with employment;
And he who has nothing to do
Has nothing by way of enjoyment.
His labours are mere exercise,
Which saves him from pains and physicians;
Then, farmers, you truly may prize
Your own as the best of conditions."

As where there is no fuel fire goeth out, so where there is no talebearer, strife ceaseth. But one tatler is sufficient to keep a whole neighborhood in a continual uproar. He can sow the seeds of strife and like the Bohon Upas, scatter devastation and death through the sphere of his baleful influence. The busibody is the most detestable body. Let not the listening ear encourage him, but let him rather be spurned from good society and held up to the contempt and derision of the wise and prudent.

The farmer who has either a sense of duty or interest does not need to be exhorted to diligence. He is not like the lazy ox which needs to be continually pricked and goaded. But the sluggard—what shall I say to him? What shall I say to him who is saying to himself a little more sleep and a little more slumber? Can I arouse him?—Can I quicken him? or is he incorrigible and his case desperate? Oh idleness! too welcome a guest, but, alas, a most dangerous enemy! How many victims dost thou conduct to poverty, to disgrace and to wretchedness! The idle man is always an unhappy man, and he cannot long be an innocent man. The transition from inactivity to vice is direct and easy and scarcely any maxim is better founded than that an idle man's brains are the devil's workshop. Shun idleness then as you would destruction.

Never carry your notes in your pocket book, as the desk or trunk is a more appropriate place. Keep them on file and in order, ready to be found when wanted.

Vie they with the bounteous store
That my teeming fields supply,
When—the golden harvest o'er—
Ascends the shout of grateful joy?

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"The summer flowers are faded,
The fate of beauty sharing,
And nature, somewhat jaded,
Seems overdone with bearing.
But fruit these flowers succeeding,
The orchardist requiting,
Abundant as in Eden,
Is scarcely less inviting."

There is already a very perceptible abatement in the energies of the vegetable world. The flowers are vanished, the grass is losing its freshness and verdure—the seeds are ripening and returning into the bosom of the earth—the fruits are swelling upon the trees, or mellowing upon the ground, and the forests smitten by the chill blasts of the north and the nocturnal frosts are now putting on their variegated dress of red, and orange and yellow. Delay not to secure the blessings which a bountiful Providence is spreading around you.

Apples which are to be kept for winter's use should be carefully picked from the trees by hand in the middle of the day when perfectly dry, and they should be kept thinly spread in some cool dry place. Even in winter the cooler and drier they are kept, (if not allowed to freeze,) the better they will be preserved. Apples which are to be made into cider should be allowed to lie and become mellow. The cider will be richer, and late made cider ferments slower and will keep better than that which is made early. Suffer not your corn to lie too long in heaps before it is husked, nor even afterwards. Its qualities are materially injured by being in the least heated. Potatoes keep best in a cold moist cellar, well secured from frost, but as little above freezing point as possible. In a warm cellar potatoes will be injured by sprouting, and in a dry cellar they will wilt and diminish in quantity and quality.

Should you think of building a house, be not in a hurry but first have every material on the spot, and let your cellar be as large as the frame.

Mine's the treasure of the bee,
The luscious dew for me she blends;
Mine the produce of each tree
That 'neath its weight o'erloaded bends.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"The fields how lately studded,
With ears of golden glowing,
And all the land how flooded
With bounties overflowing.
O then a tribute render
To the Almighty Giver,
Of all the heart can tender,
And all the tongue deliver."

Winter is now evidently making advances towards our clime, and the prudent farmer will not allow it to come upon him unawares, like a thief in the night. He will be prepared for his approach. His buildings will be put in order, his windows will be glazed, not stuffed with rags and his cellar will be well secured from the frost. His farming tools will all be placed under shelter, where they will be safe and where they may readily be found whenever they shall be wanted in the spring. A man must save as well as get if he would be a thriving farmer. Not that he may keep every thing for self, but that he may have in his hands the means of doing good. God has blessed the labour of your hands that you have it in your power to reap a double blessing to yourself by blessing others.

Let us, my brethren, reflect a moment upon the source of that abundance, with which our labours have been crowned. It is, indeed, none other than the fountain of our own existence—it is none other than that Almighty Being who upholdeth us and all created things. And can we, in the midst of these reflections, withhold from him a tribute of gratitude? Can we refrain from pouring out our hearts before him in songs of praise and thanksgiving; that our labours have been crowned with success—that our unprofitable lives have been spared—and we are now enjoying favours unnumbered and unmerited? Surely it is a joyful thing to be thankful.

Should you take the New-England Farmer, or any other periodical Journal, pay for it in advance.

Mine's the calm, still tranquil day,
Suited to the poet's dream,
Whilst the fading woods display
A deep, rich, mellow, changing gleam.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The year declines, and winter comes,
Prepared to storm our quarters,
And bullying Boreas sounds without Like roar of mighty waters.
'To all who suffer good or bad
Let aid be now extended
For his condition is most sad,
Who has the most offended.'

'If the beauties of the year are so fading, and its bounties so soon perish; if the loveliest scenes of nature lose their power to charm, and a few revolving months, or years at most, break the spell that binds us to those we love best; if the figure of the earth is changed by its own convulsions; if forms of government and of religion, which prevail in one age are exploded in another; if nothing on earth or in the waters preserves itself unchanged, what is there which remains forever the same? What is there, over which autumnal winds and wintry frosts have no power? What is there, which does not pass away—which is proof against the might of the ocean's waves, the convulsions of mountains and the fluctuations of human opinion? It is surely the truth of God revealed in his blessed word. It is this which shall not pass away. Through the instrumentality of this

His hand the good man fosters in the skies
And bids earth roll, nor feels the idle whirl.'

As the year is now closing, let us, my friends, endeavour to profit by the instructions which its vicisitudes and changes are calculated to afford. Let us contemplate the period of our earthly existence, of which the varied year is a striking emblem, and may the errors of the past make us watchful for the future, and may we all be enabled so to pass through the scenes of life's eventful year, that we may close it in peace, prepared to reap a richer and more abundant harvest of happiness in the regions of immortality.

Never "run into debt" without a reasonable probability of solving it at the time agreed.

And while I autumn's bounties prove,
And while my breast these bounties cheer,
My grateful heart shall soar above
To Him who rules the changing year.

THE UNION.

A brief view of the Union, embracing the settlement, climate, soil, productions, &c. of each state, Governor 1835–6, state election, and meeting of the Legislatures.

MAINE.

The District of Maine, so called, until it became an independent state in 1820, had been connected with Massachusetts in all its political and social relations. The celebrated John Smith made an unsuccessful attempt to settle this country in 1614. The first permanent lodgement of the whites in this state was made from the Plymouth colony at York, in 1630. Emigration to this state has been more slow than to those of a milder climate; yet perhaps there is no state in the union, that promises more independence from its own natural strength and resources than Maine. Its first settlers were a race of men with good minds, stout hearts and strong arms; by them and their sons the stately forests were converted into an article of commerce, of immese value; thus preparing large portions of the soil for its ultimate staples,—wheat, beef, and wool. The St. Croix, Sheepscot, Androscoggin, Saco and other rivers, with the noble Penobscot and Kennebec, flowing into the sea on her extensive coast, meeting at their mouths many delightful bays, with islands of romantic beauty, where good harbours abound; together with her fine ships, and hardy sailors, give to Maine peculiar advantages for navigation and the fisheries. Portland is the most important mart of trade in this state, and has a fine harbour near the sea. Augusta, at the head of sloop navigation on the Kennebec, 45 miles from its mouth, in lat. 44° 17′ N. and lon. 69° 50′ W. is a beautiful town, and is now become the capital of the state. In 1826 there were 138,000 children in Maine, between 4 and 21 years of age, of which about 102,000 attended school. The annual expenditure is about $138,000.—Every town within the state is obliged by law to raise annually, a sum equivalent at least to 40 cents from each person within the town, for the support of common schools. This State is bounded north west, and north by Lower Canada; east by New Brunswick; south by the Atlantic ocean; and west by New Hampshire. Situated between 43° 5′ and 48° 3′ North Lat. and 70° 55′ and 66° 47′ East

Longitude. Andrew P. Dunlap, Governor. Election 2d Monday in Sept. meeting of Legislature, 1st Wednesday in Jan.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

This State was first peopled by Europeans, by virtue of a grant from the Plymouth Company to John Mason and Ferdinando Gorges, in 1622. Their first locations were at Little Harbour, on the west side of Piscataqua river, and at Cocheco, now Dover. In 1631 the first house was built at Portsmouth. In 1638 Exeter was settled. In 1641 the first settlers formed a coalition with Massachusetts, and remained connected with that colony until 1679. In 1719 about 100 families from the north of Ireland settled at Londonderry: They introduced the foot spinning wheel, the manufacture of linen, and the culture of potatoes. In 1776 this colony led the van in forming a constitution of her own, founded on the free suffrages of the people. New Hampshire is more mountainous than any of her sister states, yet she boasts of large quantities of luxuriant interval. Her high lands produce food for cattle of peculiar sweetness; and no where can be found the necessaries, conveniences, and luxuries of life, united, in greater abundance; cattle and wool are its principal staples. This state raises annually $90,000 for the support of common schools, and has a literary fund of a considerable amount derived from a tax on bank capital. This state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Maine, south east by the Atlantic ocean and Massachusetts, south by Massachusetts, and west and north west by Vermont. Situated between 42° 42′ and 45° 14′ North Lat. and 72° 27′ and 70° 35′ W. Lon. Wm. Badger, Governor. Election 2d Tuesday in March; meeting of Legislature 1st Wednesday in June.

VERMONT.

The territory of this state was originally claimed by Massachusetts, and afterwards both by New Hampshire and New York. In 1777 the people inhabiting this territory declared themselves independent, and formed a government of their own. Although this fourteenth state was not admitted into the union until after the revolutionary contest was over, yet she vigorously resisted British oppression. Bennington, its oldest town, was chartered by Benning Wentworth, Governor of New Hampshire, in 1749. A range of mountains covered with spruce, hemlock and other evergreens divides this state nearly in the centre; hence its name; and hence its epithet "Green Mountain Boys," celebrated for their bravery in the war of independence. This state is very fertile and produces all sorts of grain in great abundance.—Manufactures flourish on many of the delightful streams of Vermont, and its hills produce marble of superior excellence. The state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Connecticut river, south by Massachusetts, and west by New York. Situated between 42° 44′ and 45 North Lat. and 73° 16′ and 71° 20′ W. Longitude.—Election 1st Tuesday in Sept.; meeting of Legislature 2d Thursday in October.

MASSACHUSETTS.

This state, the parent of all the New England colonies, was first permanently settled by Europeans at Plymouth on the 22d of Dec. 1620, by a sturdy band of 101 independents, the persecuted subjects of King James the first of England. Another colony, under the style of the Massachusetts Bay colony, was planted at Salem in 1628. These colonies remained seperate till 1686, when both colonies were deprived of their charters. In 1692 they were united into one colony under a new charter. The country, now the New-England States, was formerly called North Virginia, but owing to the favorable representations of it made by the celebrated John Smith, who visited Massachusetts Bay in 1614, it has ever since, in compliment to its luxuriance and beauty, bore its present name. During the Indian and French wars, Massachusetts expended much blood and treasure; on her soil the first spark of American Independence was lighted, and her arm was the strongest in the combat for its achievement. This state has about 40 millions of dollars invested in manufacturing stock; more than 20 millions of dollars in bank capital, and about 8 millions in insurance stock. A great variety and amount of manufactured articles are exported from this state; also fish, whale-oil, lumber, beef, pork and other productions of the sea and soil. Her literary, religious and charitable institutions are the pride of Massachusetts. Within a few years Boston alone has expended nearly two millions of dollars for objects of that character, exclusive of an annual expenditure of about $200,000 for the support of public and private schools. This state is bounded north by Vermont and New-Hampshire; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Rhode Island and Connecticut, and west by New York. Situated between 41° 31′ and 42° and 53′ North Lat. and 73° and 17′ and 69° 48′ W. Long. Governor, — —. Election 2d Monday in November, meeting Legislature, 1st Wednesday in January.

RHODE ISLAND.

The Father of this state was Roger Williams, a man remarkable for his benovolence, justice, and pacific policy. He was banished from the Plymouth colony for avowing the doctrine of equal toleration of all religious sects in the same political community. He purchased lands of the Indians at Moosehausic, where, in 1636, with his followers he laid out a plantation, and which place, in grateful acknowledgment of the kindness of heaven, he called Providence. In 1638, William Coddington and others followed Williams and settled the island of Rhode Island. By the wise policy of Williams towards the Indians, and his respect to all sects of religion, this colony was rendered exceeding prosperous. This state pays annually $10,000 for the maintenance of free schools. It is worthy of remark that this is the only state in the union which is without a written constitution. Its government is founded on the charter of Charles 2d in 1663. This state is bounded north and east by Massachusetts, south by the Atlantic ocean, west by Connecticut. Situated between 41° 18′ and 42° 1′ N. Lat. and 71° 48′ and 71° 1′ W. Lon. Governor, John B. Francis. Election, governor and senators in April, repesentatives in April and August; meeting Legislature 1st Wednesday in May and June, last Wednesday in Oct. and January.

CONNECTICUT.

The Plymouth Company in England granted this territory to the Earl of Warwick in 1630, who, in the following year, assigned it to Viscount Say and Seal, and Lord Brook, but it was first settled by the whites at Windsor, by a party from the Plymouth colony, in 1630. Hartford and Weathersfield were settled by parties from Dorchester, and Watertown, Massachusetts, in 1635 and 1636. The Dutch claiming this country, as belonging to the New Netherlands, it was a subject of strife between them and the English until 1650, when a treaty of amity and partition was made. In 1638 a party from England planted a colony at New Haven, which remained unconnected with that on Connecticut river until 1665, when they were united. Connecticut has a School Fund, which amounts to nearly 2 millions, affording instruction to about 90,000 children annually. This state is bounded north by Massachusetts; east by Rhode Island; south by Long Island sound, and west by New York. Situated between 40° 58′ and 40° 1′ N. Lat. and 72° 37′ and 71° 43′ W. Lon. Governor, Henry W. Edwards. Election 1st Monday in April; meeting Legislature, 1st Wednesday in May.

NEW YORK.

Henry Hudson, an Englishman, sailing in the Dutch service, discovered Long Island, the Harbour of New York, and the noble river that bears his name, in the year 1609. The Dutch built Fort Orange, at Albany, and commenced a settlement on Manhattan island in 1613. The Dutch claimed all the country between the Connecticut and Delaware rivers and called it New Netherlands. The English had always contested the right of the Dutch to this territory, and in 1664, Charles II. of England having granted to the Duke of York and Albany all the country between Nova Scotia and Delaware bay, the New Netherlands came into the possession of the English. Fort Orange was then called Albany, and Manhattan, or New Amsterdam, New York. New York stands unrivalled by any of her sister states in the union of those things which constitute the prosperity of a people. Her central situation, her excellent climate, her fertile and extensive territory, her navigable rivers, her inland seas, her mighty cataracts and never failing streams; together with the proximity of her chief city to the ocean, all afford her the greatest advantages in agriculture, commerce and manufactures. This state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut; south by New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and west and north west by Upper Canada. Between 40° 30′ and 45° N. Lat. and 72° 55′ and 79° 50′ W. Lon. Governor, Wm. L. Marcy. Election 1st Monday in November; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in January.

NEW JERSEY.

This state was first settled by the Danes, at Bergen, about the year 1624. This country was inhabited by the Swedes and Dutch for many years. The soil of this state is not naturally well adapted to agricultural pursuits, much of the land being either marshy or sandy; yet its proximity to two of the largest markets in the United States, and the industry of its inhabitants have rendered it exceedingly productive of all sorts of fruits and vegetables common to the climate, together with grain and meats of various kinds. This state has a school fund of about $246,000. From the school fund, and a tax on the bank capital, a liberal appropriation is made for common schools in this state. This state is bounded north by New York; east by the Atlantic ocean and New York; south by Delaware bay; and west by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 57′ and 10° 22′ N. Lat. and 75° 25′ and 73° 52′ W. Lon. Governor, Peter D. Vroom. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 4th Tuesday in October.

PENNSYLVANIA.

William Penn, the founder of this powerful state, was the son of Sir William Penn, an admiral in the British navy. He united himself with the society of Friends, then a persecuted sect in England. For services rendered by his father, king Charles the second, in 1681, gave him a tract of land in the western world, and called it Pennsylvania. Penn, with about 2000 followers landed at New Castle, on the Delaware, in 1682, and proceeding up the river, planned Philadelphia, "the city of brotherly love," and erected about 80 buildings the same year. The piety, philanthropy, and wisdom of its founder, the fertility of its soil, the healthiness of its climate, the pacific disposition of the natives, and the lessons of experience derived by the settlement of other colonies in earlier days and under more rigorous skies, all conspired to render this colony the most prosperous of any of which history gives an account. Penn died in 1718 aged 74 years. The resources of this state are immense; and the character of the people is well calculated to give them a proper direction. The beatiful Delaware, and other navigable waters of Pennsylvania, its canals and the fine roads furnish Philadelphia with a great amount of domestic exports, and render it one of the most important marts of foreign and domestic commerce in the United States. Pennsylvania is the greatest manufacturing state in the union, and Philadelphia takes the like rank among our manufacturing cities. This state yields to no other in the variety and extent of its mineral treasures, particularly in its exhaustless mines of anthracite and bituminous coal. This state is bounded north by New York; east by New Jersey; south east by Delaware; south by Maryland and Virginia; and west by Virginia and Ohio. Situated between 39° 43′ and 42° 12′ N. Lat. and 72° 35′ and 80° 26′ W. Lon. Governor, ——— ———. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in December.

DELAWARE.

The first Europeans that settled this state were a party of Swedes and Finns, who, under the patronage of Gustavus Adolphus, landed at Cape Henlopen in 1627. They purchased lands of the Indians on both sides of the river Delaware, and settled themselves at Lewistown, and at the mouth of Christian Creek, near Wilmington. In 1655 the Dutch took possession of the country, and retained it until the New Netherlands were subjugated by the English in 1664. This country was formerly called the "Territories" and afterwards the "three Lower Counties of Delaware" and for many years was under the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania. The name of this state, of the bay and river, is derived from Lord De la War, one of the first settlers of Virginia. This state is generally low and level, is chiefly agricultural, and produces all the staples and luxuries common to its climate, particularly wheat, of which large quantities are floured and exported. This state has a school fund of $170,000. No district is entitled to any share of this fund that will not raise, by taxation, a sum equal to its share of the income of the fund. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware river, Delaware bay, and the Atlantic ocean; and south and west by Maryland. Situated between 38° 29′ and 39° 50′ N. Lat. and 74° 56′ and 75° 40′ W. Lon. Governor, Caleb P. Bennet. Election 1st Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in January biennn.

MARYLAND.

About 200 Roman Catholics from England, under a grant from Charles the first to Lord Baltimore, were the first white settlers in this state. They arrived at the mouth of the Potomac in February, 1634, and purchased of the Indians a large village where St Mary now stands: Lord Baltimore died in 1676, much honored and beloved. This colony was an asylum for the persecuted of religious sects from all parts of the world; which circumstance, with the hospitality of the natives, the fruitfulness of its soil, and the mildness of its climate, tended greatly to its early growth and prosperity. The genuine white wheat, and the bright kites foot tobacco, are said to be peculiar to Maryland. The school fund is derived from $75,000 paid by the U. S. for advances made by Maryland during the late war, and by a tax of 20 cents on every $100 bank capital. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware, and the Atlantic ocean; south and west by Virginia. Situated between 38° and 39° 43′ N. Lat. and 75° 15′ and 79° 25′ W. Lon. Governor, James Thomas. Election 1st Monday in October; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

VIRGINIA.

Three ships with one hundred and five persons, under the command of Christopher Newport, in the service of the London Company, having on board Captain Gosnald and other men of standing, arrived from England at the mouth of the Chesepeake bay on the 26th of April, 1607. On the 13th of May following they landed and settled at Jamestown, on James river. The object of these adventurers was partly curiosity to see a new race of beings; but chiefly to acquire wealth by finding silver and gold, with which this country was supposed to abound. Among these adventurers was John Smith, a man of great boldness of character, and one who had been well schooled in the knowledge of human nature both by travelling and adversity. In 1620 and 1621 one hundred and fifty young women were sent from England and sold to the planters as wives, at prices varying from 100 to 150 pounds of tobacco, then worth three shillings the pound. About this time twenty negroes were landed from a Dutch vessel and sold for slaves! In 1688 the population of Virginia was about 60,000. The face of the country is much diversified. The part towards the sea is low and level: some of it is marshy: to the west it rises by degrees and becomes mountainous. The soil is quite productive, and large exports are made from this state of flour, corn and tobacco. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania and Maryland; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by North Carolina and Tennessee; and west by Kentucky and Ohio. Situated between 36°33′ and 40°39′ N. L. 75°35′ and 83° 29′ W. L. This state has a Literary Fund of $1,233,523.

$45,000 of this fund is annually appropriated to the education of the poor. This state has also a fund devoted to internal improvements of $2,100,591. Governor, L. W. Tazewell. Election in the month of April; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

NORTH CAROLINA.

About the year 1645, a number of Virginians took possession of the country north of Albemarle Sound. They appear to have lived without much regard to law. In 1661 a settlement was made near the Clarendon river by adventurers from Massachusetts, which was abandoned by them in 1663, and their place was soon after supplied by emigrants from Barbadoes. North and South Carolina were included in one grant from Charles the 1st in 1630, under the name of Carolina. About 1675, two governments were established in Carolina under the present names, yet both were under the direction of the same proprietors until 1729. This country is low, level, and exceedingly marshy for 50 or 80 miles from the sea, it then becomes mountainous. This state produces cotton, rice, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine oak and pitch pine timber. Much tar and turpentine are made in this state. This state has a common school fund of $70,000. This state is bounded north by Virginia; east by the Atlantic ocean, south by South Carolina, and west by Tennessee. Situated between 33° 53′ and 36° 33′ N. Lat. and 75° 45′ and 84° W. Lon. Governor, ———— ————. Election commonly in August; meeting Legislature 2d Monday in November.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The territory of this state and North Carolina was in the same grant from King Charles I. in 1630. In 1670 the governor of Carolina planted a settlement at Port Royal, or Beaufort. The Dutch, French and English, all from different motives, made settlements in South Carolina. This country, for more than 100 miles from the sea, is low, abounding with swamps and marshes. About 150 miles west of Charleston is the ridge, a tract of high land, beyond which the country becomes much elevated. This state has many boatable rivers, which, with its safe and convenient navigation among a great number of fertile sea islands, makes Charleston a city of much commerce and importance. The soil of this state is various, producing cotton, rice, indigo, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine timber, a great variety of fruits, medicinal plants and dyestuffs. South Carolina is eminently an agricultural state: in each of its various divisions of soil, peculiar plants can be reared in abundance. The climate has the heat of the tropics, and the changeableness of more northern skies. The character of the people of this state is perhaps more definitely formed than that of any part of the U. S. Warm, generous and brave, they are also passionate and indolent. An annual appropriation is made by the Legislature of about $40,000 for the support of free schools. This state is bounded north and north east by North Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; and south west by Georgia. Situated between 32° and 35° 10′ N. Lat. and 78° 30′ and 83° 10′ W. Lon. Governor, George McDuffie. Election 2d Monday in October; meeting Legislature 4th Monday in November.

GEORGIA.

In 1732, some benevolent gentlemen in England conceived a project for planting a colony in the southern part of the territory included in the Carolina charter, for the purpose of transporting thither the indigent subjects of Great Britain, and the persecuted protestants of all nations. General James Oglethorpe was a great promoter of this philanthropic scheme. In 1773, a number of emigrants arrived and settled at Yamacraw bluff, or Savannah. By the liberality of the proprietors in extending their patronage alike to all classes of emigrants, as early as 1740 the number of settlers was 2498. It is thought that the diversity of soil is greater in Georgia than in any other single state in the union. About one half is flat, alluvial land, the residue hilly or mountainous, and abundantly fertile. Many valuable tropical productions can be cultivated in this state. Oranges, olives, figs, and other articles, which are strangers at the north, are easily raised. The flat land is, however, like that of Carolina, quite unhealthy. This state is bounded north by Tennessee; north east by South Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Florida, and west by Alabama. Cotton and tobacco are its staple articles. Situated between 30° 12′ and 35° N. Lat. and 80° 47′ and 85° 42′ W. Lon. Governor, ——— ———. Election 1st Monday in October; meeting Legislature first Monday in Novem-

ALABAMA.

This state is bounded north by Tennessee; east by Georgia; south by Florida and the gulf of Mexico; and west by Mississippi. Betwen Lat. 30° 12′ and 35° N. The face of this state is much diversified, and its soil differs in quality from the best to the worst. That part of the state that lies along the gulf of Mexico is low, marshy and sandy, and is unhealthy: about 10 miles from the coast the country becomes more elevated and more healthy, but less productive. As in this section of country generally, the land decreases in value on receding from the rivers. This state abounds in rivers, some of which are boatable for a great distance. All parts of this state are productive of maize; and small grain is raised in its hilly and northern parts. Cotton is the chief staple. A great variety of fruits are easily cultivated here, such as the apple, pear, peach and plum; and even the fig and pomegranate in the lowest latitudes. This state has a bank capital of upwards of a million, and a large fund for internal improvements. Congress has been liberal to Alabama in granting to her great resources for the advancement of education. Governor, C. C. Clay. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 4th Monday in October.

MISSISSIPPI.

This state takes it name from the great river which forms the chief part of its western boundary. Its soil is various. Two thirds of the state are supposed to be covered with pine forest, and only about one third part is either bluff, or river alluvial; this portion of the soil is however of remarkable fertility. It is chiefly confined to the west and south west parts of the state, and these acordingly contain a large share of the white inhabitants, leaving the northeastern part to the almost exclusive possession of the Indians. There is a sea coast of about 80 miles, but not a single harbor, so that New Orleans is the mart of the state. This state has a large range of Latitude, and its climate is quite variable; the thermometer at Natchez has stood as low as 12 above zero of Fahrenheit. The seasons are however generally mild and warm. Cotton is the great staple; the fig abounds south of 32°, but the orange is not entirely safe from occasional frost. The natural and exotic productions of the soil are innumerable. Among the animals, the alligator may be mentioned as being often found in the streams. Mississippi was formerly a part of Georgia. This state is bounded N. by Tennessee; east by Alabama; south by the gulf of Mexico and Louisiana; west by Louisiana and the Arkansas territory. Between Lat. 30° 10′ and 35° north and Lon. 88° 10′ and 91° 35′ W. Governor, H. G. Runnels. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

LOUISIANA.

There is perhaps no portion of the world, of the extent of Louisiana, which has so great a variety of soils, or so many water courses within its territory. This state has about six million acres of alluvial land of superior excellence; the residue of her soil, about 12 million acres, consisting of pine forests, prairie, river inundated land, and sea marsh, is, for the most part, unfit for agricultural purposes. There is but little land of a medium quality in Louisiana: it is generally either extremely fertile, or entirely worthless; and from the vast proportion of the soil which can never be used for agricultural purposes, it can never be expected that this state should support a population equally dense with those of the northern states. It is observable that the settlements in Louisiana are not in spots, or groups, but in lines or strips, along the margins of the rivers. Extremes of manners prevail as well as of soils; from the highest degree of luxury and refinement in the rich planters near New Orleans, to the semi barbarism of the wild hunters of the buffalo and the deer, upon the boundless prairies of the south west. Throughout the state there is nearly an equal mixture of the French and American population, but the latter is fast gaining ground. Louisiana has set her sister states the example of leaving the English law, and forming for herself a valuable code, modelled upon the civil law. This state comprises the southern part of a large tract of country purchased by the U. S. of France in 1803. The river Mississippi was discovered by two French Missionaries in 1673. The country was afterwards explored, and in honor of Louis the XIV. was called Louisiana. The capital invested in the cultivation of the sugar cane is supposed to amount to 30 millions of dollars. 50,000 hogsheads of sugar are considered an average crop, and 5 per cent. is considered an average profit. The number of steam boats actually running on the Mississippi and its tributa-

y streams in 1830 was 213 The first steam boat on these waters commenced running in 1812. By legislative enactment nearly $40,000 are annually appropriated to the education of the poor. This state is bounded N. by the Arkansas territory; east by Mississippi; south by the Gulf of Mexico, and west by the Mexican states. Between Lat. 29° and 33° N. and Lon. 89° and 94° W. Governor, Edward D. White. Election 1st Monday in July; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in January.

TENNESSEE.

This state was first settled by the whites in 1765, and was formerly a part of North Carolina and ceded by that state to the United States in 1789. In consequence of a part of this state being very low, and a part of it very high land, the soil and climate are more various than in any other portion of the United States whose difference of latitude is only 1° 40′. The soil of this state is generally very luxuriant, and produces large crops of cotton, wheat, rice, and tobacco. Bounded north by Kentucky; east by North Carolina; south by Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi; and west by Mississippi river. Between 35° and 36° 40′ North Lat. and 81° 45′ and 90° 3′ W. Lon. Governor, ——— Cannon. Election 1st Thursday in August; meeting Legislature 3d Monday in September, biennially.

KENTUCKY.

This state is bounded north by Ohio and Indiana; east by Virginia; south by Tennessee; west by Illinois and Missouri; between 36° 30′ and 39° 10′ North Lat. and 81° 45′ and 89° W. Lon. This territory was part of Virginia until 1792, when it became a state. The climate is very fine, and the soil superior for agricultural purposes. The first white settlers removed to Kentucky in 1775, and its growth has been ever since exceedingly rapid. The external appearance of things is so inviting, that it has been called the "garden of the west." It is richly wooded, and has an immense variety of flowering plants and shrubs. Nor is this beauty deceptive, for a large part of the state is covered with a deep strong soil. Nearly the whole country rests on a lime stone foundation, into which the rivers have worn deep channels, of course leaving the banks bold and precipitous. Its staples are wheat, corn, cattle, hemp and salt. Acting Governor, J. T. Morehead.

Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

OHIO.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It is bounded S. E. by the Ohio river, or Virginia; south by the Ohio river, or Kentucky; west by Indiana; north by Michigan territory and Lake Erie, and E. by N. by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 30′ and 42° N. Lat. and 80° 20′ and and 84°, 43′ W. Lon. The first permanent settlement of the whites in this state was commenced in 1788, at Marietta, near the junction of the Ohio and Muskingum rivers in Lat. 35° 25′ N. and Lon. 81° 18 W. 172 miles below Pittsburg. The waters of Ohio and its tributary streams, with those of Lake Erie afford this state peculiar privileges. The best proof that can be given of the exuberance of its soil and the industry and enterprize of its people is to state the fact, unprecedented in the settlement of any country, that in 1783 this territory was inhabited only by savages; and that in 1830 had a population of nearly a million, enjoying all the comforts and luxuries of civilized life in profusion, without a slave to teach them the blessings of liberty; and with minds and means to foster good schools, the bane of slavery. This state is eminently agricultural, and has many and various staples; wheat, however, is the principal. This state has a school fund of $150,000; and one mill on a dollar of the estimated property of the state is annually levied and appropriated to the maintenance of common schools. One thirty sixth part of the land in this, and other new states in the west, is devoted to purposes of education. Governor, Robert Lucas. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

INDIANA.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It was erected into a territorial government in 1800. It is bounded north and north west by Michigan territory and lake; east by Ohio; south by Kentucky, or the Ohio river; and west by Illinois. It lies between 37° 47′ and 41° 46′ north Lat. and 84° 43′ and 87° 55′ west Lon. The face of this country is more level than that of Ohio; its productions are much the same, although there is not so large a proportion of good land. Yet there are parts of this state not exceeded in fertility by any country;

the vegetable soil has in many places measured 22 feet in depth. The most striking feature in the geography of Indiana is the Prairies, or natural meadows, which extend over a large portion of the state. They are destitute of trees, and covered with grass and wild flowers, of 6 or 8 feet high. These prairies cover a vast extent of country north west of the Ohio, and also on the west of the Mississippi. They afford pasturage to countless herds of buffaloes, deer, and various other wild animals. Governor, Noah Noble. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

ILLINOIS.

There is no section of country of equal extent whose soil and climate are so well adapted to all kinds of agricultural purposes, or whose water communications with the ocean are more numerous and important than those of Illinois. The face of the country is generally either prairie, or rolling, rather than hilly land; it is mostly level in its eastern section. There is but little if any waste land in this state; and at this period there are large portions of territory, of superior soil and climate, densely covered with forest timber, for sale at prices well worthy the attention of the settler or speculator. Illinois river, which traverses the whole of the centre of this state, and falls into the Mississippi 36 miles above St Louis, 1184 above New Orleans, is a subject of curiosity, in as much as it is the natural link between the almost boundless waters of the Mississippi basin, and those of the western lakes. The distance from the mouth of the Illinois to Chicago, on Michigan lake, is upwards of 400 miles, yet the fall from a summit level on that river, both to the Mississippi and to lake Michigan does not exceed 60 feet. Loaded boats of considerable size pass on that river, to and from those distant waters, in the season of freshets, without any effort of art to facilitate the navigation. Illinois lies between lat. 36° 57′ and 42° 30′ N. and in lon. 87° 12′ and 91° 5′ W. Bounded N. by the N. W. territory; E. by Indiana; S. by Kentucky; and W. by Missouri. Governor Joseph Duncan. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December, biem.

MISSOURI.

This state is bounded N. E. and S. E. by the Mississippi river; S. by the territory of Arkansas; and W. and N. by the western unappropriated territory of the U. S.

formerly a part of Louisiana. Between Lat. 36° and 40° 36′ N. and Lon. 88° 25′ and 94° 10′ W. The territory of this state was formerly a part of Louisiana. The first white settlements were made by the French in 1760. St. Louis was first settled in 1762; but this country having changed masters, passing from France to Spain, and then from Spain to France, grew in population and importance but slowly until the cession of it to the U. S. by France in 1803. The climate of Missouri is liable to great extremes of heat and cold. In metal and other fossil substances, Missouri is probably the richest region in the U. S. The lead mines of Missouri, which are chiefly in the county of Washington, are considered the most valuable in the known world. Governor, Daniel Dunklin. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

MICHIGAN TERRITORY.

This territory includes a peninsula formed by Lake Huron, St. Clair and Erie on the north east, Lake Michigan on the west, and bounded south by the states of Ohio and Indiana, and also the extensive tract of country between the Mississippi, and the Lakes Superior and Michigan. From the fertility of the soil, the goodness of the climate, and the ease with which produce can be transported by lake, canal, and river navigation to New York, it cannot be doubted that this territory will soon become an important member of the Union. Indeed it possesses singular advantages for the most extensive inland commerce, and is already the centre of the north western fur trade. The face of the country is generally flat, or gently rolling. There is much that is extremely fertile; but the coldness and great length of the winter will probably obstruct its settlement till the more southern regions of the Ohio shall be filled. Detroit is the principal place of business in Michigan. It is situated on a strait between lakes Erie and St. Clair, 18 miles from the former, and 9 miles below the latter. Detroit was first settled by the French in 1670, and has ever been a point of country of considerable interest. This territory is situated between 41° 31′ and 46° 51′ north Lat. and 82° 18′ and 87° 25′ west Lon. Acting Governor, John S. Horner.

ARKANSAS TERRITORY.

This territory was formed out of ancient Louisiana, and became a territory of the U. S. in 1819. It is bounded east by the river Mississippi; south by Louisiana and Red river; west by Texas; and north by the unappropriated territory of the U. S. and by Missouri. It extends about 550 miles from east to west, and between north Lat. 33° and 36° 30′. The first settlements in the Louisiana country were made in this territory. From the great extent of this territory, the face of the country, the soil and the climate are much diversified. A chain of mountains passes through Arkansas from N. E. to S. W. and extends into Texas. The country S. E. of the mountains is low and liable to annual submersion. To the N. W. the country presents a large expanse of prairie, without wood, except on the borders of rivers. As low at Lat. 35° the thermometer ranges from 97° above, to 20° below zero. Arkansas has a large portion of land of great fertility, which produces cotton, corn, cattle, with a great variety of fruits and vegetables. Large quantities of iron ore, gypsum, and common salt are found in this territory.

FLORIDA TERRITORY.

This territory is bounded north by Georgia; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by the gulf of Mexico; and west by the same gulf and Alabama. This is the most southern part of the U. S. It is divided into East and West Florida; the former is on the Atlantic ocean and has St. Augustine for its capital, in Lat. 29° 45′ N and Lon. 81° 30′ W. The latter is on the gulf of Mexico and has Pensacola for its capital, in Lat. 30° 28′ N and 88° 12′ W. Both are however under one territorial government. Florida was discovered in 1512, and was first settled by the French, in 1562. In 1639 it was conquered by Spain. Although Florida is a peninsula of more than 1000 miles outline of the sea coast, only 120 miles mean breadth, and less in size than the state of Illinois, yet owing to the indolence or inattention of its former possessors, a large portion of its territory is but imperfectly known. From the best sources it appears that the soil of Florida is of an inferior quality, excepting those sections of it near and along its streams. The vegetable productions of Florida are numerous and valuable; cotton, indigo, rice, sugar cane, indian corn and tobacco; also the olive, orange, lime, peach and oak and laurel magnolia are indigenous. The climate of Florida is soft and delicious, rarely suffering from extreme cold, and constantly refreshed by sea breezes from the Atlantic or the gulf of Mexico. Invalids from all parts of the U. S. resort to St Augustine for health, and are generally benefitted by the air. This territory was ceded to Great Britain in 1763, and in 1781 it was again recovered by Spain.

GREAT WESTERN TERRITORY.

With the exception of a number of trading houses, and military posts, this territory is peopled only by the natives of the forest. Its government, for temporary purposes, is connected with that of Michigan. The best account of the character of the natives, the soil, climate and rivers of this country is found in the journal of Lewis & Clark, who under the direction of the national government, traversed this immense region, over the rocky mountains to the Columbia river on the Pacific ocean, in the years 1804, '5 and '6 and in a later account by Major Long, who with an exploring party visited the valley of the Missouri in 1823. Our knowledge however of this territory is at present quite limited; but as a part of the soil is known to be very good, the face of the country rather undulating than hilly, the climate mild for its latitude, particularly on the western side of the mountains, and the passage of the Rocky mountains less difficult than has been supposed other states and territories like Ohio, Illinois and Michigan will doubtless arise in this distant, but highly interesting section of the territory of the U. S. Large quantities of furs and peltry are collected in this territory and sent to Detroit. This territory has a western outline on the Pacific ocean of about 500 miles. The Columbia, Oregon, or River of the West is estimated to be about 1600 miles long; it rises in the Rocky mountains in Lat. about 55° N. and falls into the Pacific ocean in Lat. 46° 15′ N. and Lon. 123° 54′ W.; and is navigable 183 miles from its mouth, to which distance the tide flows. When the Indian titles to these unappropriated lands of the U. S. are extinguished, 150 states may be formed of larger territory than that of Massachusetts.

INDIANS IN THE UNITED STATES.

It is calculated that there are 313,130 Indians within the limits of the United States; of which number 90,000 are west of the Rocky Mountains. The United States annually pay to the Indians in permanent and limited annuities, for education and treaty stipulations for lands, &c. more than $300,000.

REPRESENTATIVE NUMBERS.

The manner of computing numbers on which representation in Congress is based, is different in the slave-holding States from what it is in the others. In the former, the number of white persons, and three fifths of the slave population, make the number on which the right of sending representatives is founded. Thus suppose a State to have 640,000 white persons, and 425,000 slaves; three fifths of the latter are to be added to the former, making 895,000; and on this number such State sends representatives. The following are the representative numbers according to the last census. Every 47,700 inhabitants sends one representative.

MINISTERS AND CONSULS OF THE UNITED STATES

RESIDENT IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Ministers Plenipotentiary receive an annual salary of $9,000, besides $9,000 for outfit. A charge d'Affaires receives a salary of $4,500, and a Secretary of Legation $2,000.

Consuls of Barbary are more of Diplomatic than Commercial Agents; not only as regards their vocations, but also as it respects their compensation.

They receive regular annual salaries, and their pay does not in the least depend on fees. Consuls of the United States, generally so called, are, in effect, agents for commerce and seamen. They receive no yearly salaries, (except in Paris and London, where they have an annual salary of $2000) and their compensation is derived from the fees which are allowed by law. Consuls of the United States, for commercial purposes, are regularly admitted and recognised, as to their official functions, in the ports of Europe; but n the colonies of the European nations, agents for ommerce and seamen, mostly exercise the duties of heir stations under courtesy, without any formal re-ognition.

In their public capacity, consuls and agents for ommerce and seamen are principally occupied in ve-ifying, in different forms, the legality of the trade of he United States with foreign nations, and in reliev-ng and sending home American seamen, who by ac-ident or misfortune, are left destitute within the ju-isdiction of the several consulates or agencies.

Consular agents, though not recognised by law, have n some cases been made by our ministers abroad for pecial and temporary purposes; but commissions for hese appointments are not granted by the United States.—National Calendar.

N. B.—To understand the use of this table—against $2 for one week, you will find the interest to be 1 mill—for one month, 1 cent—for one year, 12 cents.

☞Punch a hole with a bodkin, through the corner of the back of the Register, insert a string, and attach to it a lead pencil. With this minutes can be made at all times, with ease and convenience upon the memorandum pages for each month in the year. A pen should never be used. "Be particular," in this, and in making minutes daily. They will be found extremely valuable, for reference. No professional man, merchant, farmer or mechanic, should be without a Register, nor should he neglect a careful attention to the memorandum tables.

NO. XX. . . . . 1837.

WALTON'S

VERMONT REGISTER

AND

FARMER'S ALMANAC,

1837:

Calculated for the Meridian of Montpelier, Lat. 44° 17′ N. and Long. 4° 25′ E. from the capitol at Washington.

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS BY

ZADOCK THOMPSON, A. M.

MONTPELIER:

PUBLISHED BY E. P. WALTON & SON.

EXPLANATIONS.

As several alterations have been made in the Astronomical Calculations for the present year and the whole adapted to mean time, some explanations may not be improper.

Mean time is that shown by a well regulated clock, or timepiece. Apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial The difference between mean and apparent time, is called the equation of time. The equation of time depends upon two causes: 1. The obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, which causes an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension. 2. The unequal motion of the earth in its orbit, while the motion on its axis is uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz. on the 15th of April, the 15th of June, the 31st of August and the 24th of December.

It has been customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and in another column to give the equation of time. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a clock or timepiece, by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, given in the Almanac, and also the amount of refraction, which in our latitude varies from 2 to 4 minutes. But as this matter is little understood, and is attended by some trouble, no notice is usually taken of these corrections, and in their endeavors to make their timepieces agree with the sun, people find it necessary, if they run correctly, to alter them almost every day.

In the following Calendar the time of the sun's rising and setting are the times shown by a correct timepiece, when the sun is in the horizon. The column marked * South, contains the times by the timepiece when the sun is on the meridian, or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noonmark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the timepiece. Again, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes past 11 o'clock by the timepiece. The other matters are so plain as to need no explanation.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

There will be five eclipses in the year 1837, three of the sun and two of the moon.

I. The first will be an eclipse of the Sun, on the 5th day of April, invisible. This eclipse will be seen only from a small portion of the Southern Ocean.

II. The second will be a total eclipse of the Moon on the 20th day of April. This eclipse will end a little before the moon rises, and will not therefore be visible at Montpelier.

III. The third will be a partial eclipse of the Sun on the 4th day of May, invisible at Montpelier. Conjunction at 2h 12m in the evening. This eclipse will be seen from the northwestern part of North America and from the Northern Ocean.

IV. The fourth will be a total eclipse of the Moon on the 13th day of October, visible as follows:

Beginning	4h	40 m	Mean time Evening.
Moon rises	5	17
Begining of total dark.	5	41
Middle of the eclipse	6	27
End of total darkness	7	13
End of the eclipse	8	13

Duration of total darkness 1h 32m. Duration of the eclipse 3h 33m. Digits eclipsed 18 10-3 on the Moon's North Limb, or from the south side of the earth's shadow.

V. The fifth will be a partial and invisible eclipse of the Sun, on the 29th day of October. This eclipse will be seen from the southern extremity of South America and from most of the Southern Ocean.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"See now there is snow and the sledding is good;
Make ready your team boys, and get home your wood;
Look well to your barns, and thrash out your grain;
Be content with your lot and never complain."

The orbs of heaven pursue their courses, the seasons walk their round, and creation fulfils the design of its being, man only excepted. Man, wayward man, if not continually goaded or checked, either sinks down into a state of listless inactivity, or is everlastingly wandering out of the way. Hence the necessity of continually setting before him his duty, and of endeavouring by persuasion, by flattery, and by every other means, to induce him to act, in some measure as he should do. But what can I say, that I have not already said upon this subject? The field of argument seems to have been stripped bare; and the arguments to have been presented in every possible point of view. And what have they availed? We see mankind still persisting in the errors we have endeavoured to combat. We see farmers still pursuing what they are pleased to call the good old way, fully resolved to have nothing to do with the improvements of these degenerate times. We see idlers about our streets—dissipation still staggering down the road of wretchedness—and innocence reduced, by the vices of others, to the most abject state of misery and want. These things are against us; but we will not despair.

And tread the steps their fathers trod,

We'll exhort, and we'll threaten, we'll flatter and amuse
All those who have patience our page to peruse;
We'll teach them their duty—we'll teach them the way,
And clear our own skirts, if they do not obey.

As I have room, I would just hint, in this place, that the evenings are now long—that you have a number of good books, (or had ought to have) and have a Newspaper weekly without borrowing of your neighbors—and that you and your family have minds which need improvement. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Dark flitting round a mouldering tower,
I spied a strangely awful form,
And swifter moved the hastening power,
And louder roared the crashing storm.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now winter reigns, triumphant reigns,
O'er all the regions round;
The earth is held in icy chains;
The snows o'erspread the ground:
But while the tempest rages dire,
And shakes his tott'ring dome,
The happy farmer trims his fire
Rejoicing in his home.

Old Boreas had a fine frolic last night with the new fallen snows. The roads completely blocked up—no trace of the old paths to be seen! Come boys, let us be stirring—yoke the team—rally the neighbors—and let us open the roads that the poor traveller may go on his way rejoicing, and not be hindered here to upbraid us for a want of energy and public spirit. We will not imitate the conduct of our neighbor Mean-spirit below here, who never stirs out-a-door after a snow-storm till his neighbors have beaten a good path for him, because he knows that their business will compel them to do it. He has the reputation as far as he is known, of being a selfish, niggardly, mean spirited fellow, and he justly deserves the appellation he bears.

Now, while there is a plenty of snow and the sledding good, is the time to replenish your woodhouse.—Neighbor Thoughtless is in the habit of neglecting this business till the snow is nearly or quite gone, and I need not inform you that he always finds hard sledding. But says one, "I have no woodhouse." Then I can tell you that you are not overstocked with economy—that you are without a very necessary article. But this is no excuse for you to neglect to lay in a store of fuel, and to let your wife and children suffer with cold. Attend now to your sledding and erect a woodhouse as soon as possible.

To prevent the bleeding of Vines.—If a piece of moistened bladder be folded over the end of the vine which is cut, and then bound tightly round with packthread, it will effectually prevent bleeding.

'Twas time, on firey pinions driven,
For vollied lightnings rent the sky;
The clouds with hissing bolts were riven,
And ruin rolled in thunder by.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

See! from our clime now surely winter flies;
And see the source of Light and Life uprise;
Yet storms will come and winds impetuous rush,
And hailstones rattle through the budding brush,
And night foll'n lambs require the farmer's care,
And teeming ewes that still their burthens bear.

"How hard the times are, and how scarce money is!" But what is the ground of this complaint? It is necessary that we should know the cause of the evil, if we wish ro remedy it. Running headlong into debt, is the sin which so easily besets us, and it is this for which we smart, and some of us so severely that I hope we shall profit by our bitter experience. But so long as we are guided by fancy instead of reason—so long as we are ruled implicitly by the mandates of the fickle goddess Fashion—or pay our daily devotions at the shrine of Bacchus—just so long we shall tremble at the sight of a constable or sheriff, and just so long shall we be obliged to make the pitiable complaint of "Hard times!—Money is scarce!"

If you have the curse of debt upon you, retrench from your expenses and redouble your exertions, and if, by the blessings of providence, you suceeed in extricating yourself, profit by your sufferings—avoid debt and we shall hear you no more complain of Hard Times.

Deference is the most complicate, the most indirect, and most elegant of all compliments.

Is it not the wound our pride sustains by being deceived, that makes us more averse to hypocrites, than to the most audacious and barefaced villain? Yet it seems as much a piece of justice to commend a man for talking more honest than he acts, as it is to blame a man for acting more dishonestly than he talks. The sum of the whole, however, is that the one adds to other crimes by deceit, and the other by his impudence.

Then came a voice like rivers pent,
Between two mountains' craggy sides,
Like Erie, o'er its cascade sent,
And hoarser than the ocean tides.

FARMER'S CALENDER.

Spring, lovely spring, returns again
To strew her beauties o'er the plain,
And ev'ry charm display:
To warm the breast with fond desire,
The warblers of the wood inspire,
To tune the sportive lay.

"Dreary winter is now past; the returning zephyrs dissolve the fleecy snow, and unlock the frozen streams, which overflow the meadows, and enrich the teeming earth." Vegetation, which has lain dormant through the winter, is again waking to life; flowers burst from their embryo state to clothe the forests and the meadows with beauty, and the birds fill the air with the melody of their notes.

Come, let us be stirring, and not be the only idle beings in the world! The good husbandman has now sufficient inducement to stimulate him to industry without being continually pricked up like a dull ox.—Fences and stone walls want repairing.

The happiness of a country does not depend on the circumstances of the inhabitants being few or many, but on the proportion which they bear to the supply of necessaries, conveniences and enjoyments at their disposal. A nation having only ten millions of people, might be decidedly more powerful than a nation with twenty millions, if they were less instructed, less industrious, or less rich. But, other things being the same, there can be no doubt that the political power and importance of a nation, will be in a very great degree dependent on the amount of its population.

Ring Worm.—After I had the tetter nearly twenty years on my hand, and had used dollars worth of celebrated tetter ointment, which took off the skin repeatedly without effecting a cure, a friend advised me to obtain some Blood Root, (called also Red Root, Indian Paint, &c.) to slice it in vinegar, and afterwards wash the place affected with the liquid. I did so, and in a few days the dry scurf was removed, and my diseased hand was as whole as the other.—Am. Far.

"Oh, sluggard! while thy life but dreams,
Its every pulse of pleasure dead
In slumber; while the morning beams
Play round thy head—

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"When your lands are prepared, you may, if you please,
Finish sowing your barley, your flax, oats and peas;
By the tenth plant potatoes—by the fifteenth your corn,
And see that your sheep in good season are shorn."

At this season, the following axioms may suggest some profitable hints to those whose business it is to cultivate the soil.

1. Despise not your own profession, but regard it as all should do, the first in respectability and importance.

2. Do not attempt to cultivate more land than you can stock and manure to advantage. Remember it is better to till 30 acres well than 100 in a slovenly manner. What you cannot improve do not undertake to cultivate. Cultivate what you attempt to cultivate well—the remainder of your lands will yield the most profit in firewood and timber. Large pastures may be profitable with no other labour than what is necessary to keep them clear of bushes; but to run over 20 acres of plough land, or mowing land for what, with good cultivation, may be obtained from five, is the very quintescence of folly and bad husbandry.

3. Endeavor to raise good grain, for it will always sell for a good price, even in years of plenty; whereas it is only in seasons of scarcity that there is a demand for grain of an inferior quality.

4. Let your stock of cattle, horses, sheep, &c. be of the best sorts, and more remarkable for utility than for beauty, or fashion.

5. Depend upon your own farms for the subsistence and comforts of life, and admit no guest into your house, who cannot live on the productions of our own country.

These axioms, reduced to general practice, would soon change the aspect of our country. A portion of our now half cultivated farms would soon acquire the neatness and fertility of a garden, while the remainder run up to beautiful groves, affording an abundance of firewood and timber, with increased profit to the possessor.

What joy! to catch the fragrant gales,
With pinions sweeping as they play,
O'er each fair flow'ret that exhales
The breath of May.

FARMER'S CALENDAR,

"O'er heaven's bright azure now with joyful eyes
The farmer sees dark clouds assembling rise;
Borne o'er his fields a heavy torrent falls,
And strikes the earth with hasty driving squalls,
"Right welcome down ye precious drops," he cries,
But soon, too soon, the partial blessing flies."

A continual dropping weareth away stones, said the wise preacher of Israel. But mind ye! the dropping must all be in one place to effect this, and not be scattered like the blows of my neighbor Thorndike's axe, now here and then there, all around his place.—By this means he does not cut and split as much wood and as many rails as he wants for his own use, though he seems to be at it half his time. Neighbor T. is not indolent. No. I went to see him the other day,—called at his house—was told he had gone down to his quarry before day—went thither—some one had been at work—half a dozen stones had been newly turned out—learned from a boy he had gone to the other side of his place to mend a piece of bad road—went there—he had been to work, and had drawn in a load of gravel and a few logs, just enough to make it worse—but was gone, as I learned from a black man, who was trying to get his cart over the place, half a mile up the swamp, where he had some timber for rails. I followed and arrived at the place just as he had shouldered his axe, and was marching off, having got out about a dozen rails. He told me he had a bridge to mend, a fence to put up and some corn to weed that day, so I left him as soon as possible. But none of these things were fully accomplished, though his interest were suffering on the account; yet all these things might have been accomplished had he attempted but one thing at a time.

Be cautious not to consider a person as your superior, merely because he is your superior in the point of assurance. This has often depressed the spirit of a person of desert and diffidence.

What joy! to hear the quaver'd song,
That shames the brow of sloth and care,
In grateful numbers float along
The peopled air.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Ten thousand thousand insects gay,
Warm'd by the sun's enlivening ray,
Awake to life and joy:
Hark! hear the maw-man whet his scythe,
All now are merry, gay and blithe,
Not one without employ.

Come, wife, let us broach the barrel of hop beer!—We are about to begin our haying, and are determined to make this beverage a substitute for ardent spirits this season. Since we have declaimed so loudly against the use of spiritous liquors, if we do not inculcate the same by our example, our neighbours will think we are more willing to be fools ourselves, than to have others so.

Beware of tattling; or more poetically,

"Talk not of others' business; but beware
Of whom you talk, to whom, of what, and where."

If we blow the coals of others' strife, it would not be strange if some of the sparks should fly in our faces. It is much the best to mind our own business, and the most effectual way to make others mind theirs.

A woman never appears so truly amiable as in retirement; her virtues shine with double lustre.

Do not idly imagine that, by running to public places, you will have a better chance of marrying. If a woman is ever so beautiful, being seen too often makes her cheap in the eyes of men. She who is but rarely seen, men covet most to see, and her chance of being happily married is much greater.

Anger destroys Reason.—When a man is angry it will answer no good purpose to attempt to argue a point with him, or to try to convince him that he is wrong, either in practice or in principle. You must wait till the paroxysm of passion has subsided, and the impatient sufferer becomes again a rational being.

Each season hath charms for the eye,
In each, Jesus' goodness we scan;
In the blood-tinctured hues of the sky
We read his deep suff'rings for man.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"And now the farmer quits his elbow chair,
Flies to the field the genial toil to share,
To turn the swarth, the quiv'ring load to rear,
Or ply the busy rake the land to clear;
Summer's light garb itself so cumbrous grown,
Each his thin doublet in the shade throws down."

Some one in casting up his accounts, put down a very large sum per annum for his idleness. But there is another account more awful than that of our expenses, in which many will find that their idleness has mainly contributed to the balance against them. From its very inaction, idleness ultimately becomes the most active cause of evil; as a palsy is more to be dreaded than a fever. The Turks have a proverb which says The devil tempts all other men, but that idle men tempt the devil.

Drive your haying and harvesting and not let that drive you. Now there is my neighbor Doubty spending all the time in speculating. He neglects his business—his crops are wasting—while he is determined to be rich without the trouble of pursuing the tedious process of farmer Thrifty, who is now possessed of his thousands and independent so far as is desirable in the present state. He is going to be rich at once and by speculation too. Now I would just whisper in his ear what the proverb says: "He that would be rich in one year is hanged at six months' end."

When a person, for a splendid servitude, forgoes an humble independency, it may be called an advancement, if you please; but it appears to me an advancement from the pit to the gallery. Liberty is a more invigorating cordial than Tokay.

Independency may be found in comparative, as well as absolute, abundance; I mean where the person contracts his desires within the limits of his fortune.

How to become irrational.—If you wish to incapacitate yourself for rational intercourse, be a drunkard, for that will render you wholly unfit for it.

When the beauties of spring are preferr'd,
And music and stillness accord,
In the notes of the ring-dove are heard
The groans of our agonized Lord.

FARMER'S CALENDAR. .

"As soon as the storm and the bad weather is over,
Secure all your grain and your flax under cover;
Give salt to your cattle and take up your bees;
Dig early potatoes and plough if you please."

The farmer if he minds his own business only has the best title to happiness of any man, and is the surest of enjoying it. His mind and his bodily powers are constantly engaged, on which account he not only escapes the insipidity of indifference and the tediousness of inactivity, but has enjoyments which are wholly unknown to those who live indolently upon the toils of others. . Life affords no higher satisfaction than that of surmounting difficulties, passing from one degree of success to another, forming designs and seeing them accomplished. He that labours in any laudable employment, has his fatigues supported by hope and usually crowned with joy.

How is the barn, the wood house and door yards, Mr. Snuggins? Do you keep them in a husbandlike manner, or is your yard encumbered with brush, old rails, stumps, straw, chips, leached ashes, rotten cabbage, dead cats, old rags and fleas? And the wood house filled with broken ploughs, dislocated wheelbarrows, hog's nests and skunk's skins? And your barn crammed with old barrels, sleighs, wheels, useless rakes, forks, gate posts, guide boards and broken grindstones? Some will have it that a slovenly farmer gets as much profits from his farm as a neat one. But I don't believe it. If a man depend on raising and selling butter and cheese, he is sure to meet a quick market. if he is known to be neat and trim about his husbandry. I could name some, (but I will wait a while,) whose butter and cheese I would no sooner eat than I would the very filth of a jakes.

"Never loose sight of the powerful influence of example, and be careful in the management of your concerns, to recommend by your own personal practice uniform habits of active, interested and persevering diligence to those in your employ."

When the summer unfoldeth her charms,
For the soul of contemplative mirth,
His sun still enlightens and warms,
His the air that refreshes the earth.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Alack, my good lady, there comes Goody Thumper,
With jug by her side, a budget and bumper;
I'll warrant you now, or at least I dare guess,
She longs for new cider as it runs from the press."

"He's a Genius," people said of my young friend Alcansor, and it got to Alcansor's ears, as such things will nine cases out of ten. The youth was promising fair for manhood—with industry and prudence to follow up the advantages he possessed he would have become an ornament to society. But the idea of being a genius haunted him day and night. He put on a thousand ridiculous airs and fell into as many ridiculous practices—become puffed up with vanity and self-conceit and let slip all his golden opportunities in grasping after the foolish phantoms that flitted before his bewildered brain. He turned out a poor creature.—Praise did the mischief.

"What a beautiful girl! the young gentlemen used to say, when they passed Jane Seymour's window, and got a glance at her face and pretty figure. It was no wonder they called her beautiful, for she was so. But persuade a young lady she is beautiful, very beautiful, and she must be a girl of extraordinary good sense, if she don't let the thing run in her head, to the exclusion of more profitable thoughts. Jane once cultivated her mind, was industrious and ingenious with her needle—bid fair to become an excellent house-keeper—and she would have been a rare prize, if left to the guidance of her natural judgment. But she soon began to conclude that she was beautiful—that beauty compensated for every thing else. Those of the beaux, who had worth, having thought differently—the others she would not except, and this misunderstanding lost her a husband. No sensible man ever thought a beautiful wife was worth as much as one who could make a good pudding. I wish girls all knew this, for I feel a great interest in their welfare."

A man's best fortune, or his worst, is his wife.

Every morn hath abundance to tell
Of a Saviour's unlimited grace,
When the season of Autumn's mild spell
Proclaims the rich smiles of his face.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Youth learns compassion's tale from every tongue,
And flies to aid the helpless and the young;
When now unspairing, as the scourge of war,
Blasts follow blasts, and groves dismantled roar,
Around their home the storm pinch'd cattle lows,
No nourishment in frozen pastures grows."

"Here! this way, young man, if you please! What have you to sell?" "Butter, sir." "Where was it made?" "In the family of Capt. Cleanly, about thirty miles in the country." "Come this way, I very well recollect this Capt. Cleanly; he wears a clean white frock when he comes to market himself, and his butter is always clean, bright and sweet. I have been at his house which looks like a nunnery in neatness and regularity. His wife has taught her daughters to be particularly nice and attentive about the dairy, and I am confident the young ladies, who for gentility of behavior and delicacy of appearance are equal to any of our city ladies, are as attentively employed when at the churn and cheese tub, as at the toilet. The Captain's farm has the appearance of a garden. Every thing is in order. Not a tool, nor a twig is out of place. Here, young man, this gentleman and myself will take all your butter, and give you your price."

Winter is at hand, and the good husbandman is prepared for it; but there is neighbor Slothful; he is head and ears in business and has more to do before winter sets in than he could do in six weeks of good weather, and all because he has been moping about and not kept along with the seasons.

A fool can neither eat, nor drink, nor stand, nor walk; nor, in short, laugh, nor cry, nor take snuff, like a man of sense. How obvious the distinction!

The silly excuse that is often drawn from want of time to correspond, become no one besides a cobler with ten or a dozen children dependent on a tatching end.

Till the evening, with sad, silent tread,
Moves mournful and slow to the west,
The sun sinks in ocean's blue bed,
And points to eternity's rest.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Shortning the busy day!—day that slides by,
Amidst the unfinish'd toils of husbandry;
Toils still each morn resum'd with double care,
To meet the icy terrors of the year;
To meet the threats of Boreas undismay'd,
And Winter's gathering frowns and hoary head."

"'Tis a very good world that we live in
To buy or to sell or to give in;—
But to beg, or to borrow or get a man's own,
'Tis the very worst world that ever was known."

Almost every one finds it necessary to borrow, and every one ought to be willing to lend in cases of emergency. But money borrowed and long retained, or to put off for a week, when the call is for a few dollars, "cash borrowed," gives room for the lender to indulge the weakness of nature to surmise and guess—to "wonder if he is not hard run, or whether he is not on his last legs." Now in borrowing every one should keep a good eye to the payment of it again. The merchant hates the man who will borrow to carry through a speculation, and enrich himself at his expense—the mechanic hates the neighbor who wears out his tools by eternally borrowing them. And the Almanack-Maker hates the man who will borrow his Almanack instead of buying it. If any one should borrow this Register I hope he will borrow from it a lesson which will teach him to go immediately and buy one.

And now to those who borrow without end,
Who drain the purse of neighbor and of friend;
May you be happy underneath the sun,
Nor hate, as I hate one thing—that's a—DUN.

The state of man is not unlike that of a fish hooked by an angler. Death allows us a little more line. We flounce, and sport, and vary our situation; but when we would extend our schemes we discover our confinement, checked and limited in by a superior hand, who drags us from our element whensoever he pleases.

So the stern winter season erewhile,
And the tempest that threaten'd above,
Shall yield to the durable smile
Of spring ever blooming in love.

TABLE FOR THE WEATHER.

If the new moon, the first quarter, the full moon or the last quarter happens

— 8 and 10	Ditto	Ditto.
— 10 and midnight	Fair	Fair and frosty.

Observations. 1. The nearest the time of the Moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the 7 days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to mid day or noon the phases of the moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the summer, though they affect spring and autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change, first quarter, full, and last quarter happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind as is noted in the table.

6. Tho' the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of autumn, the whole of winter, and the beginning of spring—yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly, especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be in sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed. With this precaution he will scarcely ever be deceived in depending on the table.

[For further observations, see Register, 1835, p. 42.]

THE UNION.

A brief view of the Union, embracing the settlement, climate, soil, productions, &c. of each state, Governor 1836–7, state elections, and meeting of the Legislatures.

MAINE.

The District of Maine, so called, until it became an independent state in 1820, had been connected with Massachusetts in all its political and social relations. The celebrated John Smith made an unsuccessful attempt to settle this country in 1614. The first permanent lodgement of the whites in this state was made from the Plymouth colony at York, in 1630. Emigration to this state has been more slow than to those of milder climate; yet perhaps there is no state in the nion, that promises more independence from its own atural strength and resources than Maine. Its first ettlers were a race of men with good minds, stout earts and strong arms; by them and their sons the tately forests were converted into an article of comerce, of immense value; thus preparing large porons of the soil for its ultimate staples,—wheat, beef, nd wool. The St. Croix, Sheepscot, Androscoggin, aco and other rivers, with the noble Penobscot and Kenebec, flowing into the sea on her extensive coast, neeting at their mouths many delightful bays, with slands of romantic beauty, where good harbours aound; together with her fine ships, and hardy sailrs, give to Maine pecuniary advantages for navigaion and the fisheries. Portland is the most important art of trade in this state, and has a fine harbour near he sea, Augusta, at the head of sloop navigation on he Kenebec, 45 miles from its mouth, in lat. 17°44′N. nd lon, 69°50′ W. is a beautiful town, and is now beome the capital of the state. In 1826 there were 38,000 children in Maine, between 4 and 21 years of ge, of which about 102,000 attended school. The nnual expenditure is about $138,000. Every town within the state is obliged by law to raise annually, a sum equivalent at least to 40 cents from each person within the town, for the support of common schools. This State is bounded north west, and north by Lower Canada; east by New Brunswick; south by the Atlantic ocean; and west by New Hampshire. Situated between 43° 5′ and 48° 3′ North Lat. and 70° 55′ and 66° 47′ East Longitude. Andrew P. Dunlap, Governor. Election 2d Monday in Sept. meeting of Legislature, 1st Wednesday in Jan.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

This State was first peopled by Europeans, by virtue of a grant from the Plymouth Company to John Mason and Ferdinando Gorges, in 1622. Their first locations were at Little Harbour, on the west side of Piscataqua river, and at Cocheco, now Dover. In 1631 the first house was built at Portsmouth. In 1638 Exeter was settled. In 1641 the first settlers formed a coalition with Massachusetts, and remained connected with that colony until 1679. In 1719 about 100 families from the north of Ireland settled at Londonderry. They introduced the foot spinning wheel, the manufacture of linen, and the culture of potatoes. In 1776 this colony led the van in forming a constitution of her own, founded on the free suffrages of the people. New Hampshire is more mountainous than any of her sister states, yet she boasts of large quantities of luxuriant interval. Her high lands produce food for cattle of peculiar sweetness; and no where can be found the necessaries, conveniences, and luxuries of life, united, in greater abundance; cattle and wool are its principal staples. This state raises annually $90,000 for the support of common schools, and has a literary fund of a considerable amount derived from a tax on bank capital. This state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Maine, south east by the Atlantic ocean and Massachusetts, south by Massachusetts, and west and north west by Vermont. Situated between 42° 42′ and 45° 14′ North Lat. and 72° 27′ 70° 35′ W. Lon. Isaac Hill, Governor. Election 2d Tuesday in March; meeting of Legislature 1st Wednesday in June.

VERMONT.

The territory of this state was originally claimed by Massachusetts, and afterwards both by New Hampshire and New York. In 1777 the people inhabiting this territory declared themselves independent, and formed a government of their own. Although this fourteenth state was not admitted into the union until after the revolutionary contest was over, yet she vigorously resisted British oppression. Bennington, its oldest town, was chartered by Benning Wentworth, Governor of New Hampshire, in 1749. A range of mountains covered with spruce, hemlock and other evergreens divides this state nearly in the centre;—hence its name; and hence its epithet "Green Mountain Boys," celebrated for their bravery in the war of independence. This state is very fertile and produces all sorts of grain in great abundance. Manufactures flourish on many of the delightful streams of Vermont, and its hills produce marble of superior excellence.—The state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Connecticut river, south by Massachusetts, and west by New York. Situated between 42° 44′ and 45° North Lat. and 73° 16′ and 71° 20′ W. Longitude.—Election 1st Tuesday in Sept.; meeting of the Legislature 2d Thursday in October.

MASSACHUSETTS.

This state, the parent of all the New England colonies, was first permanently settled by Europeans at Plymouth on the 22d of Dec. 1620, by a sturdy band of 101 independents, the prosecuted subjects of King James the first of England. Another colony, under the style of the Massachusetts Bay colony, was planted at Salem in 1628. These colonies remained seperate till 1686, when both colonies were deprived of their charters. In 1692 they were united into one colony under a new charter. The country, now the N. England States, was formerly called North Virginia, but owing to the favorable representations of it made by the celebrated John Smith, who visited Massachusetts Bay in 1614, it has ever since, in compliment to its luxuriance and beauty, bore its present name.—

During the Indian and French wars, Massachusetts expended much blood and treasure; on her soil the first spark of American independence was lighted, and her arm was the strongest in the combat for its achievement. This state has about 50 millions of dollars invested in manufacturing stock; more than 30 millions of dollars in bank capital, and about 8 millions in insurance stock. A great variety and amount of manufactured articles are exported from this state; also fish, whale-oil, lumber, beef, pork and other productions of the sea and soil. Her literary, religious and charitable institutions are the pride of Massachusetts. Within a few years Boston alone has expended nearly two millions of dollars for objects of that character exclusive of an annual expenditure of about $200,000 for the support of public and private schools. This state is bounded north by Vermont and New-Hampshire; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Rhode Island and Connecticut, and west by New York. Situated between 41° 31′ and 42° and 53′ North Lat. and 73° and 17′ and 69° 48′ W. Long. Governor, Edward Everett. Election 2d Monday in November. meeting of Legislature, 1st Wednesday in January.

RHODE ISLAND.

The Father of this state was Roger Williams, a man remarkable for his benevolence, justice, and pacific policy. He was banished from the Plymouth colony for avowing the doctrine of equal toleration of all religious sects in the same political community. He purchased lands of the Indians at Moosehausic, where, in 1636, with his followers he laid out a plantation, and which place, in grateful acknowledgement of the kindness of heaven, he called Providence. In 1638, William Coddington and others followed Williams and settled the island of Rhode Island. By the wise policy of Williams towards the Indians, and his respect to all sects of religion, this colony was rendered exceeding prosperous. This state pays annually $10,000 for the maintenance of free schools. It is worthy of remark that this is the only state in the union which is without a written constitution. Its government is founded on the charter of Charles 2d in 1663. This state is bounded north and east by Massachusetts, south by the Atlantic ocean, west by Connecticut.—Situated between 41° 18′ and 42° 1′ N. Lat. and 71° 48′ and 71° 1′ W. Lon. Governor, John B. Francis. Election, governor and senators in April, representatives in April and August; meeting Legislature 1st Wednesday in May & June, and last in Oct. & Jan.

CONNECTICUT.

The Plymouth Company in England granted this territory to the Earl of Warwick in 1630, who in the following year, assigned it to Viscount Say and Seal, and Lord Brook, but it was first settled by the whites at Windsor, by a party from the Plymouth colony, in 1630. Hartford and Weathersfield were settled by parties from Dorchester, and Watertown, Massachusetts, in 1635 and 1636. The Dutch claiming this country, as belonging to the New Netherlands, it was a subject of strife between them and the English until 1650, when a treaty of amity and partition was made. In 1638 a party from England planted a colony at New Haven, which remained unconnected with that on Connecticut river until 1665, when they were united. Connecticut has a School Fund, which amounts to nearly 2 millions, affording instruction to about 90,000 children annually. This state is bounded north by Massachusetts; east by Rhode Island; south by Long Island sound, and west by New York. Situated between 40° 58′ and 42° 1′ N. Lat. and 72° 37′ and 71° 43′ W. Lon. Governor, Henry W. Edwards. Election 1st Monday in April; meeting Legislature, 1st Wednesday in May.

NEW YORK.

Henry Hudson, an Englishman, sailing in the Dutch service, discovered Long Island, the Harbour of New York, and the noble river that bears his name, in the year 1609. The Dutch built Fort Orange, at Albany, and commenced a settlement on Manhattan island in 1613. The Dutch claimed all the country between the Connecticut and Delaware rivers and called it New Netherlands. The English had always contested the right of the Dutch to this territory, and i 1664, Charles II. of England having granted to th

Duke of York and Albany all the country betwee
Novia Scotia and Delaware bay, the New Nether lands came into the possession of the English. For Orange was then called Albany, and Manhattan, o
New Amsterdam, New York. New York stands un rivalled by any of her sister states in the union o those things which constitute the prosperity of a peo ple. Her central situation, her excellent climate, he fertile and extensive territory, her navigable rivers her inland seas, her mighty cataracts and never failing streams; together with the proximity of her chief city to the ocean, all afford her the greatest advantages in agriculture, commerce and manufactures. This state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Vermont Massachusetts and Connecticut; south by New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and west and north west by Upper Canada. Between 40° 30′ and 45° N. Lat and 72° 55′ and 79° 50′ W. Lon. Governor, Wm. L Marcy. Election 1st Monday in November; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in January.

NEW JERSEY.

This state was first settled by the Danes, at Bergen, about the year 1624. This country was inhabited by the Swedes and Dutch for many years. The soil of this state is not naturally well adapted to agricultural pursuits, much of the land being either marshy or sandy; yet its proximity to two of the largest markets in the United States, and the industry of its inhabitants have rendered it exceedingly productive of all sorts of fruits and vegetables common to the climate, together with grain and meats of various kinds. This state has a school fund of about $246,- 000. From the school fund, and a tax on the bank capital, a liberal appropriation is made for common schools in this state. This state is bounded north by New York; east by the Atlantic ocean and New York; south by Delaware bay; and west by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 57′ and 40° 22′ N.
Lat. and 75° 25′ and 73° 52′ W. Lon. Governor,

Peter D. Vroom. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 4th Tuesday in October.

PENNSYLVANIA.

William Penn, the founder of this powerful state, was the son of Sir William Penn, an admiral in the British navy. He united himself with the society of Friends, then a persecuted sect in England. For services rendered by his father, King Charles the second, in 1681, gave him a tract of land in the western world, and called it Pennsylvania. Penn, with about 2000 followers landed at New Castle, on the Delaware, in 1682, and proceeding up the river, planned Philadelphia, "the city of brotherly love," and erected about 80 buildings the same year. The piety, philanthropy, and wisdom of its founder, the fertility of its soil, the healthiness of its climate, the pacific disposition of the natives, and the lessons of experience derived by the settlement of other colonies in earlier days and under more rigorous skies, all conspired to render this colony the most prosperous of any of which history gives an account. Penn died in 1718 aged 74 years. The resources of this state are immense; and the character of the people is well calculated to give them a proper direction. The beautiful Delaware, and other navigable waters of Pennsylvania, its canals and the fine roads furnish Philadelphia with a great amount of domestic exports, and render it one of the most important marts of foreign and domestic commerce in the United States. Pennsylvania is the greatest manufacturing state in the union, and Philadelphia takes the like rank among our manufacturing cities. This state yields to no other in the variety and extent of its mineral treasures, particularly in its exhaustless mines of anthracite and bituminous coal. This state is bounded north by New York; east by New Jersey; south east by Delaware; south by Maryland and Virginia; and west by Virginia and Ohio. Situated between 39° 43′ and 42° 12′ N. Lat. and 72° 35′ and 80° 26′ W. Lon. Governor, Joseph Ritner. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in December.

DELAWARE.

The first Europeans that settled this state were a party of Swedes and Finns, who, under the patronage of Gustavus Adolphus, landed at Cape Henlopen in 1627. They purchased lands of the Indians on both sides of the river Delaware, and settled themselves at Lewistown, and at the mouth of Christian Creek, near Wilmington. In 1655 the Dutch took possession of the country, and retained it until the New Netherlands were subjugated by the English in 1664. This country was formerly called the "Territories" and afterwards the "three Lower Counties of Delaware" and for many years was under the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania. The name of this state, of the bay and river, is derived from Lord De la War, one of the first settlers of Virginia. This state is generally low and level. is chiefly agricultural, and produces all the staples and luxuries common to its climate, particularly wheat, of which large quantities are floured and exported. This state has a school fund of $170,000. No district is entitled to any share of this fund that will not raise, by taxation, a sum equal to its share of the income of the fund. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware river, Delaware bay, and the Atlantic ocean; and south and west by Maryland. Situated between 38° 29′ and 39° 50′ N. Lat. and 74° 56′ and 75° 40′ W. Long. Governor, —— ——. Election 1st Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature, 1st Tuesday in January biem.

MARYLAND.

About 200 Roman Catholics from England, under a grant from Charles the first to Lord Baltimore, were the first white settlers in this state. They arrived at the mouth of the Potomac in February, 1634, and purchased of the Indians a large village where St. Mary now stands: Lord Baltimore died in 1676, much honored and beloved. This colony was an asylum for the persecuted of religious sects from all parts of the world; which circumstance, with the hospitality of the natives, the fruitfulness of its soil, and the mildness of its climate, tended greatly to its early growth and prosperity. The genuine white wheat, and the bright kites foot tobacco, are said to be peculiar to Maryland. The school fund is derived from $75,000 paid by the U. S. for advances made by Maryland during the late war, and by a tax of 20 cents on every $100 bank capital. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware, and the Atlantic ocean; south and west by Virginia. Situated between 38° and 39° 48′ N. Lat. and 75°15′ 79°25′ W. Lon. Governor, James Thomas. Election 1st Monday in October; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

VIRGINIA.

Three ships with one hundred and five persons, under the command of Christopher Newport, in the service of the London Company, having on board Captain Gosnald and other men of standing, arrived from England at the mouth of the Chesapeake bay on the 26th of April, 1607. On the 13th of May following they landed and settled at Jamestown, on James river. The object of these adventurers was partly curiosity to see a new race of beings; but chiefly to acquire wealth by finding silver and gold, with which this country was supposed to abound. Among these adventurers was John Smith, a man of great boldness of character, and one who had been well schooled in the knowledge of human nature both by travelling and adversity. In 1620 and 1621 one hundred and fifty young women were sent from England and sold to the planters as wives, at prices varying from one hundred to 150 pounds of tobacco, then worth three shillings the pound. About this time twenty negroes were landed from a Dutch vessel and sold for slaves! In 1688 the population of Virginia was about 60,000. The face of the country is much diversified. The part towards the sea is low and level: some of it is marshy: to the west it rises by degrees and becomes mountainous. The soil is quite productive, and large exports are made from this state of flour, corn and tobacco. This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania and Maryland; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by

North Carolina and Tennessee; and west by Kentucky and Ohio. Situated between 36° 33′ 40° 39′ N. L. 75° 35′ and 83° 29′ W. L. This state has a literary Fund of $1,233,523. $45,000 of this fund is annually appropriated to the education of the poor.—This state has also a fund devoted to internal improvements of $2,100,591. Governor, ——— ———. Election in the month of April; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

NORTH CAROLINA.

About the year 1645, a number of Virginians took possession of the country north of Albermarle Sound. They appear to have lived without much regard to law. In 1661 a settlement was made near the Clarendon river by adventurers from Massachusetts, which was abandoned by them in 1663, and their place was soon after supplied by emigrants from Barbadoes.—North and South Carolina were included in one grant from Charles the 1st in 1630, under the name of Carolina. About 1675, two governments were established in Carolina under the present names, yet both were under the direction of the same proprietors until 1729. This country is low, level, and exceedingly marshy for 50 or 80 miles from the sea, it then becomes mountainous. This state produces cotton, rice, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine oak and pitch pine timber. Much tar and turpentine are made in this state. This state has a common school fund of $70,000. This state is bounded north by Virginia; east by the Atlantic ocean, south by South Carolina, and west by Tennessee. Situated between 33° 53′ and 36° 33′ N. Lat. and 75° 45′ and 84° W. Lon. Governor, Jesse Spaight. Election commonly in August; meeting Legislature 2d Monday in November.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The territory of this state and North Carolina was in the same grant from King Charles I. in 1630. In 1670 the governor of Carolina planted a settlement at Port Royal, or Beaufort. The Dutch, French and English, all from different motives, made settlements in South Carolina. This country, for more than 100 miles from the sea, is low, abounding with swamps and marshes. About 150 miles west of Charleston is the ridge, a tract of high land beyond which the country becomes much elevated. This state has many boatable rivers, which, with its safe and convenient navigation among a great number of fertile sea islands, makes Charleston a city of much commercial importance. The soil of this state is various, producing cotton, rice, indigo, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine timber, a great variety of fruits, medicinal plants and dyestuffs. South Carolina is eminently an agricultural state: in each of its various divisions of soil, peculiar plants can be reared in abundance. The climate has the heat of the tropics, and the changeableness of more northern skies. The character of the people of this state is perhaps more definitely formed than that of any part of the U. S. Warm, generous and brave, they are also passionate and indolent. An annual appropriation is made by the Legislature of about $10,000 for the support of free schools. This state is bounded north and north east by North Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; and south west by Georgia. Situated between 32° and 35° 10′ N. Lat. and 78° 30′ and 83° 10′ W. Lon. Governor, George McDuffie. Election 2d Monday in October. Legislature 4th Monday in November.

GEORGIA.

In 1732, some benevolent gentleman in England concerted a project for planting a colony in the southern part of the territory included in the Carolina charter, for the purpose of transporting thither the indigent subjects of Great Britain, and the persecuted protestants of all nations. General James Oglethorpe was a great promoter of this philanthropic scheme.—In 1773, a number of emigrants arrived and settled at Yamacraw bluff, or Savannah. By the liberality of the proprietors in extending their patronage alike to all classes of emigrants, as early as 1740 the number of settlers was 2498. It is thought that the diversity of soil is greater in Georgia than in any other single state in the union. About one half is flat, alluvial land, the residue hilly or mountainous, and abundantly fertile. Many valuable tropical productions can be cultivated in this state. Oranges, olives, figs, and other articles, which are strangers at the north, are easily raised. The flat land is, however, like that of Carolina, quite unhealthy. This state is bounded north by Tennessee; north east by South Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Florida, and west by Alabama. Cotton and tobacco are its staple articles. Situated between 30° 19′ and 35° N. Lat. and 80° 47′ and 85° 42′ W. Lon. Governor, Wm. Schley. Election 1st Monday in October; meeting Legislature first Monday in November.

ALABAMA.

This state is bounded north by Tennessee; east by Georgia; south by Florida and the gulf of Mexico; and west by Mississippi. Between Lat. 30° 12′ and 35° N. The face of this state is much diversified, and its soil differs in quality from the best to the worst.—That part of the state that lies along the gulf of Mexico is low, marshy and sandy, and is unhealthy: about 10 miles from the coast the country becomes more elevated and more healthy, but less productive. As in this section of country generally, the land decreases in value on receding from the rivers. This state abounds in rivers, some of which are boatable for a great distance. All parts of this state are productive of maize; and small grain is raised in its hilly and northern parts. Cotton is the staple commodity. A great variety of fruits are easily cultivated here, such as the apple, pear, peach, plum, and even the fig and pomegranate in the lowest latitudes. This state has a bank capital of upwards of a million, and a large fund for internal improvement. Congress has been liberal to Alabama in granting to her great resources for the advancement of education. Governor, C. C. Clay. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting of Legislature 4th Monday in October.

MISSISSIPPI.

This state takes its name from the great river which forms the chief part of its western boundary. Its soil is various. Two thirds of the state are supposed to be covered with pine forests, and only about one third part is either bluff, or river alluvial; this portion of the soil is however of remarkable fertility. It is chiefly confined to the west and south west parts of the state, and these accordingly contain a large share of the white inhabitants, leaving the northeastern part to the almost exclusive possession of Indians. There is a sea coast of about 80 miles, but not a single harbor, so that New-Orleans is the mart of the state. This state has a large range of Latitude, and its climate is quite variable; the thermometer at Natchez has stood as low as 12 above zero of Fahrenheit. The seasons are however generally mild and warm. Cotton is the great staple; the fig abounds south of 32°, but the orange is not entirely safe from occasional frost. The natural and exotic productions of the soil are innumerable. Among the animals, the alligator may be mentioned as being often found in the streams. Mississippi was formerly a part of Georgia. This state is bounded N. by Tennessee; east by Alabama; south by the gulf of Mexico and Louisiana; west by Louisiana and the Arkansas territory. Between Lat. 30° 10′ and 35° north and Lon. 88° 10 and 91° 35′ W. Governor, Chs. Lynch. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

LOUISIANA.

There is perhaps no portion of the world, of the extent of Louisiana, which has so great a variety of soil, or so many water courses within its territory. This state has about six million acres of alluvial land of superior excellence; the residue of her soil, about 12 million acres, consisting of pine forests, prairie, river inundated land, and sea marsh, is, for the most part, unfit for agricultural purposes. There is but little land of a medium quality in Louisiana; it is generally either extremely fertile, or entirely worthless; and from the vast proportion of the soil which can never be used for agricultural purposes, it can never be expected that this state should support a population equally dense with those of the northern states. It is observable that the settlements in Louisiana are not in spots, or groups, but in lines or strips, along the margins of the rivers. Extremes of manners prevail as well as of soils; from the highest degree of luxury and refinement in the rich planters near New Orleans, to the semi barbarism of the wild hunters of the buffalo and the deer, upon the boundless prairies of the south west. Throughout the state there is nearly an equal mixture of the French and American population, but the latter is fast gaining ground. Louisiana has set her sister states the example of leaving the English law, and forming for herself a valuable code, modelled upon the civil law. This state comprises the southern part of a large tract of country purchased by the U. S. of France in 1803. The river Mississippi was discovered by two French Missionaries in 1673. The country was afterwards explored, and in honor of Louis the XIV. was called Louisiana. The capital invested in the cultivation of the sugar cane is supposed to amount to 80 millions of dollars. 50,000 hogsheads of sugar are considered an average crop, and 5 per cent. is considered an average profit. The number of steam boats actually running on the Mississippi and its tributary streams in 1830 was 213. The first steam boat on these waters commenced running in 1812. By legislative enactment nearly $40,000 are annually appropriated to the education of the poor.—This state is bounded N. by the Arkansas territory; east by Mississippi; south by the gulf of Mexico, and west by the Mexican states. Between Lat. 29° and 33° N. and Lon. 89° and 94° W. Governor, Edward D. White. Election 1st Monday in July; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in January.

TENNESSEE.

This state was first settled by the whites in 1765, and was formerly a part of North Carolina and ceded by that state to the United States in 1789. In consequence of a part of this state being very low, and a part very high land, the soil and climate are more various than in any other portion of the United States whose difference of latitude is only 1° 40′. The soil of this state is generally very luxuriant, and produces large crops of cotton, wheat, rice, and tobacco. Bounded north by Kentucky; east by North Carolina; south by Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi; and west by Mississippi river. Between 35° and 36° 40′ North Lat. and 81° 45′ and 90° 3′ W. Lon. Governor, —— Cannon. Election 1st Thursday in August; meeting Legislature 3d Monday in September, biennially.

KENTUCKY.

This state is bounded north by Ohio and Indiana; east by Virginia; south by Tennessee; west by Illinois and Missouri; between 36° 30′ and 39° 10′ North Lat. and 81° 45′ and 89° W. Lon. This territory was part of Virginia until 1792, when it became a state. The climate is very fine, and the soil superior for agricultural purposes. The first white settlers removed to Kentucky in 1775, and its growth has been ever since exceedingly rapid. The external appearance of things is so inviting, that it has been called the "garden of the west." It is richly wooded, and has an immense variety of flowering plants and shrubs. Nor is this beauty deceptive, for a large part of the state is covered with a deep strong soil. Nearly the whole country rests on a lime stone foundation, into which the rivers have worn deep channels, of course leaving the banks bold and precipitous. Its staples are wheat, corn, cattle, hemp and salt. Acting Governor, J. T. Morehead. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

OHIO.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It is bounded S. E. by the Ohio river, or Virginia; south by the Ohio river, or Kentucky; west by Indiana; north by Michigan territory and Lake Erie, and E. by N. by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 30′ and 42° N. Lat. and 80° 20′ and 84° 43′ W. Lon. The first permanent settlement of the whites in this state was commenced in 1788, at Marietta, near the junction of the Ohio and Muskingum rivers in Lat. 39° 25′ N. and Lon. 81° 18′ W. 172 miles below Pittsburg The waters of the Ohio and its tributary streams, with those of Lake Erie afford this state peculiar privileges. The best proof that can be given of the exuberance of its soil and the industry and enterprise of its people is to state the fact, unprecedented in the settlement of any country, that in 1783 this territory was inhabited only by savages; and that in 1830 had a population of nearly a million, enjoying all the comforts and luxuries of civilized life in profusion, without a slave to teach them the blessings of liberty; and with minds and means to foster good schools, the bane of slavery. This state is eminently agricultural, and has many and various staples; wheat, however, is the principal. This state has a school fund of $150,000; and one mill on a dollar of the estimated property of the state is annually levied and appropriated to the maintenance of common schools. One thirty sixth part of the land in this, and other new states in the west, is devoted to purposes of education. Governor, Robert Lucas. Election 2d Tuesday in October; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

INDIANA.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It was erected into a territorial government in 1800. It is bounded north and north west by Michigan territory and Lake; east by Ohio; south by Kentucky, or the Ohio river; and west by Illinois.—It lies between 37° 47′ and 41° 46′ north Lat. and 84° 43′ and 87° 55′ west Lon. The face of this country is more level than that of Ohio; its productions are much the same, although there is not so large a proportion of good land. Yet there are parts of this state not exceeded in fertility by any country; the vegetable soil has in many place measured 22 feet in depth.—The most striking feature in the geography of Indiana is its Prairies, or natural meadows, which extend over a large part of the state. They are destitute of trees and covered with grass and wild flowers, of 6 or 8 feet high. These prairies cover a vast extent of country north west of the Ohio, and also on the west of the Mississippi. They afford pasturage to countless herds of buffaloes, deer, and various other wild animals. Governor, Noah Noble. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December.

ILLINOIS.

There is no section of country of equal extent whose soil and climate are so well adapted to all kinds of agricultural purposes, or whose water communications with the ocean are more numerous and important than those of Illinois. The face of the country is generally either prairie, or rolling, rather than hilly land; it is mostly level in its eastern section. There is but little if any waste land in this state; and at this period there are large portions of territory, of superior soil and climate, densely covered with forest timber, for sale at prices well worth the attention of the settler or speculator. Illinois river, which traverses the whole of the centre of the state, and falls into the Mississippi 36 miles above St. Louis, 1184 miles above New Orleans, is a subject of curiosity, in as much as it is the natural link between the almost boundless waters of the Mississippi basin, and those of the western lakes. The distance from the mouth of the Illinois to Chicago, or Michigan lake, is upwards of 400 miles, yet the fall from a summit level on that river, both to the Mississippi and to lake Michigan does not exceed 60 feet. Loaded boats of considerable size pass on that river, to and from those distant waters, in the season of freshets, without any effort of art to facilitate the navigation. Illinois lies between lat. 36° 57′ and 42° 30′ N. and in lon. 87° 12′ and 91° 5′ W. Bounded N. by the N. W. territory; E. by Indiana; S. by Kentucky; and W. by Missouri. Governor, Joseph Duncan. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in December, bienn.

MISSOURI.

This state is bounded N. E. and S. E. by the Mississippi river; S. by the territory of Arkansas; and W. and N. by the western unappropriated territory of the U. S. formerly a part of Louisiana. Between Lat. 36° and 40° 36′ N. and Lon. 88° 25′ and 94° 10′

W. The territory of this state was formerly a part of Louisiana. The first white settlements were made by the French in 1760. St. Louis was first settled in 1762; but this country having changed masters passing from France to Spain, and then from Spain to France, grew in population and importance but slowly until the cession of it to the U. S. by France in 1803. The climate of Missouri is liable to great extremes of heat and cold. In metal and other fossil substances, Missouri is probably the richest region in the U. S. The lead mines of Missouri, which are chiefly in the county of Washington, are considered the most valuable in the known world. Governor, Daniel Dunklin. Election 1st Monday in August; meeting Legislature 1st Monday in November.

MICHIGAN.

This state includes a peninsula formed by Lake Huron, St. Clair and Erie on the north east, Lake Michigan on the west, and bounded south by the states of Ohio and Indiana; and also the extensive tract of country between the Mississippi, and the Lakes Superior and Michigan. From the fertility of the soil, the goodness of the climate, and the ease with which produce can be transported by lake, canal, and river navigation to New York, it cannot be doubted that this state will soon become an important member of the Union. Indeed it possesses singular advantages for the most extensive inland commerce, and is already the centre of the north western fur trade. The face of the country is generally flat, or gently rolling. There is much that is extremely fertile; but the coldness and great length of the winter will probably obstruct its settlement till the more southern regions of the Ohio shall be filled. Detroit is the principal place of business in Michigan. It is situated on a strait between Lakes Erie and St. Clair, 18 miles from the former, and 9 miles below the latter. Detroit was first settled by the French in 1670, and has ever been a point of country of considerable interest. This state is situated between 41° 31′ and 46° 51′ north at. and 82° 18′ and 87° 25′ Lon. west. Governor, J. T. Mason. Admitted into the Union in 1836.

ARKANSAS.

This state was formed out of ancient Louisiana, and became a territory of the U. S. in 1819, and a state in 1836. It is bounded east by the river Mississippi; south by Louisiana and Red river; west by Texas; and north by the unappropriated territory of the U. S. and by Missouri. It extends about 550 miles from east to west, and between north Lat. 33° and 36° 30′. The first settlements in the Louisiana country were made in this state. From the great extent of this state, the face of the country, the soil and the climate are much diversified. A chain of mountains passes through Arkansas from N. E. to S. W. and extends into Texas. The country S. E. of the mountains is low and liable to annual submersion. To the N. W. the country presents a large expanse of prairie, without wood, except on the borders of the rivers. As low as Lat. 35° the thermometer ranges from 97° above, to 20° below zero. Arkansas has a large portion of land of great fertility, which produces cotton, corn, cattle, with a great variety of fruits and vegetables. Large quantities of iron ore, gypsum, and common salt are found in this state. Admitted to the union in 1836.

FLORIDA TERRITORY.

This territory is bounded north by Georgia; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by the gulf of Mexico; and west by the same gulf and Alabama. This is the most southern part of the U. S. It is divided into East and West Florida; the former is on the Atlantic ocean and has St. Augustine for its capital, in Lat. 29° 45′ N. and Lon. 81° 30′ W. The latter is on the gulf of Mexico and has Pensacola for its capital in Lat 30° 28′ N and 88° 12′ W. Both are however under one territorial government. Florida was discovered in 1512, and was first settled by the French, in 1562. In 1639 it was conquered by Spain. Although Florida is a peninsula of more than 1000 miles outline of the sea coast, only 120 miles mean breadth, and less in size than the state of Illinois, yet owing to the indo lence or inattention of its former possessors, a larg portion of its territory is but imperfectly known.— From the best sources it appears that the soil of Flor ida is of an inferior quality, excepting those sections o it near and along its streams. The vegetable produc tions of Florida are numerous and valuable; cotton indigo, rice, sugar cane, indian corn and tobacco; al so the olive, orange, lime, peach and oak and laure magnolia are indigenous. The climate of Florida i soft and delicious, rarely suffering from extreme cold and constantly refreshed by sea breezes from the At lantic or the gulf of Mexico. Invalids from all part of the U. S. resort to Augustine for health, and ar generally benefitted by the air. This territory wa ceded to Great Britan in 1763, and in 1781 it was a gain recovered by Spain.

GREAT WESTERN TERRITORY.

With the exception of a number of trading houses and military posts, this territory is peopled only by the natives of the forest. Its government, for tempo rary purposes, is connected with that of Michigan.— The best account of the character of the natives, the soil, climate and rivers of this country is found in the journal of Lewis & Clark, who under the direction of the national government, traversed this immense re gion, over the rocky mountains to the Columbia river on the Pacific ocean, in the years 1804, '5 and '6 and in a later account by Major Long, who, with an ex ploring party visited the valley of the Missouri in 18- 23. Our knowledge however of this territory is at present quite limited; but as a part of the soil is known to be very good, the face of the country rather undulating than hilly, the climate mild for its latitude, particularly on the western side of the mountains, and the passage of the Rocky mountains less difficult than has been supposed. Other states and territories like Ohio, Illinois and Michigan will doubtless arise in this distant, but highly interesting section of the territory of the U. S. Large quantities of furs and peltry are collected in this territory and sent to Detroit. This territory has a western outline on the Pacific ocean of about 500 miles. The Columbia, Oregon, or River of the West, is estimated to be about 1600 miles long; it rises in the Rocky Mountains in Lat. about 55° N. and falls into the Pacific ocean in Lat. 46° 19′ N. and Lon. 123° 54′ W.; and is navigable 183 miles from its mouth, to which distance the tide flows. When the Indian titles to these unappropriated lands of the U. S. are extinguished, 150 states may be formed of larger territory than that of Massachusetts.

WISCONSIN TERRITORY.

A territory has recently been formed and thus named, of a part of the territory west of Michigan; —— Dodge, Governor.

INDIANS IN THE UNITED STATES.

It is calculated that there are 313,130 Indians within the limits of the United States; of which number 90,000 are west of the Rocky Mountains. The United States annually pay to the Indians in permanent and limited annuities, for education and treaty stipulations for lands, &c. more than $300,000.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN AND MOON.

In the year 1838 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the Moon.

I. The first will be a total eclipse of the Sun, on the 25th day of March, invisible at Montpelier. This eclipse will be visible from the Western part of South America, and will be central and total to some parts of the Southern and South Pacific Ocean.

II. The second will be a partial eclipse of the Moon on the 9th day of April, visible at Montpelier, as follows:

Begining of the eclipse,	7h 41m	Mean time evening.
Middle " " "	9h 8m
End " " "	10h 34m

Duration 2h 53m. Magnitude of the eclipse 0.6 (the Moon's diameter being 1) on the Moon's north limb.

III. The third will be an annular eclipse of the Sun on the 18th day of September, visible at Montpelier as follows:

Begining of the eclipse	3h 10m	Mean time afternoon.
Greatest obscuration	4h 32m
End of the eclipse	5h 45m

Duration 2h 34m. Magnitude of the eclipse 0.9 (the Sun's diameter being 1) on the Sun's western limb.—This eclipse will be visible to all North America. The line of the central and annular eclipse first touches the earth near the north pole. Taking a direction a little to the west of south, it passes along the western side of Hudson's bay to lake Superior; thence bending towards the south east, it traverses lake Huron, lake Erie, crosses the northeastern corner of Ohio, and the southwestern part of Pennsylvania, and leaves the continent on the eastern shore of Maryland, a little to the northward of Cape Charles.

IV. The fourth will be a partial eclipse of the Moon, on the 3d day of October, invisible at Montpelier; ☌ at 9h 55 m morning.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Winter once more has stretched his iron hand
O'er all the regions of our happy land:
Mountains and plains his cold dominion own,
While o'er their face his pallid mantle's strown:
Light fleecy clouds obscure the azure skies,
And o'er the fields the drifting whirlwind flies.

Fellow citizens,—Although I have given you "line upon line and precept upon precept," I am really afraid that much of my labor has been bestowed in vain. I have been trying to teach you how to make the times better, but instead of that, they would seem to be constantly growing worse and worse. The cry of HARD TIMES grows louder and more frequent. Money, instead of being plenty in every man's pocket, has almost disappeared out of the country. The complaint of hard times has been in every man's mouth, and apparently came from the heart; and so it will be until we learn, whatever our lot may be, therewith to be content. It is undoubtedly true that seasons of 'pressure' and hard times may come, and for which we are not directly responsible; nevertheless it is generally true, that the prudent man foreseeth the evil; and equally so that the simple pass on, and are punished. We need another Franklin to bring us back to the simple manners of our ancestors, and to show us in his own way that although the causes of complaint are real, yet no inconsiderable share is owing to ourselves. We have become extravagant in almost every thing—extravagant in our mode of living—extravagant in dress—extravagant in amusements—extravagant in expenses—extravagant in idleness. If we wish to see better times, that word extravagance must be banished, and prudence, industry and honesty substituted for it.

Farmers, look well to your barns; see that your hay is not wasted, nor your cattle left to suffer. Trust not too much to the promises of the boys: fair words butter no parsnips.

This, too, is the time to gather a supply of wood for the next season. Soon the snow may be too deep and the ways drifted full.

Ah! why, unfeeling Winter! why
Still flags thy torpid wing?
Fly, melancholy season, fly,
And leave the year to Spring.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The cattle now their rustling feast enjoy,
And snatch sweet mouthfuls from the passing boy,
Who moves unseen beneath his trailing load,
Fills the tall racks and leaves a scattered road;
Throughout the yard, housed round, on every side,
With bed and nightly food all are supplied.

Well, neighbor Good Nature, let us be stirring and beat out the paths, and not be denned up here in our houses, as torpid and inactive as bears. We should not give the unlucky traveller occasion to call us a pack of lazy, indolent scoundrels, by letting him stay three or four days upon expense, blocked up at the tavern, merely because we have not public spirit enough to bestir ourselves.

Now, reader, permit us to inquire, how do you employ the long winter evenings? Nature forces most of us to withdraw that time from our usual business; she invites us to devote it to the improvement of the understanding and the heart. A more interesting, nay a more happy scene, cannot easily be imagined, than a New England family circle, spending the winter's eve in useful reading or that cheerful conversation to which the study of books, with proper reflection, always gives rise. Do not, we beseech you, undervalue or misspend this precious time. Remove or abuse the winter evenings, and New England would speedily and sadly degenerate from the high character she maintains for virtue and intelligence. Books are by no means the only sources of instruction and profit. Every family should have at least one newspaper: the men must have an eye upon public servants and public measures, the children must watch for hints that will tend to the improvement of their minds and morals, and the whole family ought to know what is going on in the world. The money best laid out is that which furnishes the mind with healthy food.

Are the times hard, and every body in debt, having nothing to pay with? Be indulgent: bear and forbear; study economy, curtail expenses; thank God that you have life, and with the prudent use of ordinary means may look forward to a happier era.

Spring, the young cherubim of love,
An exile in disgrace,
Flits o'er the scene like Noah's dove,
Nor finds a resting place.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

See! from our clime now surly winter flies;
And see the source of Light and Life uprise;
Yet storms will come and winds impetuous rush,
And hailstones rattle through the budding brush,
And night foll'n lambs require the farmer's care,
And teeming ewes that still their burthens bear.

Strike while the iron is hot, is a maxim which was fabricated in the workshop of Vulcan, by one of the Cyclops, and is as much as to say in our times, sled wood while the snow lasts. Remember it is now March --that old Boreas increases his efforts at this time only because his reign is short, and that soon the whole face of nature will be changed, and the mantle of white be replaced by a carpet of green.

How beautifully the morning sun rises in the east. The forests begin to feel the influence of his invigorating beams. Here, James, get out the buckets and the tapping iron, and let us haste away and broach the sturdy maples. We shall find it much more to our advantage to go to the forest than to the merchant, for our sugar. By the way, why is not more and better sugar manufactured? We should not go abroad for a pound, even of the finest loaf. We will endeavor to give a few brief directions for making fine white sugar, which can easily be proved by experiment. And first as to the sap: strain it until perfectly clear of every particle of dirt, into kettles clear of rust or dust, and when raised a little above blood heat throw in a small quantity of lime dissolved in warm water. As soon as the first bubble appears, the fire must be extinguished, and the liquor left at rest, while the scum rises at the top and the lime settles at the bottom. The clear syrup may then be carefully drawn off and strained thro' a thick rough cloth, filtering it through animal charcoal, beat up with the whites of eggs. After the necessary boiling, moulds of tin or other material are prepared, of any size, of a conical shape, like the form of a sugar loaf, with a stopper in the small or lower end. The syrup, being sufficiently reduced, is turned into them; as soon as granulation has begun on the sur-

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Wide o'er the fields, in rising moisture strong,
Shoots up the simple flower, or creeps along
The mellow soil; imbibing fairer hues
Or sweets from frequent showers and evening dews,
That summon from its bed the slumb'ring ploughs,
While health impregnates every breeze that blows.

The farmer now will begin to look about him, and see what first demands his attention. While all the powers of nature are awaking to life and activity, he also will awake: he will look to his fences, and see that they are put in repair, particularly around his meadow lands. His sowing, too, is not forgotten or neglected, and he bears constantly in mind that What we delay to-day will over-tax to-morrow. In other words, we must keep pace with our business; should it now get the start of us, we may pursue it all summer without overtaking it.

Cattle need particular care about the time of changing from hay to grass: and you should not be hasty in making the change. While the ground is soft and the grass tender, do not let the cattle tread up the roots, or impede the growth of the grass by too early grazing. Give your pastures several weeks credit in the spring, and they will repay you the principal and a generous rate of interest in the summer.

face and sides, the crust is broken with a spatula, and the whole stirred well, after which it is left alone. After this, the process of whitening or claying is thus managed: the clay is first thoroughly washed, till it acquires such a degree of consistency as not to flow when placed on a smooth and slightly inclined board. It is then thrown on to the sugar in the moulds. The moisture penetrates the loaves, deprives the sugar of its color, and passes out at the point of the mould, which should now be unstopped. The clay, deprived of its water, shrinks and dries, and is removed. A second, and sometimes a third application of clay is made, before the sugar attains its desired whiteness. This is the French method of sugar-making. Try it.

The stars that graced thy splendid night
Are lost in warmer rays;
The sun rejoicing in his might Unrolls celestial days.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Advancing Spring profusely spreads abroad
Flowers of all hues with sweetest fragrance stor'd;
Wheree'er she treads, Love gladdens every plain;
Delight on tiptoe bears her lucid train;
Sweet Hope with conscious brow before her flies,
Anticipating wealth from Summer skies.

"They don't calculate! they don't calculate!" said neighbor Jonathan, when he saw Bob Holdfast, the sheriff, carrying a man to prison for the trifling sum of three dollars. "Let us examine this case: first the man runs in debt one dollar; he is sued, and the cost and time make it at least three dollars: and now he is going to gaol in the midst of his spring work and must pay his board, or, if he swears out, the fees, &c. But if this same man was at home, and attending to his business, he would earn at least a dollar a day by his labor. Again, very often it happens that the creditor loses his debt, and is obliged to pay the officer, court and lawyer into the bargain. O, fie on it! I see that neither debtor nor creditor has calculated here, but the lawyer and the sheriff have reaped the reward of their folly."

How much better would the world wag, if every body regarded that pithy injunction of sacred writ,—"OWE NO MAN."

Now, neighbors, if you calculate to have good crops, three things are necessary on your part, viz: good seeds, good tillage, and good fences. The want of either of these essentials will disappoint all your calculations. Then execute and reap the fruit.

Now as warm weather approaches, the young misses begin to think of a rig-up. Have you earned one, my dear? And now, too, fashions are altered, and we must have new gowns, bonnets, ribbons, ruffles, haircombs and handkerchiefs. Alas, what sacrifices of fat cattle are yearly made to the goddess Fashion! The wise make no sacrifices of comfort or wealth to this divinity; while the simple follow it, until they come to —nothing! Fashion may be respected, not worshipped.

The surly Winter now has fled,
And smiling Spring supplies his stead;
The sky dissolves in gentle showers,
And lovely May unfolds her flowers.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

O'er heaven's bright azure now with joyful eyes
The farmer sees dark clouds assembling rise;
Borne o'er his fields a heavy torrent falls,
And strikes the earth with hasty driving squalls,
"Right welcome down ye precious drops," he cries,
But soon, too soon, the parting blessing flies.

Some people spend their whole lives in getting ready to live. But why is it always put in the future tense? A person who is unprepared to live, is certainly unprepared to die.

But if we live while we stay,
We are prepared to die to-day.

Look well to your gardens, and see that your vines do not all go to the bugs. By the way, a waggish old gentleman insists, that one must be very careful thoroughly to stir up the earth round the vines—be particular—just before sunrise! He seems to consider the little creature a sort of bedbug, which does its mischief while the gardner is asleep. Slacked lime, spread liberally over the vines, will generally disperse the bugs.

Madam Earth is no coquette, to flatter, to cajole, and at last to deceive. If wooed and courted, she offers to repay your attentions; and, generally, in a ratio in proportion to the sincerity and urgency of your attentions. Neglect her not. She will reward you with a profusion of good things in autumn.

High mows, a full shed,
Fat beef and white bread,
Happy farmers, full fed.

Come, boys, let us be in the cornfield; this is a hurrying season, and we must endeavor to keep pace with our business. Remember, that now we are compelled to purchase the greater part of the flour we use; the more corn we raise, therefore, the less flour we shall be obliged to buy, or the more able shall we be to pay for what we do buy.

Query? Would not the farmer find it for his advantage to cultivate more liberally for root crops? In this way a small farm may be made to support a large stock of cattle.

The lambs are leaping o'er the green;
No hoar frost in the dawn is seen;
But every heart and every grove
Thrills with the exstacies of love.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Hark! where the sweeping scythe now rips along,
Each sturdy mower, emulous and strong;
Whose writhing form meridian heat defies,
Bends o'er his work and every sinew plies;
Prostrates the waving treasure at his feet,
But spares the rising clover, short and sweet.

"Talk not of other's business, but beware
Of whom you talk, to whom, of what, and where."

And beware you do not talk too much. Some people lose half their own time and half the labor of their hired men, by telling and hearing foolish stories. If stories must be told, you may at least reserve them for the amusement of your long winter evenings. More important business now demands your attention. If your business has not now got the start of you, you are completely in readiness to begin your haying.—Scythes, rakes, and pitchforks are all in order. Look to your fields of clover, and as old Jaggar says in his uncouth rhyme:

If half the heads have turned brown,
Then haste my lads and cut it down.

If we attempt to blow the coals of other's strife, it is ten to one that the sparks do not fly into our own faces, and that we shall get confoundedly burnt. We shall find it much more to our advantage to mind our own business, and much the most effectual way to make other people mind theirs.

Are your potatoes well hilled up? If not, improve the bad haying days to do this business effectually. Appropos: potatoes should not be planted so near together as that the tops will exclude the air, light and rain from the roots. An experienced gardner of our acquaintance always makes very large hills, and, if the land is dry, scoops out the top of the hill round the roots, much in shape like the bowl of a tunnel. This carries the rain to the centre of the hill.

Gather in seeds as they ripen. A little pains will keep the weeds out of your garden. It is a mistaken notion that weeds keep the soil from drowth. Where weeds are thick they keep the soil dry.

Summer! we meet again and range
High mountain verge, low winding vale;
Each various prospect toiling change,
In reach of health's delicious gale.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Here midst the boldest triumphs of her worth,
Nature herself invites the reapers forth;
Dares the keen sickle from its twelve month's rest,
And gives that ardour which in every breast
From infancy to age alike appears,
When the bright sheaf its plumy top up-rears.

Farmers, consider your calling the most elevated and the most important; but never be above it, nor be afraid of the frock and apron. Put off no business to the morrow, which can and ought to be done to day. Cultivate no more ground than you can till to advantage. Never hire a man to do a piece of work which you can do yourself. Every day has its appropriate duties, and they can all be easily performed, if they are taken up in their proper order. Let your stock be of the best breeds, and keep no more of it than you can keep in good order. Never run in debt without a reasonable probability that you shall be able to pay precisely at the time agreed on. Remember that industry and economy are the handmaids to fortune—the two great pillars of the farmer's prosperity. Never buy an article at auction because it goes cheap, unless you really need it. Instead of spending a rainy day at the grogshop, as many do to their ruin, repair whatever wants mending, or post your books. Never trust your money in the hands of that man, who puts his own to hazard. Whenever interest or a debt becomes due, pay it at the time, whether your creditor wants it or not. Remember that punctuality is not only the life of business, but a key to your neighbor's chest.—By following these directions—by constant temperance in your meats and drinks—by a habitual control over your passions—by moderation in exercise, and by an unaffected honesty in all your dealings, you will be enabled to avoid the fees of the lawyer and the sheriff—you will gain a good report among your acquaintances—will secure serenity of mind—probably add to your present existence ten years of active life—and increase abundantly your sum of happiness.

Methinks I see thee, Summer, spread
Thy rosy arms in wanton flight,
Changing thy vest, whenever led
By Nature through the fields of light.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Behold bleak winter's rage, beyond the spring,
That rolling earth's unvarying course will bring,
Who tills the ground, looks on with mental eye,
And sees next summer's sheaves and cloudless sky;
And even now, while nature's beauty dies,
Deposits seeds and bids new harvests rise.

Summer has again wasted his strength—vegetation has lost its vigor, and the sallow leaf and the ripening fruit proclaim that the waning of the year has already commenced. See how the orchards are bending beneath their load, while the ground beneath them is literally strewed with the fallen fruit, which is mellowing in the sun. Shall I again tell you to secure your seeds for planting another year? Yea: for I find line upon line and precept upon precept to be absolutely necessary in these degenerate times. Let your seeds be well dried, if on the stock, the better, and then lay them away in a dry place secure from the vermin. 'Tis true the expense of garden seeds is but a little, but it is well to remember that and that you must be careful and particular, if it is your ambition to be in a state to manage important matters.

Hear old Jonathan: "If your neighbor's cattle break into your cornfield, look before you leap into the law. The law is a bottomless pit, in which justice is often swallowed up; and the plaguy lawyers—useful men though they be in cases of necessity—will help you neither into nor out of the law, for nothing. Once well in to the law, you will certainly wish yourself well out of it; and two chances to one if you do not come out with a lightened purse—yea, mayhap, through so small a hole that your coat may even be stripped from your back." There is much truth in this, and so obvious to any man of common discernment as to need no comment.

Where last we met thy robe was like.
The blush that tints the maiden rose,
But here the crimson glories strike
As rays with which the ruby glows.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Again the year's decline midst storms and floods,
The thundering chase, the yellow fading woods,
Invite my song; that fain would boldly tell
Of upland coverts and the echoing dell,
By turns resounding loud at eve and morn,
The swineherd's halloo, and the huntsman's horn.

Look now at the forests! See how the leaves wither, and fade, and fall to the ground. How great the contrast between the russet with which the forests are now clad, and their full, deep and lovely green of summer! But the blossoms and leaves are not the only objects which fade, and wither and die. A like fate—yea, a common and inevitable fate—awaits every sublunary object.

Man is born to die.

Where is now that beauty, who, a few years since, delighted the eyes and captivated the hearts of her beholders! Perhaps she is mouldering in yonder churchyard. If not, the youthful plumpness and the roseate tint, have long since been chased from her visage by the careworn furrows of age, and her countenance is already changed by the irresistible advances of the winter of live.

Secure your latter harvest in due season, and be reminded that there is a pilferer lurking around your premises and ready to snatch away every thing which is left within his reach. He has been known to steal whole fields of potatoes, and it is no uncommon thing at this late season of the year, to find him making depredations upon our gardens, especially if we have been negligent and gotten a little behind our business. If you would have your garden sauce safe, secure it in your cellars, and then secure your cellars from frost, for he is the noted pilferer. It is a fact, probably, and complimentary to the temperance societies, that comparatively little cider is made. If you can make a little, it will help to save or turn a penny in a very necessary article—vinegar.

But Autumn, why advance so fast;
Why come with sullen brow?
O let this charming season last
In a perpetual row.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Shorn of their flowers that shed the untreasured seed,
The withering pasture and the fading mead,
Less tempting grown, diminish more and more
The dairy's pride, sweet Summer's flowing store;
New cares succeed, and gentle duties press;
Our homes become a school of tenderness."

This month has been stigmatised as the saddest of the twelve sisters. It is represented as the season of frost and gloom, of hypo and suicide. It is true that November does not possess the gaiety and beauty of May, nor the softness and voluptuous charms of June—but, there is an honest and familiar frankness in her coming, which render her, uncouth and rude as her mien may be, a very agreeable visitant. She is like the buxom fair one of the by-gone times of our grandmothers—with tresses unadorned and with a homely garb,—but with a kindly spirit and a warm and generous heart.

Summer has departed with its gaiety and its sunny smiles, but has left us in return, our barns and our grainaries filled to overflowing with the good things of this life, and we are now called upon by the season of the year, by the example of our Puritan ancestors, and by every other motive which can actuate a virtuous and generous soul, to lift our hearts in gratitude to Him who crowneth the year with his loving kindness, who rewardeth the confidence and the toils of the husbandman, and who scattereth his blessings with a liberal hand.

Ten thousand precious gifts
Flow from his bounteous hand,
And these as months and days move on,
Our daily thanks demand,
But when the harvest home has come
And all its fruits are safe in store,
In union let our thanks ascend,
In union worship and adore.

Since custom is the powerful magistrate of man's life, let man, by all means, endeavor to obtain good customs.

But no: the leaves from fading trees,
With rustling noise complain,
While from the North the Borean breeze
Drives fiercely o'er the plain.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

"Ah how soon
The shades of twilight follow hazy noon,
But welcome, cold ; welcome, ye snowy nights !
Heaven midst your rage shall mingle pure delights !
The confidence of hope the soul sustains,
While devastation sweeps along the plains ;
Nor shall the child of poverty despair,
But bless the Power that reeks the changing year."

But the year is fast drawing to a close, and the many things which I have to say, must be said in few words. And first mind your own business and let other folks alone—speak but little and let not that little be respecting yourself, nor to the slander of your neighbors—listen when spoken to, and be polite to all—tell no lies, not even those called white lies—avoid wrangling, meddling and tittle tattle—trust not implicitly to any—beware of proffered friendship—set him down as a liar who swears to the truth of every thing he says—judge others by yourself—never be slothful, never be in a hurry—never be slovenly in your dress, never be a fop—avoid all kinds of vanity—neglect not an old acquaintance—be not witty at another's expense—pass no joke with a sting, say not all you think, nor tell all you know, use neither vulgar nor profane lanlanguage, in fine, practice all the virtues—avoid all the vices—keep a memorandum book—enter on it all your transactions—reckon and settle with all those with whom you have accounts—pay up all your bills and collect all your dues—and what is of equal importance, reckon with yourself—balance debt and credit—loss and gain, and see how you stand with the world—and not only with this world, but in relation to the world to come—all these things do and practice and thy life shall glide on serenely, and thou wilt be prepared to enter upon another year, or upon another life, as Providence may order—Farewell.

The man whose word can always be depended upon, is sure to be always honored.

Beauty cannot really exist without virtue.

So like the changing season,
The life of man is run.
Obey the voice of reason—
The path of folly shun.

	—10 and 12 morn.	Frequent showers,	Cold & high wind.
	12 o'clock noon & 2 P. M.	Very Rainy,	Snow or Rain.
	Between 2 & 4 P.M.	Changeable,	Fair and mild.
	—4 and 6 "	Fair	Fair.
	—6 and 8	Fair if wind N. W. Rainy if S. or SW.	Fair and frosty if wind N. or NE. Rain or snow S.,SW.
	—8 and 10	Ditto	Ditto.
	—10 and midnight	Fair	Fair and frosty.

Observations. 1. The nearest the time of the Moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the 7 days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to mid day or noon the phases of the moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the summer, though they affect spring and autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change, first quarter, full, and last quarter happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of autumn, the whole of winter, and the beginning of spring—yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

[For further observations, see Register, 1835, p. 42.]

Total Grand List for 1837, $2,108,532 73
Population 1830, 280635

NOTE. The grand list for the towns is given, with the exception of odd cents, on the list of 1837 for state tax, including half the two folds. The total of the counties includes the complete list of the several towns, except the odd cents in the total. Our limits would not admit the giving the cents. The grand total embraces the whole list complete, including half the two folds.

JUDICIARY DEPARTMENT.

The Judiciary powers of the State are vested in a Supreme Court, consisting of five justices, chosen every year by the Legislature; a County Court, consisting of three justices, the chief justice being one of the justices of the Supreme Court, chosen in the same manner, who hold courts twice a year in their respective counties; and justices of the peace appointed in the same manner.

ECLIPSES.

There are only two eclipses in the year eighteen hundred and thirty-nine, and both are of the sun, and both are invisible at Montpelier.

I. The first will be a total eclipse of the sun on the 5th day of March. ♂ at 9h 22m in the morning.—This eclipse will be central and total to a considerable portion of South America and Africa. The path of the central eclipse will first touch the American continent on the western coast of Chili; pass across Buenos Ayres and Brazil in a north easterly direction; thence across the Atlantic to the coast of Guinea; thence across the continent of Africa to Egypt, and will terminate near the northern extremity of the Red Sea.

II. The second will be an annular eclipse of the Sun on the 7th day of September. Conjunction at 5h 38m in the evening. The visibility of this eclipse will be confined to the Pacific Ocean. The path of the central and annual eclipse will commence near the Island of Japan, and, taking a southeasterly course, will pass a little to the southward of the Sandwich Islands, and terminate near the western coast of Chili.

Ancient "Rules for makying cookyng, and eatyng Corn Puddyng. Gather ye corn in ye milke, when neither too younge nor too ripe. Shell, cut, or scrape ye corn from ye cob, and pound it fine in a big morter, with a heavy pessle. To ye corn of four dozen ears, add one pint of milke, and half a pounde of sugar—the whole to be mixt together, and baked about two hours, till ye crust shall show a dark brown complexyon. It is to be eaten with fresh butter laid thereon—to which some add a sprinkling of pepper. The addition of eggs doth not help the puddynge. Boyled corn puddyngs are softer, but not so goode."

To clean paint that is not varnished. Put upon a plate some of the best whiting, have ready some clean warm water and a piece of flannel, which dip into the water and squeeze nearly dry; then take as much whiting as will adhere to it, rub the paint gently, wash well off with water, and rub it dry with a soft cloth.

FARMER'S CALLENDAR.

Old time pursues his steady flight,
The wintry winds prevail;
Then let us cheer the New-Year's night,
And pass the jocund tale:
Yes, while the winter reigns without,
And snows drive cold and drear,
We'll pass the autumn fruits about,
And welcome in the year.

HAIL! FRIENDS,

Once more I acknowledge with gratitude your liberality and kind attentions, and once more I renew my labors for the welfare of my fellow citizens. Mankind are so fond of their ease, and so prone to a listless inactivity that they require as much goading and pricking up as a lazy ox, and then it is next to impossible to keep them up to their duty or up with their business. But I have learned not to grow weary in well doing, and not to abandon a good cause for the want of immediate success. Although the seeds I now sow may not quickly germinate, they may hereafter spring up and produce a plentiful crop of wholesome fruit.

Remember, my friends, that time is your estate, and that not only your happiness, but your respectability in life, depends upon the manner in which you husband it. Since your fields are covered with snow, and you cannot cultivate the soil, you may now think that your time is of but little consequence. But you have forgotten that you have a mind that requires cultivation no less than your farm. Neither of them, untilled, will produce ought but noxious weeds; and as two things cannot be well done at a time, cultivate your soil in summer and your mind in winter.

TUCK IN YOUR RUFFLE." "We have a few nails to make," said a blacksmith to his son as he came from school at twelve o'clock. Thomas tucked in his ruffle and took off his coat, and was a blacksmith until he earned his dinner, and then ate it with a good relish. "Put on your ruffle, Thomas, it is school time now,"

Old Time, his steady course pursuing,
Bears some to wealth and some to ruin:
Bids some with sadness, some with cheer,
Commence a new, an untried year.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

For soon the winter shall retreat,
The cold wind's cease to blow;
And soon the sun's returning heat
Shall melt the fields of snow:
The lingering night shall leave our clime,
The cold shall soon retire;
Young spring advancing in his prime,
Shall waken new desire.

Water, water, water, Mr. Loungy! How can you be so cruel as to let your poor cattle suffer for water, when you are so comfortable over a warm fire. A bullock, it has been ascertained, who has water at command, will drink six or eight times a day; so that it is evident that he cannot get enough, if only driven twice a day to a stream or a pond. It is therefore advisable by all means, to bring water into your yards if possible. Much care and attention should be given to your barn, that the fodder may not be wasted. If you trust to your boy entirely, you may depend upon paying dear for your negligence. Now there is Sam Soggy, he has one of the best pieces of land in town, and he husbands it the worst, or rather he does not husband it at all. His building are shabby—his fences are shabby—his cattle are shabby—his sheep and his hogs, his cats and his dogs are all shabby, and finally, Sam is s poor, miserable, shabby fellow, as the saying is. What a pity it is, that so fine a soil should not have some one to manage it! His wife, alas, poor Dolly! what can a wife do with such a thing for a husband? I was going to say what is not true, that she can do nothing at all—but I just happened to think of the saying of Solomon, or some other wise man, that men are all under pet-t-ti—pretty good government. Take courage, Dolly.

said the father. Thomas expected it, and felt as happy with his ruffle tucked in, as his playmates at their play.

It would be no bad notion in 'these hard times,' for

A year—whose scenes time soon reveals—
Whose destinies time quickly seals—
Nor heeds our wail—nor heeds our song,
But rolls with equal speed along.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The sun from Aries sends his beams
O'er all the regions round—
Dissolves the snows—unlocks the streams,
And bares the humid ground.
Old Boreas gives o'er his sway,
And seeks his northern cave;
And dead perceive their bonds give way,
And leave their wintry grave.

"Never make two bites of a cherry;" "None of your piddlers for me," said farmer Simkins, when he saw Captain Dolittle carry home three feet of pine wood at a load. But the captain's cattle were not of the Hereford breed altogether. Nor was he quite so distinguished as Bakewell for his peculiar care and attention to his stock. "It will do for the present," was his motto; and you could see this principle verified in all his doings. His windows were patched up with shingles—there were no hinges to his doors—his barn was but about half boarded or shingled—his cattle were sometimes fed and sometimes not; and his farm, naturally a good one, produced more bushes than any thing else; his ploughs were cobbled up with ropes and straps—shovels and hoes broken—and rakes toothless! This was a sorry sight indeed; but now things there present quite a different aspect; for Capt. Dolittle has sold out to Captain Snug, and gone to the Ohio. Trim is all the word there now; and not a stranger passes but inquires, "what snug fellow lives there?" Trim drives to market with a light heart, and returns with a heavy purse. His team is composed of a yoke of oxen—one called Industry, the other Economy—led on by Perseverance, his old and faithful horse. Come, neighbor farmers, let's all drive such a team.

many a young man to tuck in his ruffles, and swing an axe, or hold a plough, or make a nail—for many a young man, whose expectation of riches from the gains of trade are sadly disappointed, to earn a living in some calling which the world honors less but pays better—

The fierceness of the northern blast
Already now is o'er and past,
And now the south-wind comes to bring
The soft, the balmy breath of spring.

"Plague on all shallow ploughing," said uncle Zebedee, who, by the way, I think to be a first rate farmer. "Deep ploughing," said he, "is of great consequence to every species of plant. It not only furnishes the means of nourishment to the roots, but it counteracts the injurious consequences of either too wet or too dry a season. By deep ploughing you clear your ground of root weeds of every description—by deep ploughing your manures are properly covered—and by deep ploughing a heavier crop is raised than can be got from a shallow furrow." Another intelligent farmer says, "I have ever found deep ploughing attended with good crops, when ridges, shallow ploughed in the same field, were but indifferent." Now shallow ploughing is a very common fault with our farmers. Some are so very particular as not to vary an inch from the practice of their fathers, grand-fathers, and great-grand fathers. There is Tim Dozy continues to plant the same cornfield, and in the same way that his ancestors did before him—just skimming the surface with his grubby stags and hungry dobin.

What a difference between the calculations of neighbor Dozy and neighbor Trim! The one is ever skimming over the surface and takes up with the scum, while the other finds good luck in the pot.

To correct the spirit of discontent, let us consider how little we deserve, and how much we enjoy.

And bids a new creation rise—
Bids dead new life, new vigour take,
And sleepers from their sleep awake.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now if we pass the airy hall,
Or wander in the pleasant vale,
Unnumbered charms salute us still,
Borne sweetly on the western gale.
The whole creation smiles with joy,
All nature's clad in rich array,
The small and great their notes employ,
To recount the charms of May.

It is an old adage, that charity should begin at home; and it is doubtless a very good one. But how many make this a pretence for never relieving the distresses of those around them. Now my precept is that reformation should begin at home. Did we first radically and thoroughly reform ourselves, we might then attempt the reformation of others, with some prospect of success. But the conduct of mankind in general is expresed in the following couplet:

"The vices of others with freedom we blame,
But condemn not ourselves, though we practice the same."

Remember that mother Earth will not manifest her maternal affections, unless she first receives the proper civilities from you. Your attentions will be amply repaid in flowers and fruits; but as ye sow, so shall ye also reap.

We would here recommend agriculture in a special manner. Not such farming as consists in first running in debt for lands and mortgaging them back for payment; then borrowing money to put up fine buildings, and then hiring men to put on the farm. No! this is not the way. But lay your shoulder to the wheel —tuck in your ruffle and earn your bread by the sweat of your brow. It will be the sweetest you ever ate.

Sulphur for Pigs.—There should always be a box of sulphur in every piggery, and a spoonful or two occasionally thrown into their swill. It is an excellent preventive of costiveness, mange and other troubles to which swine are liable. Me. Farmer.

The earth revived puts on her green,
The Graces in the meads are seen;
And beauty with her wanton smiles,
The unsuspicious heart beguiles.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now into yonder silver brook,
While the angle writhes about,
Behold the fish boy sink his hook
To tempt the unsuspecting trout.
Now see the toad creep from his den,
And see the little crested snakes,
Along the margin of the fen,
Circle round among the brakes.

Rise with the sun and go about your business and then you will be prepared to leave it at his going down. To sleep all the forenoon, and in consequence to work to midnight, is poor economy; but to sleep all the forenoon, and do nothing the remainder of the day is poorer.

Why is our happiness always in the future tense? We say when we have accomplished this thing or that we shall be happy. And supposing we do accomplish it; are we then happy? By no means. There is an end still further forward to be attained; and so it is we are never satisfied with the present. But perhaps it is best that it is so. This restlessness and dissatisfaction is doubtless the principal promoter of improvement. If a person is perfectly satisfied with his condition, he will never strive to better it. So it is with some farmers. They are satisfied with the old way, and never adopt new, notwithstanding it should be far better.

PERSEVERE.—If a seaman should put about every time he encounters a head wind, he would never make a voyage. So he who permits himself to be baffled by adverse circumstances, willl never make head-way in the voyage of life. A sailor uses every wind to propel his vessel; so should the young man learn to trim his sails and guide his bark, that even adverse gales shall fill its bellying canvass and send it forward upon its onward course. Phil. Cent.

A full purse never lacks freinds.

From pasture, wood, from hill and dale,
The vernal songs my ears assail,
And tell me, by the rapturous sound,
That all is mirth and joy around.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Where the day-king rears his head,
All is clad in golden hue;
Pleasant is the flowery mead,
While the sun exhales the dew.
Hark! the mower whets his scythe!
See the grass before him fall!
Now to dine he hastens blithe,
To the shelt'ring ivyed wall.

Attend to hay-making. "A man of energy will make the most of every hour, and secure his hay while the sun shines; one of an opposite description, lounges his time away, and suffers his hay to be caught in the rain, by which it is frequently half spoiled. Or if the latter should have the good fortune of the continuance of dry weather, his hay will be a week longer in the field than his neighbor's, and the sap of it dried up by the sun."

Come, Captain Juckins, we must be on the alert, and give our personal attendance among our men. Don't let us be absent one half hour,—"When the master is away, the boys will play," you know, as the saying is. Let the hay-makers be careful to loosen every lump of hay, and to strew it evenly over all the ground. Now, some seem to try only to get their hay down, and then to get it into the barn as soon as possible, in order to outdo their neighbors. Such are always sure to pay dear for their folly.

Take heed, I tell you once more, about drinking too much cold water. Give us a drink of your sweet beer, my dear Margaret, and we'll away again to the meadows. Neighbor Drowsy, wake up, your field is dressed out in all the pride of a modern dandy—if your yellow weed is not cut in the blow 'tis lost.

Premature Fruit. All immature apples, plums, and other fruit, that fall from the trees, ought to be eaten by hogs, or be carefully gathered up and burnt to destroy the eggs and worms therein contained, which otherwise will produce insects to commit depredations next year on your fruit trees.

High gleaming now the sun displays
His unveiled face, and pours a blaze
Of light and heat on every hand,
While nature sinks, or drooping stands.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

To the fields direct your sight!
And behold the ripening grain;
See it crown the mountain height—
Deeply load the lab'ring plain.
'Neath the day-king's fervid glow,
Panting and with measured tread,
Forth the jolly reapers go,
To secure their well-earned bread!

"Change of weather makes conversation for fools," says neighbor Tinkum. "No matter what the weather is; if we do but calculate, we shall be able to sail with all winds." In fair weather we should prepare for foul, and in foul weather for fair.

Keep an eye upon your fields; nor let the product of them wholly go to feed the vermin. You will do well to secure your crops as they become ripe, without waiting in all cases for express and particular orders from the Almanack maker. Remember that the wise Solomon has said that, He that is slothful in his work is brother to him who is a great waster, and Solomon's sayings may be considered as nearly on a par with the Almanack-makers at all times.

He that often empties a jug, whether it be stone or earthern, may himself expect to go to fill a jug, built with stone and corked up with iron.

THE FUTURE.—Who can rest content with the present? None. We have all within us a craving for the future. In childnood we anticipate youth; in youth, manhood; in manhood, old age; and to what does that turn, but to a world beyond our own? From the very first, the strong belief is nursed within us; we look forward and forward, till that which was desired grows faith. The time to come is the universal heritage of mankind, and he claims but a small part of his portion who looks not beyond the grave.

In housing new made clover hay, especially if it be not thoroughly dry, intermix it with layers of straw.

And now perchance up western skies
The sad and dismal tempests rise,
And lightnings flash and thunders roar,
And hailstones fly and waters pour.

The winds begin to sweep the plain;
The harvest home is nigh;
The clouds portend approaching rain,
And sail along the sky.
Beneath their load the orchards bend;
The plain is white with maize;
Secure yon crops, then upward send
The incense of your praise.

One of the most odious species of bipeds with which our country is at present infested, is that denominated go betweens. They derive their name purely from their occupation, which is to carry to one neighbor every injurious observation which happens to drop from the mouth of another. Such a being is the slanderer's herald, and he is altogether more odious than the slanderer himself. By his vile officiousness he makes that poison effectual which were otherwise inert. Slander would lose its power to injure were it not for the malice of go betweens, who under the mask of double friendship, act the part of double traitors.

See that every thing is done in season. Many people, by being inattentive to this maxim are great losers. They let the grain remain in the field after it is ripe, till much of it is destroyed by vermin or falls back into the earth, and that which is finally saved is injured in quality. A stitch in time may save nine, in more kinds of business than one.

This is a fine season of the year for journeying, but it is equally fine for labor. Get your work done up, and then, if you have a little leisure and a little money left, (after paying your debts,) why then there cannot surely be any harm in visiting your friends. But business before friends is in general a very good maxim. And to pay honest debts before incurring unnecessary expenses is equally good.

A PRACTICAL FARMER.—A practical farmer, whose livelihood depends upon his calling, should make it the pinnacle of his worldly ambition to excel in it. If he

Look now abroad—all nature fades,
The graces leave the vale;

"Mind the main chance." That is, look out and make all the manure you can. Cattle, horse and hog dung should be mixed well together, as the one corrects the defects of the other. You must lay them stratum per stratum. There is no difficulty in doing this, if your stable, cow-house and hog-sty are suitably placed and arranged. Mix a little earth with the dung and it will be the better for it. Remember the better you keep your animals the better the dung will be. He, therefore, who keeps his cattle on meadow hay and scrub oaks, must expect to 'sing small' in the dung line. Lay a stratum of mould, marl, muck or other earthy substances on the surface of your barn yard before the dung is collected, that none of the valuable juices may be lost. If possible to prevent, never let the water run from the yard. Your stables and cow-houses should also be so arranged, as that all liquids passing therefrom should be received into your yard and upon your dung. Come, friend Dupy, this is a serious matter, and must be attended to. Let us try to mend matters a little. And be sure that we mend them for the better. A compost heap, well managed, is a kind of Farmer's bank, a place of discount and deposit, from which his interest is drawn.

neglects his farm for any thing else, he is generally the loser both in interest and credit. Solomon, the wisest observer of men and things, tells us of his disgust at the sight of a slovenly farmer. "I went by the field of the slothful—and lo it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall was all broken down."

And while the heaps of yellow corn
And ripening fruits the fields adorn,
A grateful heart to Him will rise
Who pours these blessings from the skies.

Once more I caution you to be circumspect in the selection of your school master. Every insipid bumpkin, now-a-days, who can read in the spelling-book, and who has blundered through the ground rules of arithmetic, sets up for a pedagogue, it being easier, as he imagines, to doze in a school-house, and strut about with an old watch in his pocket, than to swing the axe or the flail. Mr. Ignoramus axes only six dollars a month; says Mr. Committee-man Thickskull, "and our children are most of 'em little, and I guess he'll do." O tempora! O the times! Why will not people know that three truths are more easily inculcated than one error eradicated.

Friend is your garden sauce in your cellar, and your cellar secured from the frost? Neighbor Foresight is completely prepared for winter. His carts, ploughs, hoes, &c. are securely placed under shelter, and his sleighs and sleds are all in complete order for winter. With this, the affairs of neighbor Thoughtless form a complete contrast. All around his house is uproar and disorder, a complete chaos of old carts, sleighs, waggons, sleds, harnesses, hoes, shovels, bushes, &c. &c.

Owner where art thou? Perhaps dozing away thy time in slumber and sloth, or spending thy time at the tavern, or perhaps dreaming of promotion, or engaged in the business of some petty office. Better mind thy own proper business, else "shall poverty come as an armed man." A farmer, on the other hand, who keeps his land and stock in excellent order, needs not

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

The Borean winds begin to blow,
The lowering clouds to sail;
Old winter comes with angry brow,
To scatter sleet and hail:
But winter'll pass--and spring will come,
And time his course pursue,
Though we perhaps are in the tomb,—
Adieu, kind friends, adieu!

"Book it, John," said farmer Simpkins, when his son told him that 'Squire Slouch had used the cart and oxen half a day. "Book it, father?" replied John, "it is so trifling that I can remember it." "I say, John, book it; for we must take care of the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves, I therefore tell you to book it."

Few of our farmers are thus particular. Some, to be sure, keep account books, and take pains to keep debt and credit, and to know a little how matters go, while others depend upon a few scratches of chalk upon their cellar doors, like the milk man's record, or upon the poor recollection of themselves and family. This ought never to be done in New-England, where every one is able to read and write well. Farmer Simpkins can tell to a flea's value the whole extent of expense he has incurred in the various operations of agriculture for the last year; and where all the profits and where the loss comes from. Let us all endeavor to imitate this industrious, this worthy, this liberal, this valuable citizen. And like him remember too, that "an honest man's the noblest work of God." 'Tis not in the power of every man to be rich, but all men may be honest.

be ashamed even if Solomon himself were passing by. Every passing traveller, no sooner casts his eye over such a farm, than he honors the proprietor in his heart.

A life of pleasure and dissipation, is an enemy to health, fortune, and character.

And as we bid the year adieu,
Let us our journey past review,
And let our errors past suffice
To make us for the future wise.

Total list '38,	$2,188,247 94	Silas H. Jenison,	24,738
Population 1830,	280,679	Wm C. Bradley,	19,194

NOTE. The grand list for the towns is given, with the exception of odd cents, on the list of 1838, for state tax, including half the two folds. The total of the counties includes the complete list of the several towns, except the odd cents in the total. Our limits would not admit the giving the cents. The grand total embraces the whole list complete, including half the two folds.

JUDICIARY DEPARTMENT.

The Judiciary powers of the State are vested in a Supreme Court consisting of five justices, chosen every year by the Legislature; a County Court, consisting of three justices, the chief justice being one of the justices of the Supreme Court, chosen in the same manner, who hold courts twice a year in their respective counties; and justices of the peace appointed in the same manner.
